There are now in the hands of the bankers and brokers of this city about $25,000 of Louisiana State notes. These notes were issued under authority which high legal talent has pronounced insufficient.

When, not many months since, the city attempted to effect a loan, making a large deposit of these notes as collateral, operations of learned counsel adverse to the legality of their issue prevented the loan.

It is not unlikely, however, that the new State government may cure the defects and provide in some proper manner at some proper time for the redemption of these notes. When that question shall arise we shall have an opinion to express.

Beside these State notes are outstanding some $825,000 of State warrants.

By special orders, No. 40, headquarters Fifth Military District, issued February 23, 1868, General Hancock ordered that from that date all licenses on trades, professions, etc., the revenues, dues, and taxes of the State of Louisiana shall be payable and collected in United States legal tender treasury notes.

This was absolutely necessary to provide funds for the current expenses of the State. In a few days military authority will expire, and with it the force of that order.

If the new administration desires to see in the treasury of the State funds which may aid to carry it through the next weeks its existence until taxation, or loan, or financial ability in other directions may provide a permanent system for adoption it should adopt a measure similar to that established by the order referred to.

To meet the emergency was introduced yesterday in the House a bill providing that from and after its passage nothing should be received at the treasury save greenbacks until future legislation. This bill should become a law at the earliest day.

The Assembly may pass appropriation bills by unanimous vote, but unless a barrier is placed before this questionable "hoarding deb" their "per diem" will only come to them after being "absorbed" by the brokers in a previous election.

These who served in the Convention may know something of this experience. We trust that a unanimous vote will at the earliest possible day enact this bill into a law.

THE PROSPECT.

Should the abundant promise of rain in this vicinity during the past few days prove heavy showers in the agricultural districts of the State, we shall have cause for much rejoicing. Encouraging as have been the prospects up to this time for an abundant yield of all our principal staples, there can be no longer a doubt that much generous disappointment await our planters should the severe drought continue.

NEWSPAPER DIFFICULTIES IN ALABAMA.

The military authorities in Alabama have found it necessary to suppress a newspaper of strong rebel proclivities, which was published in Tuscaloosa by a man named Ryland Randolph. The editor has once before been tried by a military commission, sitting at Selma, by which he was acquitted.

being of a more aggravating character than the others. For this the Monitor has been suppressed.

We frequently see in our exchanges articles for which the paper deserves the execution of all good citizens; but it is an act of doubtful propriety to forcibly suppress a newspaper, however bad it may be. In such cases all the worst adherents of the editor are loud in their clamors, while the better portion of the community, although rejoiced at the abatement of a nuisance, are less demonstrative, and the erroneous idea obtains that the editor is sustained by the voice of the community.

HON. C. W. LOWELL

The Hon. Charles W. Lowell who has just been elected Speaker of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of this State, was born at Farmington, Maine, in the year 1834.

He was educated at Bowdoin College, and afterward entered upon the study and practice of the profession of law in the town of Foxcroft. In 1861-62 he served in the Legislature of Maine.

In February, 1863, he was commissioned as a Captain in General Ullman's brigade, United States volunteers, and with that command shortly afterward came to this State, where he served until March, 1867, when he was mustered out of service, bearing rank as Major and Brevet Colonel.

Since that time he has resided in the parish of Caddo, which he now represents in our General Assembly.

Colonel Lowell is a gentleman of fine presence, easy address, and possessed of much more than ordinary ability. He is open to the objection of being an extreme Radical, but the present House seems to bear such afflictions with becoming resignation.

The experience of yesterday leads us to believe that a wise selection of Speaker has been made, and that the efficiency of the incumbent will do much to expedite the business of the House.

In the morning issues of the Democratic press we were informed yesterday that from three to five thousand white men, with lowering brows and stern determination stamped upon their faces, had assembled in the neighborhood of the State House on the day previous for the purpose of enforcing admission to their seats in the Legislature of the Democratic members elect.

In the evening issues, by some mysterious freak of nature, these crowds which thronged Mechanics' Institute and the streets adjacent, were all classified as "negroes, who evidently had no duties drawing them there."

This is a very weak invention of an enemy which had planned an assault for a designated hour, that had men detailed for beginning the onslaught in the Legislative halls, and were deterred only by a force of soldiery and police whose arrangements entirely disconcerted their previously arranged plans.

We again thank an All-wise Providence for averting a collision. It would have been a sad day for New Orleans and Louisiana, but more especially the instigators of the bellicose plot, had the programme marked out been fairly inaugurated.

Judging from an editorial item of the Houma Civic Guard there must be several ex-soldiers of the Union Army in Terrebonne parish who vote the Republican ticket, and ask their colored fellow citizens to do likewise. It terms such conduct "deviant," and concludes its argument with the following mild and persuasive expressions, which are well calculated to induce immigration to Louisiana. We quote:

"To these white men who are thus continually putting devils into the heads of the freedmen we have a word to say. Go on, if you will, with your devils until you finally succeed in bringing on a war of races; but you will be sure to be the first victims. You are spotted, and nothing will save your spotted souls from perdition and your hated carcasses from the birds of the air but peace."

It is necessary to add that the very next paragraph records the murder of a colored man. "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. He is no great man, so 'tis in revenge."

Had Byron lived to see the great promise of a city like New Orleans deserted by the sex whose praise he loved to sing, as Canal street was on Wednesday last, he might have realized how gratifying a relief the "eye of beauty" might become. Beauty's presence there would have been a harbinger of peace; and the delight with which the reappearance of the belles of the Crescent City was yesterday received gave evidence that, "whether black or blue," their flashing glances were in great request. May they never have cause again to absent themselves from their favorite resort.

Lawlessness in Texas. The War Department has received from General Reynolds, commanding in Texas, letters showing that there is a great deal of crime in that State, and also an order has been issued in the matter, of which the following is the material part: "Reliable information received at these headquarters shows that in many counties in Texas organized bands of lawless men are committing murders, and otherwise violating the laws and disturbing the peace of the country. It is therefore ordered that all citizens who are increased diligence to arrest parties so offending. For this purpose military aid will be rendered on application to any post commander in this State. Information with regard to offenders is requested from all citizens. Such information may be sent direct to these headquarters, or to the nearest military post, when such officers shall be discharged their duty. Evidence to this effect is requested, to the end that proper steps may be taken in the premises."

There is such general and anxious inquiry for General Grant's testimony before the committee of Congress which includes him with regard to the proper treatment of the rebels, President Johnson's actions, his own conduct, etc.; that we respectably inform you that we have had the honor to receive a copy of his testimony, and that we are prepared to furnish you with a copy of it, if you will send us a check for the amount of the copy. It is a very interesting and valuable document, and one which we are sure will be read with interest by all our readers.

On the twenty-fourth ultimo Mrs. Boyd, of Mansfield, Ohio, received what purported to be a letter from a man named Lewis, of Pennsylvania, informing her of the death of his brother. She went to the post office the next day and found her brother alive and well. On returning home Saturday evening she found that during her absence her private room, which she had rented to a man named Lewis, had been robbed of a large sum of money, and that the man named Lewis had been seen in the neighborhood of the robbery. She immediately reported the matter to the authorities, and a man named Lewis was arrested and charged with the robbery.

Outrage in Mississippi.

The Associated Press made the statement a day or two since that no case of violence had been reported in Mississippi since the election commenced. This narration of facts from the Vicksburg Republican directly contradicts the Associated Press assertion.

From Yazoo county we have intelligence that a very outrageous case of violence had taken place in the lower part of the county. A perfect reign of terror has been organized there. Two negroes colored men, said to have been engaged in distributing Republican tickets, was arrested and held in prison during the day, but at night was taken out and soon afterward killed. Shots were heard near where his body was found in the river—when taken out it was discovered that his throat had been cut, and his hands and feet bound.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

New Orleans, June 11, 1868. To the Republicans of Louisiana:

It is known to you that your State Convention, which met in this city in the month of May, was the largest and most harmonious ever assembled in Louisiana. In the discharge of its legitimate duty it appointed a State Central Committee consisting of ten members from the parish of Orleans, and two from each other parish, one-half of whom are white, and one-half colored citizens. The State Central Committee met and elected the Hon. S. B. Packard, of Orleans, President, and the Hon. William Vigers, of New Orleans, Secretary. By virtue of a resolution of the State Convention the State Central Committee elected from its own members an Executive Committee of ten members, two from each congressional district, with power to act for the Central Committee between its sessions, and this Executive Committee now has the honor of addressing you.

It is our agreeable duty to congratulate you on the auspicious result of our State election. We have ratified a constitution which guarantees to all life and liberty and equality before the law, and we have elected State officers and members of the Legislature who will faithfully see the constitution carried into practice. We congratulate you on the moral certainty that the civil law will soon be enforced by loyal men throughout Louisiana, our State be admitted into the Union of States, and our people become peaceable, prosperous, and happy.

We also congratulate you on the nomination by the National Republican Convention of General U. S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax for President and Vice-President of the United States. The hero who led our armies to victory and the patriot who led our statesmen in council will now lead the Republican party to a complete and glorious triumph. We have the satisfaction to remember that your delegates participated in their nomination, and that your State Central Committee now forms a part of the organization of the great Republican party, and has its representative in the National Republican Executive Committee.

We also congratulate you on the unity and harmony which now prevail in the Republican party of Louisiana. It is inevitable that there should be in all parties disappointed aspirants for office or official position, who are dissatisfied with every thing which is not to their personal advantage, and there are deserters from all armies and all parties. But these are a few in numbers here that they can do only good to our organization by inspiring with renewed zeal all good and true men. We confidently predict that at the coming election in November the Republican party will carry this State for Grant and Colfax, and the whole Republican ticket, by at least twenty-five thousand majority.

Your State Central Committee, of which the Hon. S. B. Packard is president, and the Hon. William Vigers is secretary, is perfectly organized and ready for the fall campaign. We urge you to perfect your parish organizations and your clubs, and be ready for the contest. Hold your club meetings as often as is consistent with your other duties, elect true and reliable men as presidents and secretaries, and place your very best men in your parish and other committees. Above all things remember that the great principles of liberty, justice, and equality, for which we are contending, are of vastly more importance than any individual gain or loss, and all true patriots will sacrifice their personal feelings and interests when it is necessary to advance the glorious principles and truths represented by the Republican party. Firmly believing in your patriotism, zeal, and determination, we confidently expect you, our friends, and fellow citizens and comrades in this glorious work to do your duty, and your whole duty, in organizing the party for the coming election. We need but this one more glorious political victory, and the loyalty and liberty and rights of the citizens of Louisiana will rest on a foundation which can never be shaken.

Yours, fraternally, O. J. DUNN, Chairman State Executive Committee. N. Unpublished, Secretary.
