

New Orleans Republican.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE UNITED STATES OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF NEW ORLEANS

AUCTION SALES THIS DAY.

BY PLACIDE J. SPEAR, at 12 o'clock, at St. Charles Auction Exchange, square of ground (thirty lots) bounded by Canal, Customhouse, St. Patrick and Olympic streets—succession of Mrs. J. B. St. Armand.

Local Intelligence.

THEY MENTION.—Henry Schaffman not only interfered with Officer McLaughlin on St. Charles street, but threatened to kill him as dead as the animals that came over in Noah's ark.

Miguel G. Begues was arrested for having stolen three dollars in specie from Henry Arnold while on the steamship Grange, lying in a port of Spanish Honduras. As the crime charged was committed a few inches beyond our jurisdiction, accused will most likely be permitted to go and sin in some more.

C. H. Hodge enters complaint that John Moore stole twenty-nine current dollars from him, from off the steamship Florida, head of Caliope street. We will hear more of Moore on the seventeenth.

By the explosion of a coal oil lamp in Mr. Gresham's residence, Algiers, Tuesday night, a disastrous conflagration would have followed but for the timely assistance of citizens.

Mr. Goroche, father of the lad who was shot on the Fair Ground Sunday, places the blame on the keeper of the gallery.

The body of Joseph Winner, thirty years old, was found at the head of Conti street last evening. Death was caused by intemperance.

RETURNS BY RECORDERS.—The following are the returns by the different Recorders for the past week:

- First District, Recorder Houghton, $312.50.
Second District, Recorder Stas, —.
Third District, Recorder Masicot, $127.50.
Fourth District, Recorder Weber, $115.
Fifth District, Recorder Dumont, $88.50.
Sixth District, Recorder Campbell, $20.
The sum published last week as returned by Recorder Masicot, was incorrect, it should have been ninety-one dollars, instead of forty. The total for the above is $543.50, not including returns of Recorder Stas.

MAINED FOR LIFE.—Several days ago two young lunters were shooting in the rear of the Second District, when they both fired at a white crane, but missed, their charges passing on and lodging in the head and breast of an old fisherman named James Garrein. He was badly wounded, the sight of one eye being entirely gone, and his physical condition quite shattered. He found one of the hunters, and yesterday had him before Recorder Stas. There was no proof that the shooting was done with malice, hence the case was dismissed on the young men promising to give the unfortunate some financial assistance.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we record the death of Robert Pringle, one of our most charitable and well-known citizens. For many years he lived a generous life at the corner of Claiborne and Gasquet streets, surrounded by many devoted friends. By strict attention to business in business hours he secured a competency, but was never known to forget the needy; his hand was always open as the day, and hundreds of unfortunates will mourn his departure. His loss will be felt by good and bad, rich and poor.

ILLUSTRATED.—The police office occupied by Captain McCann, Jackson Square, was always noted for its cleanliness, if not goldness, but recently the place has so changed that an old timer would not know it. It is reformed and reconstructed, painted and pictured. The front office is left plain for general business, but the rear room, for the Captain's privacy, is really unique. The lower walls are paneled, each panel appropriately illuminated with some article pertaining to police business, besides a pointed Admiral Farragut and a monitor, all painted quite artistically. An oil painting hanging on the wall shows how the Federal fleet passed Fort Jackson. In the transept over the middle door is a fine combination of artistic machinery, including real and fanciful, driven by an invisible power—wind, created by Dumas. We mean that the machinery, not the wind, was created by Dumas. The rooms are now cheerful, and officers are not impelled to seek more enticing places.

OUR CITY TELEGRAPH.—Gradually the usefulness of the fire alarm and police telegraph is being tested. A few days ago a line was run out to the head of Canal street, and Fred Hyatt placed in charge of the instrument. Lines have been constructed to the Workhouse and Charity Hospital a long time, but no instruments were in those important institutions. The want has long been felt, and at last supplied. Chester's improved dial is to be placed in each building, and they are so simple that almost any person can manipulate them. They, of course, are in constant connection with other stations, and will save a vast amount of time and labor. The condition of patients in the Charity Hospital can be readily ascertained at police headquarters, while the Workhouse warden will be quickly informed that the charity wagon is needed in a distant section. These improvements were greatly needed, and the additional expense is scarcely worth mention.

A POOR FISHERMAN.—On the eighth instant Mr. Cameron deposited fifty dollars with William Ramps, barkeeper in a St. Charles street saloon, to be handed to a gentleman who would call for it. The money was called for, and the dispenser of liquids protested its ignorance. As there were witnesses to the transaction it became necessary to arrest the delinquent, and Special Officer Harris took him in on the charge of breach of trust.

REGISTRATION IN THE TENTH WARD.—We called at the Tenth Ward registration office on Tuesday morning, and his friend John C. Weaver, and his skilled and polite assistant, busily engaged in taking names and issuing papers. The number of applicants is not large, so that there is a good time to register, before the rush begins. We learned that 528 certificates had been issued. A report was circulated that Mr. Weaver received a fee of one dollar from each applicant, which would be an illegal exaction. The Register will very cheerfully pay such a sum to the man who started the falsehood, if he can catch him. There is no fee demanded by any of the registers.

BASE BALL MATCH.—The Aloe Base Ball Club, of Algiers, and the Lone Star Club, of New Orleans, played a closely contested match last Sunday afternoon on the right bank. The result was 21 runs and 27 outs for the Aloe, and 20 runs and 27 outs for the Lone Stars. This victory of the Aloe over the Lone Stars is too close to settle any question of superiority. The clubs must try it again.

RECORDED DUMONT'S COURT.—Fifth District (Algiers).—Frank Oser is a respectable butcher, residing in Algiers, and C. Schaff is a shoemaker in the same town. Schaff credited a servant of Oser's with shoes on her own account and demanded payment of the employer. Oser refused payment, asserting that he had nothing to do with the servant's dealings for clothing. Whereupon Schaff went to the house of Oser, in his absence, and thrusting his hand into the door, spoke language such as is never used in polite circles. Oser went for Schaff with a cowhide and gave him the benefit of the same. Hence ad vivit, arrest of Oser, his examination and commitment for trial to the First District Court.

DOGS IN JEOPARDY.—Such a city ordinance, so unhealthily to dogs, which are not taxpayers, still continues in full force, though the pound keepers do not have so many canine customers as they had at the start. From ten to fifteen dogs are, however, brought daily to each pound.

INCOME FROM THE CITY PONDS.—Since the incoming of the present city administration on the twelfth of last April, there have been eight hundred and eighty-two releases of animals of all sorts from the different pounds in the city. The average cost of each is (at a low estimate) two dollars each, so that the city treasury has received $1764 to defray, in part, the expenses of the dog ordinance.

POLITICAL.

Twelfth Ward Republicans.—The following resolutions were offered by Mr. Paul Bruce, and unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Republicans of the Twelfth Ward, on the twelfth instant:

Resolved, That we hereby indorse the nomination of R. H. W. Walker for Senator, and we pledge him our undivided support.

Resolved, That we discontinue any and all attempts to divide the party, as detrimental to the success of the party, and to the establishment of the principles we have struggled for many years to maintain and perpetuate.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the New Orleans Tribune, and Louisiana State Register.

First Ward German Republicans.—The key-stone of the edifice of our Republican party has at last been found, and will add glory and honor to our German Republic in the ranks of the city. All Republicans living in the first ward will be glad to hear that there was on Tuesday evening, a very animated and effective meeting of the German Republicans, and in the Chicago platform and the principles of the Republican party.

Judge John P. Becker deserves credit for his liberality and kindness in offering his residence to the German Republicans, and in bringing together all German Republicans of the First Ward into one body. The success in organizing a German Republican Club of the First Ward may truly be said to be a new era in the creation will reflect the honor and esteem upon those who looked together, in order to show that there are also Republicans, and trusty ones, in the First Ward.

The following gentlemen addressed the assembly in very witty and fervent language: Robert Mead, Judge Becker, Benjamin Schneider, John Knap, Felix Louis Schneider, Captain Shanook, and others. There was nothing but fraternal cord and harmonious dealing prevailing during the meeting.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to maintain the regular nominees of our representatives in Convention assembled.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to support the regular nominees of our representatives in Convention assembled.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to support the regular nominees of our representatives in Convention assembled.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to support the regular nominees of our representatives in Convention assembled.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to support the regular nominees of our representatives in Convention assembled.

C. C. Packard received one vote, W. H. Carter three votes and F. Butler ten votes. So Mr. F. Butler was duly declared the candidate of the Republican party in the Fifteenth District for State Senator. The meeting then adjourned.

At a recent Republican meeting in Clinton, addressed by Hon. C. B. Darrall, Hon. J. P. Newsham, and others, the following resolution, among others, was adopted:

Resolved, That we indorse the nominations made by the State Convention for State officers, and also the nomination of the Hon. C. B. Darrall, our present member of Congress, and pledge ourselves to give them our undivided support at the November election.

Suggested by a Paragraph.—New York is a curious city, and her ways are past finding out. The same may be truly said of all cities, for where man is there is the mystery of passion, of hate, of love, devotion and suffering. An item is just now afloat on the sea of news paragraphs, which excites us somewhat, because there is evidently a something about it which makes us feel that we have hold on a mystery. A rich East India merchant stopped at a grand hotel in New York, and his baggage consisted of six or seven large boxes containing gold, besides trunks and carpet bags, he was assigned to a first-class room on the fourth floor. His valises were placed in his own room. He could talk no language but that of Hindoostan and his intercourse with the people about the hotel was consequently limited. He kept regular hours, and was all the time temperate and gentlemanly. One night he attended the theatre where an East India play was being represented, and he made some public protest against the way in which the Sepoys were represented on the stage. He was arrested and taken to the calaboose, but was soon released.

It was whispered about, however, that he was insane. Shortly afterwards he was again arrested as an insane man and sent to an asylum. His money was taken in charge by a guardian appointed over it by the court. At least, it was said that it was taken in charge, but it is also said that the hotel took charge of it. At least, the Hindoo stranger is in a lunatic asylum, and his money, said to amount to $100,000, is in—well, neither we nor the public can tell just now where it is.

Is that not a curious story? Can any body read that relation without feeling the sensation of fear creep over him? We must confess that all our sense of dread was alive at once. It was that lonely stranger, isolated from communion with the world, poisoned in his own room by one of those slow but fearful agents which work so slowly but so surely to tear down the mind and to create disease and madness. Did those boxes of gold, always in sight, forever inviting robbery, buy the dreadful dose which made one lunatic and one poisoner more in the great city? And if they did, is this the only case? Have not others fallen in the same hotel? Are other houses prepared to tell the secrets that have been hid by midnight, or which are covered up in guilty consciences by silent tongues. Let New York answer.

Feud and Diabolical Murder.—Near the town of Shreveport, Natchez county, Mississippi, a week ago last Friday night, occurred one of the most atrocious murders that have ever taken place in our knowledge in many a year. The victim, whose name was Hully Jack—not a very euphonious name—was an intelligent, quiet, honest and industrious man, and was, when everybody respected for his good qualities. In the forepart of the night named, two white men came to his cabin, which was a little off the main road, and asked him to get up and come down the road to help put the tyre on the wheel of a wagon, which they said had run on. Without suspecting anything wrong, he started with the men, and after going some sixty yards from the house, the men apparently commenced leading him with heavy clubs and stabbing him with knives, with a view to his murder. He tried to make a noise, but after having his arms broken, and receiving several stabs, he started to run, and screamed as he started, and they then fired on him with their revolvers, and within twenty feet of the first attack, the blood on the ground showed, the devils incarnate then mounted their horses and rode away, and have not been apprehended, though the authorities are doing all they can to catch the bloody fiends. The screams of the murdered man alarmed his wife, and she, with others, made search for him, and found him dead, and lying on the ground, with his head broken, and his body covered with blood. What motive could have induced the commission of the deed, the man being of the character first described, is beyond conjecture, except it is traced to a religious fanaticism, or some other diabolical and infernal motive. It is a long list of such acts. Something must certainly be done to check the recurrence of such outrages, or the country will become a howling wilderness, and chaos and old night will come again.

The German Fair.—The opening night of the fair at Turner's Hall was very creditable. The taste of the ladies, who, with their happy smiles and pleasant words, made the affair more like a sociable home-gathering than a mixture of strangers. The receipts, we understand, were quite encouraging for a commencement. It was well to have stands delineated over them with "Loser Fritz," "Gentle Mother," "Kneeling Wilhelm," and "Wicked Albert." There were two important omissions. There was no stand to the prevailing spirit and object of the fair—a stand, designated for the suffering soldiers of both nations—although, undoubtedly, the object of the fair is for that purpose. Neither did we see the splendid transparency, designed and painted for the fair. The absence was very unfortunate, and caused some grief to be withheld. As is often said, it was somewhat like the play, "Hamlet" without Hamlet. That the omission should be corrected is the wish of every one.

The receipts last evening, the second night of the fair, were largely in excess of the evening previous, and we hope the improvements will continue, and that multitudes will go there this evening and liberally expend their finances for the benefit of the wounded European soldiers.

The Cincinnati (Ohio) Courier, a Democratic German daily, has a sharp article contrasting the tone of Republican and Democratic journals. It conveys the former to have extended an ungentle recognition of the renegade in the east, and a hearty sympathy with Germany, while the latter has heaped "abuses," and "venomous lies" upon Prussia. It therefore charges the Democratic party with ignorance of and spite toward the cause of liberal civilization in Germany. The Courier expresses the general German sentiment throughout the country, and the result will be manifested at the approaching election.

John B. Lee is announced by his friends as a candidate for Administrator of Assessments at the approaching election, subject to the nomination of the Democratic Convention.
