SHANG MCLAUGHLIN

THE SHOOTING AFFRAY. PARTICULARS OF THE AFFAIR.

St. Charles street, between Poydras and Canal, had but little to talk of but the shooting affair which took place in the second story of No. 66, between twelve and one o'clock Friday night.

The parties involved were found in this paper. Information reached us that McLaughlin visited the same saloon Thursday night, and fired a pistol in one of the rooms, creating considerable annoyance, and for the time dispersing male and female pleasure seekers.

It is not known whether Shang discharged the weapon with evil intent or not, but from that incident grew the affair of Friday night.

Billy Eademore, one of the lessees of No. 66, remonstrated with Shang for the disturbance, and there was an end.

Friday or Friday night Eademore was warned that McLaughlin intended repeating the visit, or something to that effect, and that he would perhaps create further disturbance.

A few minutes after midnight Shang entered the rooms, somewhat intoxicated. We did not hear that he made any demonstrations, but he had not remained in the room long before four or five shots, in rapid succession, were poured into him.

Instantly all was confusion, the beerhouse girls, loafers and devotees of keno, either striving to escape or to ascertain the reason for shooting.

Fortunately, Sergeant Flanagan was near the place, and as he ascended the stairs, Shang, badly wounded, was trying to make his way out.

The officer, not knowing the condition of affairs, took him prisoner, until he was made aware of Shang's position, when he sent him to the Charity Hospital in a cab.

The sergeant, assisted by patrolmen, endeavored to keep every person in the several rooms until he could see the situation for himself, for he was bent on arresting the man who had done the shooting.

The wounded man told him that "Keno Billy" was the one. Instantly entering a front room, he saw that some one was pursuing Eademore (or Adm.), endeavoring to shoot him with a revolver that missed fire every click.

Flanagan captured both of them; also all the others in the room, simply to have them as witnesses. His action is worthy of mention.

Having saved Eademore from his pursuer, the sergeant and some patrolmen took the party to the first precinct stationhouse, where Captain Schreiber released those held as witnesses, to appear when notified, taking their addresses.

Yesterday accused was arraigned before Recorder Houghton and pleaded not guilty to the charge made by Sergeant Flanagan, of shooting and dangerously wounding McLaughlin.

He was remanded to prison until Shang's condition shall be definitely ascertained. Last night the hospital surgeons were of the opinion that he could survive, although one bullet had given them considerable trouble.

Academy of Music. This evening the Gaitie Comique Groupe, at the Academy, will present new attractions that possess the rarest fascinations.

The performances embrace comedy, song, dance, aerial trapeze, double click dance, banjo manipulations, Teutonic specialties, the original London Punch and Judy, ballet sensations, thrilling gymnastics, and a laughable afterpiece.

At five o'clock last evening Andrew Fosse, a Swede, was drowned in the river. He was going on board the steamship Margaret, when he slipped and fell into the water. His body was not recovered.

John McHuron, second mate of the bark Waterman, was nearly crushed to death yesterday on the vessel, by the topmast coming down on the run.

The liquor law passed by the last Legislature of New Hampshire went into effect on Thursday last. It provides that any damage done by an intoxicated person is recoverable from the one selling the liquor, and that any neglect on the part of the proper authorities to prosecute violations may be punished by a fine of from $50 to $500.

The iron-trank brig Novelti has completed six voyages from Havana to Boston since the twenty-seventh of last January, and has brought to the latter port since that date 543,944 gallons of molasses, in bulk, in good order. She is a vessel of 360 tons register.

We have received from Henry M. Small, Esq., agent, a late copy of the True Knights, a well-filled and spirited journal, devoted to the Knights of Pythias, published at Philadelphia. It contains an article highly complimentary to William E. Fitzgerald, the Deputy Grand Chancellor, and to the Lodge under his charge in this jurisdiction.

The Texas Gazette tells this deer story: Thursday morning a daring buck of the emeralds started gracefully along the levee in front of the hotel about breakfast time, and after strutting at the evidences of civilization around him, like the savage in the frontispiece of the geographies, he galloped away to his native jungles.

A shot or two from pistols were fired at him, but he escaped unscathed.

Petersburg, Va., has had her first mixed jury of whites and blacks. The Sheriff took care to have colored men upon the grand as well as the petit jury. The sight was novel, but they seemed to get along pretty well together.

A party of respectable Chicago ladies have formed a society for reclaiming young men, and they go about the streets nights and pick up young men who show signs of dissipation, invite them to their houses, and two from pistols were fired at him, but he escaped unscathed.

A curious confessor who had listened to with as much surprise as attention, to a young woman who had disclosed the state of her mind to him, at last inquired her name. With a presence of mind peculiar to herself, she replied: "My good father, my name is no sin."

MYSTERY OF PIERRE BERTIN

HOW HE ESCAPED THE LAW. A NOTED THIEF TURNED LOOSE.

In cities where the people insist that there shall be a government of laws, such an act as discharging from the custody of the officers of the law, a noted thief like Pierre Bertin by the judge of any inferior court would not be tolerated.

The people would rise in the majesty of their power and hurl from the bench him who thus did a great wrong to the community.

Since Pierre Bertin was pardoned by the Executive of the State, the press has discussed the character of this noted thief and burglar, and there was hardly a man in the community not perfectly familiar with his criminal record.

Proof, indisputable, proof that could not be controverted, was at hand to connect him with a bold and daring burglary. Affidavit was made before Recorder Houghton, charging Bertin with a specified offense.

The witnesses to sustain this affidavit were summoned to appear. The ease was fixed for Friday morning. The affiant having recovered a five thousand dollar diamond, traced directly to Pierre Bertin, thought he was in a fair way to convict the chief burglar and to recover a portion of the balance of his property.

Sleeping serenely Thursday night, he was awakened next morning, on opening the city papers, to find that the felon was let loose; that the Judge of the Sixth District Court had discharged him from custody.

The remedy against similar outrages is plain—to create a public sentiment that will not tolerate a judge upon the bench who will offer a premium on crime by the hasty discharge of well known criminals.

We propose to aid in creating precisely this sentiment, and then we shall have peace and law and order.

A GREAT MIXTURE.—Bar-rooms generally must have promiscuously mixed liquors last night, especially on St. Charles street, for the central station was jammed full of fighting men, who not only fought in the streets, but in the calaboses. Three or four very respectable young gentlemen in the prison experienced a sensation which they will not forget in a hurry.

It seemed as if nineteenth century men on St. Charles street were inclined to shed blood.

A DISTANT LIGHT.—Between nine and ten o'clock last night an alarm of fire was sent in from the Eighth District, in consequence of the sky in the northeast being illuminated with a blood red color, just above the horizon. The impression is that this light was caused by aurora borealis. This kind of a light was noticed Friday night.

Our firemen turned out, but not having any relatives in Alaska or around the north pole, turned back before reaching the barracks, ready to moisten any contagion that they may occur within our corporate limits.

Four youthful militiamen were locked up in the central station at the witching hour, charged with disturbing the peace of St. Charles street, last night. Some how the gentlemen were disgusted with prison fare, although they were not drunken or even inclined to fight. Half a dozen of their friends flew around and procured their release.

At five o'clock last evening Andrew Fosse, a Swede, was drowned in the river. He was going on board the steamship Margaret, when he slipped and fell into the water. His body was not recovered.
