HOW THE CHINESE WORK.

Visit to a Plantation. On Wednesday, we passed near the Mill-laud plantation, now owned by Mr. Merrill, in conjunction with several other gentlemen. We took the occasion to ascertain how the Chinese laborers, who, a few weeks ago, came down the river, and are now at work on the plantation, were doing, and how far their employers were satisfied with the experiment of Chinese labor on the sugar field.

HOW THE CHINESE WORK.

Visit to a Plantation. On Wednesday, we passed near the Mill-laud plantation, now owned by Mr. Merrill, in conjunction with several other gentlemen. We took the occasion to ascertain how the Chinese laborers, who, a few weeks ago, came down the river, and are now at work on the plantation, were doing, and how far their employers were satisfied with the experiment of Chinese labor on the sugar field.

It has been mentioned before in this paper that the Chinese appear unwilling to engage as laborers on plantations or farms, unless in large numbers. This may easily be accounted for by obvious reasons. In addition to this, it seems that in their work, they pay little attention to any directions given, unless such directions come through the medium of their head man.

The counsel stated that the testimony had been taken down in short hand by O. Nixon, Jr., and afterward written out in full, or in long hand. It made about 250, or at most 300 pages.

Counsel offered him $250, which he thought was more than the work was worth, and Mr. Nixon, Jr., refused to receive it, stating that he was going away and would leave the written testimony with his father, J. O. Nixon, Sr., Mr. Nixon, Sr., also refused to receive the amount referred to.

John Chinaman seems to entertain a very lively sense of his own interest in any bargain he makes; and the man of the Flowery Kingdom is not a whit behind the descendants of Canaan's conquerors in business shrewdness. He has a keen relish, too, for getting hold of the right end of the asparagus—having the best of a bargain. This was shown by some keen maneuvering to arrange the system of labor for five days and a half each week, while getting paid for six days.

Another said this colored man need trouble himself about John Chinaman, "cause you see, boss, dat any man's got a head on his shoulders, an's willin' to use er arms 'n' leg, kin allus git wuck in de country, ez de law allus plenty to do." One old auntie, who looked as if born in the year one, said the Chinese "very good people, don't do nuffin to nobody; mind der own business."

Generally, there was no feeling of jealousy among the colored folks in the neighborhood of the Chinese, and the prospect seems to promise success.

Our Firemen at Mobile. The Mobile evening Tribune, of Friday, says: "The New Orleans firemen arrived by the Mobile and Ohio passenger train this morning, and were taken care of by the Mobile delegation. The excursionists were escorted to Johnny Powers, where the proprietor of 'the Shakespeare' had a bowl of punch in waiting for them. After this they were turned loose to 'go and shake themselves' wuck, change linen, etc., and at half-past eleven o'clock were taken in hand by Phoenix No. 6's boys, who 'had something for them' at the engine house on Franklin street. This evening, at half-past four o'clock, an excursion trip to Frascati (Mr. Fonde, superintendent of the Royal street road, having kindly placed a suitable number of cars at their disposal), is on the tapis.

Those who are on pleasure bent should remember that the first of a series of "Sociables," under the auspices of the leading citizens of Amite City, will take place at Clark's Hotel to-morrow evening. Any one who has ever stopped at the Amite City Hotel will remember the genial proprietor, Mr. Clarke. Those desiring to visit Amite City on the occasion can go by the Jackson railroad train, which leaves the depot at a quarter past four o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Parties can return on Tuesday morning by the seven o'clock train, which will arrive in New Orleans at eleven o'clock.

The Sheriff of the parish of Orleans will sell at auction to-morrow, at ten o'clock A. M., at his warehouse, No. 74 Ann street, between Royal and Bourbon, Second District, the contents of a boarding house and coffee-house, and at five o'clock P. M., on the premises, the contents of a distillery, situated at the corner of Teichpoulas and Religious streets, First District.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—St. James Congregation, which recently met on Gravier street, will hereafter have the use of Turner Hall, on Derbigny street, between Customhouse and Bienville. There will be preaching at the hall this morning at eleven o'clock, by Rev. S. P. Anderson, of St. Louis, Missouri.

William A. Freeman, a messenger in the third auditor's office, at Washington, has been designated to a clerkship in that office. Mr. Freeman is a colored man, who was chosen at the last election to represent the first ward in the city council of that city. His clerical abilities are good, and he will, doubtless, render efficient service to the Government in his new position.

Elm Hall plantation, Assumption parish, was sold at auction last week to Mrs. A. E. Kitzinger for $160,000. One-half of the Rice land plantation was sold to Dr. F. C. Ewing for $55,000. One-half of the Ariel plantation to Mrs. Dr. Ewing for $15,000.

Elections will be held this fall in all the States except Oregon, California, New Hampshire, Connecticut, and Rhode Island. Sixteen States are to choose United States Senators, and five have already done so.

A building is soon to be put up in Albany that is to cover ninety-six freight cars, and will be the largest car building on the continent.

Internal Revenue Receipts $578,000—Absence of Cabinet Officers—American Mail for Europe by Inman Steamers—No New War Developments—Faint Hopes of Peace Vanished.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Internal revenue receipts to-day, $578,000. Secretary Fish has gone to New York. Attorney-General Akerman will go to Georgia shortly.

The Inman line of steamers will carry all American mails to Europe. No fighting up to the closing hour, and no new developments. The faint hope of peace entertained last evening in diplomatic circles has vanished.

It appears that on the twenty-fifth of November last these same property holders had taken out an injunction before Judge Cooley, of the Sixth District Court, prohibiting the Jackson Railroad from laying the tracks along the street referred to.

Subsequently, by an act of the Legislature, at its special session on the sixteenth of March, 1870, it was enacted that the Jackson Railroad should have the privilege of laying their track along St. Joseph street to the river—thus overriding the injunction of Judge Cooley.

In view of this act of the Legislature, the railroad company went to work on the eighteenth instant, tearing up the pavement on St. Joseph street, with the view of laying down cross ties and rails to the river, and on the same day enjoined the property holders from interfering with them in carrying on the work.

Thereupon, the property holders took a rule on the managers of the road to show cause why they should not be punished for a contempt in disobeying the injunction issued by Judge Cooley.

The official journal this morning publishes the following proclamation from the Emperor to the people of France.

Frenchmen—There are events in the life of a people, of solemn moment, when the national honor is violently excited, when the people are irresistibly and irresistibly raised above all other interests, and applies itself with a single purpose of directing the destiny of a nation.

Prussia, to whom we have given evidence during and since the war of 1866, of the most conciliatory dispositions, has held our good will for no account, and has returned our forbearance by encroachments. She has accused distrust in all quarters, necessitating exaggerated armaments, and has made of Europe a camp, where reigns disquiet and fears of the morrow.

A final incident has disclosed the instability of the international understanding, and shown the gravity of the situation. In the presence of her new pretensions Prussia was made to understand our claims; they were stated, and followed with contemptuous treatment; our country manifested profound displeasure at this action, and quickly the war cry resounded from one end of France to the other. There remains for us nothing but to confide our destinies to the chance of arms. We do not make war upon Germany, whose independence we respect.

We pledge ourselves that the people composing the great army which we have dispatched freely of their destinies. As for us, we demand the establishment of a state of things guaranteeing our security, and assuring for the future. We wish to conquer a durable peace based on the true interests of the people, and assist in abolishing that precarious condition of things where all nations are forced to employ their resources in arming against each other.

The glorious flag of France, which we once more raise in the face of our challenges, is the same which has borne over Europe the civilizing ideas of our great revolution. It represents the same principles—it will inspire the same devotion. From to-day the responsibility upon Prussia, the head of the valiant army which is animated by the love of country and a devotion to duty. That army knows its worth; more, it has seen victory follow its footsteps in the great battles of the globe. Take with me my son. Despite his tender years he knows the duties his name imposes upon him, and he is proud to bear his part in the defense of those who love their country. May God bless our efforts; a great people defending a just cause is invincible.

(Signed.) NAPOLEON. When Napoleon received the Corps Legislatif at the Tuilleries yesterday, President Schneider's condition of things where all nations are forced to employ their resources in arming against each other.

SIRE—The Corps Legislatif has terminated its labors. It has unanimously voted all subsidies and laws needed for the national defense, thus giving a signal proof of its patriotism.

If it is true that not he who declares war, but he who causes it is the real author, there will be but one voice among the nations to lay the responsibility upon Prussia, who, maddened by unhelped success, and encouraged by our silence, and desire to preserve for Europe the benefits of peace, has conspired against our security and attacked our honor.

In such a case, France knows her duty. Ardent hopes follow you to the army, which, accompanied by your son, you take command of. Behind you and behind our army, so accustomed to carry high the standard of France, is the nation. Remit without uneasiness the regency to your august spouse. She will lay the responsibility upon Prussia, who, maddened by unhelped success, and encouraged by our silence, and desire to preserve for Europe the benefits of peace, has conspired against our security and attacked our honor.
