NEW POEM BY WHITTIER.

The following poem appears in the Boston Transcript. It was sent to a recent special meeting by Mr. Whittier, who is now at the Isles of Shoals.

From the deck I look today From the masts of dancing waves, And from the sea-streaked way, I see the ship and you and she, And I am glad to hear you say, "Dear friend, I send you what I can, Afloat as ever on the sea, All that a ship or sailor man Could give for sweetest of his land."

THE WAR AND THE COTTON CROP.

While every week of European war and business derangement buoys the hopes of the wheat-grower and sustains his price, in the same ratio is cotton depression. It was the amazing vigor of the Prussian advance and the collapse of the French armies, has made it more and more certain that the cotton crop will be small.

THE STORY OF DAMON AND PYTHIAS.

The story carries Damon to his home; he embraces his wife, and then they stay in short, and that he sees them for the last time; his wife hears his tale of condemnation, the devotion of his friend, and, humiliated, her husband, she turns to her than his friend, and she faint would keep him by her side. Tearing himself away, he retraces his steps to the city where sits the tyrant.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

On the evening of February 19, 1864, a number of gentlemen, who possessed broad views of humanity and love for Washington, District of Columbia, and with that grand trio of virtues—friendship, benevolence and charity—for their foundation, organized the first lodge of an order founded on the story we have recited, and called themselves the "Knights of Pythias."

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

While in some sections churches and rigid creeds stand against this order, still in its ranks are found, with few exceptions, clergymen and laymen of every denomination. Implanted in this order of Knights, the Pythias can say, and it becomes the duty of the perfect, as some may construe it, I pray thee, write me as one that loves his fellow-men.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Quickly warring against human selfishness, broadening and extending the great field for the exercise of that humanity which springs only from the tender side of a warm and generous heart, the order makes the harvest of the noblest fruits of the highway of life with flowers, whose perfume and sweetness ascend upward and hover over the great page of good deeds and noble actions.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

How strangely circumstances and laws change! The public of a Boston paper has met the person who sold the first penny paper on the street in that city. The man—back at that time a boy—got a fanciful idea, and took them to old George Reed, whom many will remember, and was struck off by the venerable George to the effect of peddling without a license. His stay was, however, short, but the adventure is a curious item in the history of street newspaper traffic.

HORRIFYING.

A Kite-Flying Erebin Drawn up by His Toy.

A very singular occurrence took place on Friday last, near Bridgeport, which, from a dangerous aspect on a boyish sport that has hitherto been considered quite a pastime. A lad named Willie Goumard, aged ten years, residing on Columbia street, was taken every other day in the kite-flying period of his existence, became ambitious to make a monster kite that should fly higher than any other that ever was made, such as may be seen in any toy-shop windows.

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

The Crew of a Sinking Ship Saved by the Steamship Wisconsin—A Remarkable Escape—Dangers of the Deep.

The following additional facts relate to the rescue of the crew of the ship John S. De Wolf, at the wreck of the ship Wisconsin, on Wednesday night, last, in the Gulf of Mexico. On Wednesday night, last, in the Gulf of Mexico, the ship John S. De Wolf, from Liverpool, bound for New York, was wrecked on the coast of Florida. The vessel was a large steamship, and was carrying a large number of passengers and crew.

EXCITEMENT AMONG THE COLORED ARISTOCRACY.

An Engagement Frustrated.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Herald writes: A recent engagement in colored high life has just come to light here. The parties to it are a son of a noted colored caterer and a very light colored Washington damsel of rare beauty. Love without reason, passion without duty, and a mother's interference, were the causes of the engagement's being frustrated.

THE DEBTOR CORNERED.

Very odd was the march that Life took on the case of the "Squire" of Long Neck. Life was the fortune of Guy's Leek. He did a miscellaneous business as carpenter, cow doctor, cod fisherman, and so on, and was a very successful man. He was, with an easy, good-natured fellow, free to trust, and a most indulgent creditor.

DON PIATT AND THE POSTMASTER.

I had been at Lake George some two weeks without getting any mail matter, although I had sent over almost every day. I was getting impatient, and I was wondering what had happened to the mail. I was told that the postmaster had been absent, and that the mail had been delayed.

THE TRANSPORTATION OF BOUNDED GOODS.

A Washington special to the New York Herald writes: The regulations for the transportation of merchandise without appraisement, under the act of July 14, 1870, which were issued yesterday, were being explained to a special agent of the Treasury Department, who has had experience in custom matters recommended for this important duty.
