Secretary.

HOMICIDE IN THIRD DISTRICT.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE CORONER.

Homicide in the Fourth District.

Sunday did not prove the quietest day in April, for the month closed in blood. Two young men, daily laborers, both well known in the neighborhood where they lived, were incited to quarrel over some trifling matter, the issue of which was the taking of the life of Isaac Jackson by Henry Stevens, at or near the corner of Rousseau and St. Andrew streets. Fortunately the assassin was arrested a few seconds after he committed the terrible deed, the bloody weapon still in his hand, ready to stab any one who dared to interrupt his flight. The following evidence before Coroner Crough tells the tale:

P. M. Pfaeflin saw the deceased fall and die soon afterward on the street, while a policeman was present.

Bertha Pfaeflin—Saw two men fighting between four and five o'clock Sunday evening, while I was standing at the corner of St. Andrew and Rousseau streets; thought they were playing at first; the man wearing the black coat (H. Stevens) came up with an open knife in his hand; the other man had his hand in his right pocket; that was all I saw, as I was afraid; after deceased fell I saw him in the gutter; then the man with the black coat ran down Rousseau street; saw the accused in custody of Mr. Von Zinken and an officer.

Miss Caroline Miller—About five o'clock Sunday evening was proceeding toward Rousseau street from the corner of St. Andrew street; saw two colored men near the corner of the streets; the man wearing the black coat walked over to the other one and slipped the other man's (deceased's) face; the man who was slapped said, "What's this?" and then struck him back; then the man with the black coat drew a knife, and cut the other man's (deceased's) pocket; accused (pointing out the prisoner) who had just been brought in, then plunged his knife into the other man's breast; then he ran off; Jackson ran a few steps and fell into a gutter; the knife he carried, and is similar to the one I saw in the hands of accused at the time of the affray. (The weapon is a large-sized pocket knife, two blades, the largest of which is about four inches long. There is a small quantity of blood on the handle and on the blade.)

Bertha Pfaeflin was recalled to see if she would recognize accused. To the best of her belief he is the man; he is dressed the same. Mr. Pfaeflin was recalled, but was unwilling to say whether the prisoner is the man or not; is unable to say.

Philip Stephens—My attention was called to two men in the street quarreling; the accused had his right hand in his pocket; it was a knife, a blade open; some one cried out to prisoner to run, fearing that he would be cut; a man with a green striped shirt (the man who was arrested) accused ran into the street toward the other one, but turned and ran down Rousseau street; the prisoner had his knife on the street; he took it in his hand when Mr. Von Zinken and an officer had him in custody.

Paul Deckerman—Heard a child say that some one was murdered; saw a colored man lying in the gutter; saw the accused running off; called to him to stop; did not stop; I ran toward him; Mr. Pfaeflin caught him; prisoner had a knife in his hand; the knife he carried; the knife he carried; I recognize the prisoner as the man the knife was taken from.

Colonel Leon Von Zinken—About five o'clock Sunday evening I was at the corner of St. Mary and Rousseau streets; heard people in the street cry out "stop him"; saw a colored man, Stevens, the prisoner, running down Rousseau street; two men at the street corner took hold of Stevens; Miller Smith ran toward the place after I blew my whistle, and took charge of the prisoner; I had accused by the wrist, and the officer also had hold of the prisoner; the knife he carried; I recognize the prisoner as the man the knife was taken from.

SECOND REGIMENT LOUISIANA STATE MILITIA.

Grand Sunday Parade—Dress Parade on Claiborne Street—A Long March—Marching Salute to the Governor.

So quietly has Colonel Lewis been managing his splendid regiment, and so little public show have they made, that many people may be excused for having come to the conclusion that the organization had been disbanded. This time has, however, not been lost, as the Colonel has been busily engaged fulfilling his pledge that he would make the regiment one that the city and State could be proud of. Constant drill has brought the men to a condition approaching perfection.

The regiment formed on Claiborne street, right resting on Canal, and line extending toward Common street. Here the lookers on were treated to a dress parade, and the manual of arms was gone through in the most creditable manner. The regiment formed into column of companies, and headed by Kelly's band commenced their long march. There were fully six hundred men in line at the dress parade.

Considering the heat of the day, the route was remarkably long, and would not have been undertaken but for the earnest request of a number of the men who belong far up town and wished the Fourth District to be visited.

The route was as follows: Claiborne to Canal, to St. Charles, to Julia, to Magazine, to Jackson, to Camp, to First, (the regiment passed the Governor's house at carry arms the officers saluting and the colors dipping). An hour's rest was taken on First street; the column then moved through St. David to Calhoun, to Magnolia, to Lafayette, to Liberty, to Common, to Basin, to Canal, to Rampart, to Congo square, and then back to the armory and disbanded.

All the companies did remarkably well, but particular attention was attracted by the splendid marching and soldierly bearing of the men of Company C, Captain Howell. We understand that the captain has devoted himself with untiring energy and considerable judgment to training his men, and he has every reason to be proud of them.

During the march one lieutenant (company H) and four privates fainted from excessive heat and fatigue, but they were immediately attended to by Dr. J. B. Cooper, the surgeon of the regiment, and well cared for, all being sent home in carriages.

The Mai-Fest.

The annual festival of the New Orleans Turngemeinde, popularly but rather awkwardly and incorrectly translated "Turner's Society," lost none of its interest the present year. In the early part of Sunday, the opening day of the festival, there were some indications that the rain might be expected, but as noon approached the clouds disappeared, leaving nothing to be desired about the weather. The sunshine was not too bright for comfort, and the air was breezy and balmy.

The Fair Grounds had been selected and properly prepared for the celebration, and early in the day numbers of people could be seen wending their way toward that locality, in anticipation of the procession of the association were rapidly congregating at the Turnhalle, and energetically preparing for the start. Frank Gunther's silver cornet band was in attendance, and from time to time discoursed sweet music.

Between ten and eleven o'clock the procession started from the hall to the Fair Grounds. The procession, which was headed by the grand marshal, A. Schmidt, attended by his aids, J. P. Hand and George Hamann, preceded by the splendid band of music, consisted of the Schutzen, the rifle section of the association, under the command of Captain A. Hertzberg. Then followed the Mai-fest committee, of which Captain George was chairman. After these came the officers and Board of Control. Pops, in their neat, simple and inexpensive uniform, then the glee singers, followed by the association at large. The appearance of the procession was very imposing, and the magnificent banners were much admired by the spectators. About fifteen minutes after one o'clock the procession arrived at the Fair Grounds.

A large number of pleasure seekers were already there, intent upon all sorts of social and festive enjoyment, for which there had been ample and varied preparations made. There were temporary booths erected, under which were dispensed eatables and drinkables in great variety and of appetizing quality. There were innumerable attractions in flying horses, target shooting, a German edition of "Punch and Judy," very funny and very Deutsch in the humor displayed. A hundred other things might be mentioned, each more attractive than the other. The only trouble appeared to be the courtois de richesse.

The principal place of attraction was Zur Gemuthlichkeit, a term which requires a half dozen at least of English words, all expressing comfort, enjoyment, and everything else that is jolly and happy, to express its meaning. We need not go into all around; but we are justified in asserting that the German words most in vogue for half an hour after the procession reached the ground was, ein, zwei, drei, vier, fünf.

Mr. Buck occupied about half an hour in an eloquent address, combining happy thoughts with great felicity of expression, and calling forth warm and repeated plaudits from his audience.

After Mr. Buck had concluded, the band, after other splendid music, burst into "Wacht am Rhein." Then followed glee singing by the Gesang Gemeinde, commencing with "Seid uns Willkommen," followed by "Der Wald." The execution of these first class German songs was very fine.

We have so far described the "pomp and circumstance" of the festival, including the finely-dressed corps of Schutzen riflemen. We can not do the matter justice, however, without noticing the keen enjoyment of the young folks. Had there been nothing else in the occasion, the happiness of the little ones, so much sympathized with by the old ones, must have been delightful.

We must not forget to mention the gymnastic displays by the pupils of the Turn-Gemeinde.

Yesterday the festival went on the same as on Sunday, except that there was no procession. The "Volk" made up for this by extra dancing, however, and it was late in the night when the festival terminated. This evening the conclusion of the Mai-fest will take place at Turnhalle, corner of Lafayette and Dryades streets.

United States Supreme Court Yesterday—Civil Rights Cases—Gold Contract Cases—Mr. Corcoran No Better—Over Six Millions Debt Decrease—Weather Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—In the Supreme Court the civil rights case from Kentucky, involving the constitutionality of Drake's amendment against the consideration by the courts of the effect of pardon and amnesty in cases under certain gold contract cases and certain slave contract cases, go over to the adjourned term for decision.

In the case of Candy against the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railroad, there were cross appeals. The decree of the circuit court was in all things affirmed.

In the case of the United States, a quantity of tobacco, the judgment of the circuit court was affirmed. It was held that the Indian country is a part of the United States; that Congress intended to tax whisky and tobacco in that country; that there was power to do so, and the treaties with the Cherokee do not stand in the way.

Justice Clifford read a brief paper in the legal tender cases of Knox against Lee, and Parker against Davis, as follows: "In these two cases two questions were heretofore directed to be argued namely: First—Is the act of Congress, known as the legal tender act, constitutional as to contracts made before its passage? Second—Is it valid as applicable to transactions since its passage?" These questions have been decided in the affirmative.

The decree of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts, in the case of Parker against Davis, therefore, affirmed and the judgment of the circuit court of the United States of the western district of Texas, was affirmed. The Chief Justice, with Associate Justices Nelson, Clifford and Field, dissent from the majority of the court upon both propositions, and the result, holding that the act of Congress, so far as applicable to contracts made before its passage, is void; and also that it is unconstitutional as to contracts made since its passage. The opinion of the court and the reasons for dissent will be read before the close of the adjourned term.

Mr. Corcoran is no better.

The national debt statement shows a decrease of over $6,000,000. Coin in the treasury, $106,500,000; currency, $12,500,000.

The Southern claims commission intend distributing printed lists of all claimants, to be held in the hands of the commission, for the purpose of obtaining a more accurate account concerning the loyalty of multiplying claimants.

Negotiations for the Surrender of d'Issy Failed—Bombardment Recommended—Troops Moving Toward Paris—The Moderate Journal Editors Leaving—Paris—Private Telegraphing Suspended—Conservative Republicans Elected—Municipal Elections Quiet.

VERSAILLES, May 1.—The negotiations for the surrender of Fort d'Issy failed. The bombardment was recommended, and is now very violent.

A large number of troops moved toward Paris to-day, as reinforcements to the army of investment.

The editors of all the moderate journals in Paris have been ordered proscribed by the commune, and are leaving the city as rapidly as possible.

Private telegraphing in Paris has again been entirely suspended.

Rosell, in accepting the insurgent ministry of war, says he shall have need of the absolute confidence of the commune, the troops and the people of Paris.

The provincial elections in parts of France have resulted in the choice of conservative republicans.

In the Assembly to-day Minister Picard stated that the municipal elections throughout France passed off quietly yesterday, except at points where a mayor's office is located, which was marked by a riotous crowd, partially armed. M. Valentin, prefect of the department, with the assistance of General Crouzet, succeeded in restoring order, though not without a conflict, in which the former was wounded. There was also a slight disturbance in the town of Thiers, department of Puy-de-Dome, which was suppressed.

Fearful and Reckless Firing—The City Excited and Alarmed—General Okolowicz's Wound Severe—Favorable Arrangements for the Arrest of General Okolowicz—Revoked—Barricades to Encircle the City—Cannonading at Neuilly.

PARIS, May 1.—The firing last night was fearful, and apparently utterly reckless. Nothing of the kind has occurred since the commencement of the civil war.

The city is greatly excited and alarmed. Groups of frightened people are in every street discussing the state of affairs.

General Okolowicz's wound is very severe one, and his recovery is very doubtful.

The delegates from the Masonic lodges of Paris have returned from Versailles unable to accomplish anything. They report that Thiers expressed the opinion that peaceable arrangements with the Paris commune was impossible.

Afternoon—The commune has revoked the order for the arrest of General Chisoret.

A series of barricades are building to completely encircle the city.

General Wrotnoski is now in command of the left bank of the Seine, and the forts outside the walls.

The delegates from the Freemasons were coldly received by Thiers, and returned to the city on foot. The Masons take turns with the nationals in guarding the banners of the order on the ramparts, and do duty under a terrible fire.

There was cannonading and musketry fire at Neuilly all through last night, but it is now slackened.

The Journal des Debats says the Versailles have evacuated Gennevilliers.
