Local Intelligence.

THEY TOOK THE "SUGAR."—A rather verdant specimen of Missouri's sons arrived in our city at one o'clock yesterday. Scarcely had he set his foot on the levee before a St. Charles street ghoul claimed him as his "meat." A close eye was kept on the countryman, and when he appeared in front of the City Hotel, a nice looking young man, Mr. Loose, volunteered information concerning subjects which interested the stranger. Missouri, after registering his name, asked the nice young man to show him where a reliable sugar broker could be found. He had some business in that sweet line. Of course the desired information was readily given, and away the couple started. Mr. Loose conducted Missouri into a well upholstered room on St. Charles street. Drinks and cards were produced, and our veridant was induced to take a hand in a quiet game of euchre.

THE GAME WAS MADE PLEASANT, for the young "sugar brokers" are invariably stylish, free and urbane. Several hands had been played, when one of the party somehow discovered that "he held a tolerably fair poker hand, and was willing to risk a smart sum of money that he could win." One looked over Missouri's cards, and saw that he had three aces, and he was suddenly urged to plunk down cash on so good a thing. Cash was plunked down until the gambler had parted with nearly a thousand dollars. Those gentle "sugar brokers" gathered it in, smiling softly at such a fat piggy. All his money gone, the gentleman from our country had nothing to do but to retire, utterly demoralized.

ONE OF THE SHARPS OFFERED to lend him fifty dollars, but the offer was spurned, for then he felt too high-toned to take back anything. Proceeding into the street, his confused mind began to arrange the sad facts, when he concluded that he had been victimized. He sought consolation from the police, telling his doleful tale as if it were entirely new. Mr. Loose was sent for, found and interviewed at police headquarters. There he was met by Missouri, when the sore subject was talked over calmly and in a devout spirit. Missouri agreed to cry quits if a certain amount of his loss was returned, and it was agreed to "return."

CRIMINAL COURT.—Judge Smith.—In the case of Billy Ray and J. M. Smith, the two Chicago thieves charged with stealing from Mr. A. Bauman, No. 18 St. Andrew street, a gold watch chain, the jury could not agree, and were discharged from further consideration of the case.

HENRY JOHNSON, whose case was mentioned yesterday, was acquitted.

CASIMIR WILLIAMS, charged with larceny, stealing from Mrs. Charlotte Lewis forty dollars' worth of clothes, was sent to the Penitentiary for eighteen months.

MARGARET BROWN, charged with having stolen from Mrs. Mary Stamps, No. 126 Thalia street, goods valued at forty dollars, was acquitted.

LIZA GIBBARD, charged with assault and battery on Marcelin Fourcade, was acquitted.

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY filed information against John Jones and Thomas Nolan for assault and battery.

EMMA BROWN, charged with assault and battery on Mary Francis Philbin, was acquitted.

THE CASE OF JAMES DAILY, charged with having committed an assault with intent to commit a rape on a child named Catharine Fitzgerald, four years old, was again taken up. The proof in the case is considered clear, and at the first trial the jury convicted the accused. But a mere technical error in the spelling of the name of the child as Kate Fitz gave the accused the benefit of a new trial. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

DROWNED.—While the steamboat Carrie Thorn was on her way up the river to Shreveport, on the fourth instant, about 2 P. M., an unknown colored boy, while in the act of drawing a bucket of water, fell overboard and was drowned. His body has not yet been recovered.

DIDN'T ESCAPE.—J. W. Jones, the man whose sticky fingers easily found a bank check which wasn't lost, attempted to escape from the first precinct stationhouse, Tuesday night, but Turkey Gray's ears caught a sound too much, when Jones was gently requested to hang up his hoop-fiddle and remain until breakfast. He remained without further invitation.

BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS.—Captain Flanagan was transferred from the harbor to the sixth precinct.

Captain Edgeworth from the sixth to the harbor.

CASEY AND HIS FRIENDS

Old Opinions Revived. Godfrey, the car driver of the Jackson street line, who ran over and killed Mr. Redon's son last week, was examined by Recorder Billings yesterday, and released on $1000 bonds. Coroner Creagh had made a charge of manslaughter.

An ax is not the pleasantest weapon in the world to come in contact with, especially if wielded by such an angry person as Mary Winsbeck when confronting Rosina McGee, No. 52 Gasquet street. Rosina, who signs her name in short hand, thus, X, asks that the accused be axed to appear and answer on the twentieth.

BROKE A CASE.—Levi Vanderstar's behavior, as detailed by Rosa Cramer, corner of Broad and Gasquet streets, was so outlandish that it became necessary for Recorder Houghton to send him down to a jury. Rosa, who is not as young as she was thirty years ago, positively asserts that Levi assaulted her husband with a loaded cane and, actually threatened to make a ghost of her, and she is in fearful dread that accused will determine early out his throat unless an offended law interposes itself. The offended law, as represented by Recorder Houghton, restrained the beligerent.

NO GOOD ACCOUNT OF HIMSELF.—A man who labors seriously for his daily bread and tobacco will find no difficulty in proving that pleasant fact. Daniel Eagan, a young man of good physical parts, was sent before the Board of Police Commissioners by Detective Ward, and that body sent accused to Recorder Houghton for disposal under the vagrant law. Bonds in five hundred dollars to appear for examination on the fourteenth were not furnished. Daniel has been in hockety on several occasions, and by this time knows how it is himself.

TAKING TIME.—Sarah White, forgetting the commandment "Thou shalt not steal," stole a gold watch and chain, valued at one hundred dollars, from Anna Smith, also of Dryades street. The maiden White failed to find a straw to sign a hundred dollar bond, and her name was added to the twentieth.

MILD BERGLANS.—James Williams and Richard Joyce did not rejoice when they were caught burglarizing Charlotte Parker's residence, No. 239 Gravier street, for they stole nothing but an old dress and sixty cents. A strong hand will hold the prisoners until the sixteenth instant.

MALICIOUS.—The mischief contained in the body of Frank Williams, No. 87 Baronne street, induced him to throw rocks at his neighbor, T. Suermann's, door and grossly insulted him. The rocks will be investigated on the twentieth.

MISSION SCHOOL FAIR.—Odd Fellows' Hall is a point of rare attraction just now, and well it may be, for all is fair there. Visitors are not impudently to "take a chance," although many chances for good bargains remain untaken. A poor man's eyes are softened at the sight of those one hundred dollar bills presented by the steambot Belle Lee. Then there is a magnificent fruit stand, three stories and a half high, made of frosted silver, which is being looked at. An organ and a sewing machine, side by side, vary the scene, while beautiful young ladies near by are willing to let you for them, for a consideration of only twenty-five cents. One look at the floral bower, among the perfumed leaves and flowers of which you hear the cheerful notes of a dozen canary birds, while beneath plays a tiny fountain, near which sits one of Louisiana's fairest daughters. The reader is advised to make at least one call.

A STREET DEEL.—Two of the many Italians who congregate around that profane Rialto, head of the Old Basin, having no fear of the police, took a few shots at each other and then retired in good order. One of the bullets, failing to go home, struck Mr. Louis, who was quietly standing in his doorway, near the scene. The missile struck him in his abdomen, inflicting a wound which may prove fatal.

VEAL.—Joseph Howard having a tolerable good set of teeth and strong jaws has no aversion to a bit of veal, and perhaps it was his appetite that induced him to steal an entire, though innocent, calf from Mr. Teoulet. This live veal was considered worth ten dollars. For this digression Joseph was induced to go and see a jury by Recorder M'Arthur.

TOOLS.—John Sullivan, it is barely possible, is an honest man, but circumstances point to something quite different. E. S. Gordon, brother Recorder M'Arthur, swore that John stole a lot of carpenter tools from him. Twelve of his peers will settle his status.

THE DISAPPEARANCE OF A. W. WALKER. As yet no clue has led to the whereabouts of Mr. A. W. Walker, who, since Friday night, has not been seen. A search among his effects resulted in the discovery of a package of letters addressed to his son, a letter to his wife, and one addressed to W. W. King, L. Madison Day, Mr. Ellis and Eugene Wagmann. These letters were dated the ninth instant, and indicated his intention of committing suicide. They will soon be offered in the proper court for the purpose of opening his succession. But these letters do not establish the fact of suicide. As to the reverses which he had suffered, they were not without remedy, and he was a man known to have sufficient mental resources to have recovered from every shock. He met an attack of this kind Friday, and after exchanging remarks about the hard times, spoke in an encouraging manner, saying, "While there's life there's hope." The loss of a large amount of whisky in a late legal reverse is supposed to be the immediate cause of his unfortunate end. But there are still too many doubts about it to pronounce it a certainty.

A COSTLY PIRL.—Among the many attractions at the Mission School fair is a rare specimen of carving, the handiwork of a soldier during the war. The pipe is in the form of a boat, polished and richly mounted with pure gold. All the work was performed with a jack knife and a file, but is as highly finished as anything of the kind can be. Indeed, it is too nice to smoke on ordinary occasions. Gentlemen fond of a puff, should visit the table presided over by Messieurs Griswood and Stone, pay a dollar for a chance and vote—vote for yourself, or any one you may happen to like better. There is no limit to the times one may vote, therefore every suffragan has an equal opportunity to bear it off.

A woman betters opposes the co-education of the sexes, because "it is not safe to hold fire to flax."

THE WONDERFUL CHANGES OF TIME

In order that the people may not forget the fact that Collector Casey was not favored with high estimation by his present allies, we present below extracts from a letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, communicating in compliance with the resolution of the Senate of July 1, 1870, in relation to the removal of James F. Casey as collector of customs at New Orleans.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 12, 1870. SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a resolution adopted by the Senate on the fourth instant, in the following words: Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to transmit to the Senate all papers and documents relating to the removal of James F. Casey, collector of customs at New Orleans, as well as any papers showing the manner in which said Casey has discharged the duties of his office since he has been collector. The number of persons employed in said customhouse during each of the months of April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November and December, 1869, and January and February of 1870. The amount paid said employees per month, and if any persons were employed and paid during said time without authority of law, if so, how many and the amount thus paid them, and what labor, if any, they performed. The amount paid employees in said customhouse during each of the months of 1868, 1869, 1870, and 1871, and the number of persons employed during each of said months. The amount and proportion of increase, if any, of imports and exports at said port during the year 1870. In reply I transmit the original papers called for, together with statements prepared in the office of the Commissioner of Customs and Bureau of Statistics, which furnish all the information in the possession of this department on the subjects embraced in said resolution.

I have inclosed a statement of the imports and exports for the year 1869. Very respectfully, GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary of the Treasury.

STATEMENT OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS IN REFERENCE TO NEW ORLEANS CUSTOMHOUSE. SIR: When the present administration came into power it was confidently expected that the Customhouse at New Orleans, which had long been an object of complaint with Democrats under Perry Fuller, would be reformed on the basis of loyalty, Republicanism and the declared policy of "honesty and strict economy."

Very respectfully, GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary of the Treasury.

But, over and above the political aspect of this matter, it is an object of great interest and importance to the administration and the country, and that is the honesty, efficiency and economy of the reorganization and management of the New Orleans customhouse.

From the customhouse rolls it appears that the force under Collector Casey in 1869 numbered four hundred and twelve men, at an aggregate amount of salaries of four hundred and thirty-one thousand seven hundred and thirty dollars per annum. Under the new organization as proposed, the force numbered four hundred and twenty men, at an aggregate amount of salary, as computed from the rolls, of five hundred and three thousand five hundred and thirty-five dollars per annum. This large force and salary are maintained for the collection of the customs at New Orleans has led to an investigation and comparison of the business force and expenses for the years 1869, 1870 and 1871.

Foreign Tons, For 1869, For 1870, For 1871. New Orleans, 699,111 322,296 Sameas '69. Force employed in 1869, 418 men 412 men Aggregate amount of salaries, $443,240 $417,750 $506,597.

This it is shown that with one-third less business in 1870 and 1871 the force employed was more than twice that of 1869, and the expenses are double those of 1869; and under the present management the force is increased twenty men, and the expenses are more than twice that of 1869, and over those of 1870. But a comparison of the enormous expenses under the tariff laws enacted since 1850 will apply more directly and with greater force; therefore, we submit the following table, showing the expenses during the months of May, June, July, August and September for the years 1867-68-69, as follows:

Amount expended for said months of 1867 was $29,141 00. Amount expended for said months of 1868 was $14,357 29. Amount expended for said months of 1869 was $182,546 00.

From these amounts it appears that the expenses under reorganization, and during these five months of 1869 exceeded the expenses for the same months of 1867-68-69 respectively, in amounts as follows: $165,314 40; $108,188 29; $149,393 70. Comparing the expenses of August and September, 1868, with those for the same months of 1869, the last months for which Collector Casey has rendered accounts, we find the amounts expended as follows:

Amount expended in August, 1868, $38,777 52, against $14,968 53 for the same month in 1869. This it is shown that in August and September, 1869, under Collector Casey, the expenses exceeded the collector for the same months of the previous year by $23,809 99, at which rate the expenses of the whole year of 1869 would exceed those of 1868 by $102,342 16, and 1870 (as shown from the new plan of reorganization) the expenses would exceed those of 1868 by $174,106 16, and those of 1869 by $12,565.

We respectfully call attention to the labor rolls of warehouse No. 1 for the month of June, 1870, and August, 1870, the last received at the department, which respectively contain the names of fifty-eight, sixty-nine and seventy-six men, at a cost of $7,362, and respectfully ask if these men were appointed by the law? Were their appointments approved at the department? Were the men employed required to take the oath prescribed by law? That they perform the duties of laborers? What necessity was there for this large temporary force in addition to the large regular force employed, when,
