

New Orleans Republican.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE UNITED STATES OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF NEW ORLEANS

THE DAILY REPUBLICAN May be had of the following Dealers:

- George Ellis, opposite the Postoffice. A. Simon, No. 91 Exchange Alley. C. G. Haley, No. 19 Commercial Place. C. G. D. Holle, No. 61 Exchange Place. James Ennis, Poydras street and Railroad Depot, Third District, also, at Depot for Lafayette Street, First District. J. W. Long, corner of Love and Enghien Streets, Third District. Variety newsstand, corner Dauphine and Canal streets.

AUCTION SALES THIS DAY.

- BY R. M. & E. J. MONTGOMERY, at 11 A. M., at Old Auction Mart, No. 97 Canal street, a general assortment of new and second-hand furniture. BY G. DE RHET, at 11 o'clock, at No. 97 Chartres street, entire contents and fixtures of wholesale and retail drug store—succession of A. Schuch. BY SHERRIFF SAUVINET, at 10 o'clock, at No. 71 St. Ann street, furniture and movable effects—of H. Mass & Co., of P. Heer and A. C. Heer. BY A. T. DAVEN, Constable Second Justice Court, at 12 o'clock, at No. 245 Girod street, lot of household furniture and effects—Charles Robert vs. Mr. and Mrs. Hogan.

Local Intelligence.

WHOLESALE SERRANING.—The five boys displayed their friendship for the REPUBLICAN yesterday in a most gratifying and musically bewitching manner. We were honored with several airs by each of the following companies: No. 22, Louisiana Hose, Columbia No. 5, Jackson No. 18, Chalmers No. 33, Philadelphia No. 14, and their invited guests, Franklin No. 3, of Mobile; Mississippi No. 2, American Hook and Ladder No. 2, Mechanics No. 6, and others, but like the old woman's chickens, they came so lively that we were unable to keep track of all. We nevertheless tender them our sincere thanks for their pleasant recollection, and wish them many auspicious returns of their glorious anniversary.

BURGLARY.—The boarding house of Herman Esterline, at the corner of Lafayette and Delta streets, was entered about one o'clock Monday morning, and robbed of the following articles: Two gold watches valued at $200, a breastpin worth $25, a pocket-book containing a considerable amount. The cash box and contents were dropped, but the rest of the plunder was carried off. One of the thieves is supposed to have been an inmate of the boarding house.

DEATH OF AN OFFICER.—Patrolman A. H. Jackson, late of the second precinct, died on Sunday, and was buried at ten o'clock yesterday.

POLICE DOINGS.—A Mr. Manuel and G. Levy, both barkeepers, were arrested yesterday at the corner of Poydras and Basin streets, on a warrant issued at the instance of Dr. J. R. Lewis, who accuses them of malicious mischief.

They Wilson, a Dryades street bird, is locked up on a charge of larceny, preferred by Emma Smith.

John Molitia got drunk early in the morning, disturbed the peace of St. Mary's Market, and insulted the ladies there. Officer McCarney settled his lather by locking him up before the procession moved.

THE KNIFE.—Two men, Co.—A serious quarrel occurred about half-past seven o'clock Sunday evening, on Howard street, in which three men, named John McAniff, John Gullifer and Michael Duffy, each took a hand. The result of the quarrel, which seems to have originated in some domestic difference, was the stabbing, and severe, if not dangerous wounding, of both Gullifer and Duffy. McAniff was arrested for having cut Gullifer, but Duffy refuses to give any information as to who did the business for him.

ATTENDED ARSON.—The clothing store of M. J. Barnett, No. 79 Chartres street, was broken into at an early hour Saturday night, by cutting through the wall between the store and a vacant one adjoining. The villains were discovered by Mr. Barnett, who resides over the store, by means of a lighted candle which they carried, and fled upon his giving the alarm, leaving behind them a bottle of turpentine, from which it is supposed they intended to fire the premises. Mr. Barnett did not recognize them.

A fallen tree usurps the banquette at the corner of St. Mary and Chestnut streets, and has done so for over a month. The obstacle itself is becoming disgusted at the highly seasoned obstructions hurled at it, and wants to be removed.

THE STREETS ON THE ROUTE.—Administrative Cockrum deserves well of the men for his attention in placing the streets in the best possible condition for their parade. Saturday and Sunday he sent gangs of men to repair the route, taking particular pains to have the holes filled and levels graded.

NEARLY every fire company carried the stars and stripes in the grand parade yesterday.

HORN'S BALL.—Carroll Hall was thronged last night with the beauty, fashion and worth of the old Third, on the occasion of the grand masquerade ball, given by Hope Hook and Ladder Company No. 3. The festivities were kept up until the rosette light of the coming sun began to tinge the eastern horizon, and all went as merrily as marriage bells, as everything that Hope's boys take in hand is wont to do.

A FIRM-FIGHTING FAMILY.—The New-houses are utterly opposed to the ravages of fire, as was evidenced by the appearance of three of them, father and two sons, in the procession yesterday. A Newhouse marched with No. 12, while the younger sons fight fire with Nos. 5 and 20 respectively. The manner in which the senior manipulated his special extremities at No. 12's ball last night left it in doubt as to which was the oldest of the three.

OFFICIAL MORTUARY REPORT.—Dr. S. C. Russell, secretary of the Board of Health, reports that the whole number of deaths in this city for the week ending Sunday evening at six o'clock was 114. Two died of apoplexy, 1 of asthma, 1 of bronchitis, 1 of burns, 1 of congestion of brain, 1 of congestion of lungs, 12 of consumption, 5 of cholera, 5 of chronic diarrhoea, 1 of distention of neck, 2 of dysentery, 1 of erysipelas, 2 of congestive fever, 3 of pneumonia, 1 of nervous fever, 1 of peripneural fever, 1 of typhoid fever, 2 of heart disease, 1 of inflammation of heart, 1 of inflammation of stomach, 1 of injuries.

1 of intemperance, 1 of lockjaw, 2 of measles, 3 of old age, 1 of paralysis, 17 of pneumonia, 2 of premature birth, 1 of rheumatism, 1 of suffocation. Eighteen were interred from public institutions, and fifteen on certificates of coroners.

A HEARTY CALL.—At the Varieties Theatre yesterday, after the presentation to President Marks, and the formalities over, the firemen, as with one voice, called for Governor Warmoth to make a speech. As that was not in the programme, his excellency properly declined to step forward, although he was on the platform.

THE POLICE YESTERDAY.—Credit is due to the Metropolitan police for the exertions made yesterday to keep the line of march clear of all vehicles and other obstructions for the firemen's procession. The men behaved themselves well, and did their duty to the satisfaction of the fire department.

Meteorological Record. The signal service, United States army, reports, for the benefit of commerce, the meteorological record, at 3:43 P. M., local time, yesterday, as follows:

Table with columns: Place, Ther., Wind, Weather. Rows include Augusta, Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Detroit, Evansville, Galena, Genoa, Hartford, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, Mobile, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Portland, St. Louis, Savannah, St. Paul, St. Petersburg, Washington, Wilmington.

No. 33 Camp Street. Fairbanks and Troemner's steel corn mills may be had at the Southern Scale Depot, No. 53 Camp street, Mr. William B. Bowman, agent. Shiever's letter presses may also be obtained at the same place. Any weight can be accurately ascertained by the scales and balances of the Messrs. Fairbanks' manufacture, from one sixteenth of an ounce to two hundred tons. Troemner's steel corn mills are of all sizes, and will grind from one bushel to two and a half bushels an hour by hand. By horse power the same mills will grind six bushels an hour, and by steam power eight bushels an hour. The readers of the REPUBLICAN will profit by going to No. 53 Camp street, "interviewing" Mr. Bowman, who is a very intelligent gentleman, and purchasing something from his large stock of mechanical specialties.

"An Apology for Ireland." A lecture on this subject will be delivered on Sunday evening next at half-past seven o'clock, in St. John's Church, Dryades street, by the Rev. James Hegarty, of Cork, Ireland. The subject is interesting, and, judging from the success of the reverend lecturer, of whom critics speak most favorably, we have no doubt of his audience being highly delighted. He is the guest of Father Jeremiah Moyilhan, and lectures for the benefit of the Cork Cathedral. Tickets fifty cents.

Base Ball. At the base-ball park Sunday, the R. E. Lees played the Croissants, and won a victory over them by thirty-five to eleven. The Lottas succeeded over the Capitols by thirty-two to eleven. The Orleans and the Matine had a game, in which the former was the victor by fifty-four to thirty-four. The Southern Stars captured the Fashions by four to 0.

The Temperature. Mr. Louis Frigero, No. 50 Chartres street, reports the weather for the past two days as follows:

Table with columns: Date, A. M., P. M., P. M. Rows for March 3, 4, 5.

Speech of Senator West. We publish on the sixth page of this morning's REPUBLICAN the speech of Hon. J. R. West, of Louisiana, in the Senate of the United States, on the twenty-seventh ultimo, on the sale of arms to France.

SPORTSMEN'S HEADQUARTERS.—It will be seen upon referring to an advertisement on our fourth page this morning that Mr. F. Charleville, so long and so very favorably known in his connection with the house of D. H. Holmes, has opened, at No. 55 St. Charles street, an establishment especially devoted to those whose tastes lead them to the sylvan sports of fishing and hunting, and has there collected a stock, the like of which has rarely been collected in one store. He has every quality and kind of hunting gun, rifles and pistols, fishing rods and tackle of every description, etc., all of which he is selling at such astonishingly low prices that the person who can not now afford a good outfit must be poor indeed. Mr. Charleville has all his life been a most enthusiastic hunter and fisher, and therefore, his selections of implements for those sports can not fall being the best that has yet been invented. We hope that his really spirited effort to please the public will be duly rewarded by a most liberal patronage.

GOLDEN PLAIN BAPTIST CHURCH.—A sacred concert, for the benefit of the organ fund of this church, will be given on Friday evening, under the direction of Professor L. A. Seward. The committee is composed of Rev. Dr. Taylor, E. C. Palmer, T. Tupper, R. H. Brown, C. Strahan and John R. Juden. The concert will take place at the church, corner of Camp and Terpelohore streets.

SHERRIFF'S SALE OF FURNITURE, ETC.—Particular attention is called to the sale at auction of a large quantity of new furniture, etc., to take place this day at half-past ten o'clock A. M., by the Sheriff of this parish, at his warehouse, No. 74 St. Ann street, between Royal and Bourbon. Second District.

Assessments Nos. 89, 90 and 91. See special notice column. Deaths of August Choucaux, T. D. Soderley and Michael Bayler. Payable at the office of the Mutual Aid and Benevolent Life Insurance Association of Louisiana, No. 129 Carondelet street. Amount paid, $6000.

The New York Tribune says: We earnestly hope that the long-protracted New Orleans struggle is not to be transferred to Washington, as reported; but the arrival of Collector Casey and Archibald Packard, the body and brains of the conspiracy, indicates such a move. If the President were half as prompt to remedy abuses as the admirers of general Sherman, neither Mr. Casey nor Mr. Packard would have any official pretext to their names by this time.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

The President and Casey and Packard—Will they be removed?—The Centurie Sugar Frauds—Remarkable Letter from Collector Casey.

WASHINGTON, February 25, 1872. GABBY AND PACKARD. The friends of reform have little hope that President Grant will remove Casey from the collectorship of the port of New Orleans. He has before him the evidence taken by the congressional investigating committee, which he may or may not read, as will best suit his mood. Whether or not he does read it, we need not be surprised if he should tell us, "I see nothing here implicating Casey."

At ten o'clock on Monday night, second instant, a representative sample of Jefferson parish, was aroused from his slumbers by hearing the exquisite musical sound of a brass band in front of his residence at Carrollton. The Representative, thinking, perhaps, the "Grand Duke" was about, threw open his doors, and to his astonishment there were about seven or eight hundred souls staring him in the face. He was not a little surprised to make a notice of Hon. Z. McKay, Mayor of Carrollton; Hon. Joseph L. Montion, Messrs. J. J. Gaudet, J. H. Perkins, Alfred Monroe, T. F. Wheeler, J. G. Ellis, Joseph Brooks, A. Tolson and others.

After several national airs by the band, J. B. Gaudet, Esq., amid deafening cheers, stepped upon the portico and spoke as follows: Honorable T. B. Stamps: I have been selected by this vast multitude of Republican voters of the parish of Jefferson, who are assembled here to-day, to make a few remarks to you, their immediate representative, as a partial manifestation of their gratitude, and by way of welcome to you upon your return home to the cherished care of your dear family and your many friends. In endeavoring to do so, sir, I must beg your indulgence for a few moments in which to make efforts to discharge this arduous but pleasant trust. I am entitled to me as best I can—a trust, sir, which, from my own knowledge of your integrity as a man, and of your fidelity to the fundamental principles of your party, I am disposed to believe will be fully and gratefully sustained. I could not, however, but which, I frankly confess, I knew I had not the power to fulfill upon this special occasion. Having been delegated, in common with others, to represent the wishes and interests of the whole people of Louisiana, I have had the honor to be elected to this office, and have been characterized by an earnest and unwavering watchfulness for those of your constituents and party. After sixty days of incessant labor, and the expenditure of much of my private property, I have succeeded in securing the maintenance and immunities, you have returned to give an account of your stewardship.

Hence, with all respect for the other members of this honorable representative district, I assert that your conduct merits a special and commendable mention, as having received their almost unanimous and unqualified approval. Your action has been watched and particularly scrutinized throughout the last session of the General Assembly of this State. Whenever the eyes of Louisiana were directed upon any question of public interest, or upon any matter in which the people in general, and our race in particular, the eyes of almost every one interested were cast upon the proceedings of the session, now pending before the Legislature. The course pursued by some of our Representatives, I regret to be constrained to assert, has not met the approbation of the people. It is to be regretted that you have made no report at the proper time; but with you, sir, I reiterate it was different. Nowhere in these proceedings can your vote be found wanting, or recorded in a manner which would reflect discredit upon the welfare of your race. On the contrary, it was always, I take pride in saying, cast in favor of the integrity of the Republican party, and in support of the sacred rights of our people.

I appealed to the journal of the House of Representatives in proof of this assertion. But this is all that I can say, and I do not wish to be understood as implying that I have any objection to your conduct, or that I have any objection to your position. I have only to say that I have no objection to your position, and I have no objection to your position. I have only to say that I have no objection to your position, and I have no objection to your position.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, JAMES F. CANEY, Collector.

To Hon. George S. Boutwell, Secretary of the Treasury. What a spectacle is presented here! The spectacle of an honest man lying in advance of accusation, and crying, "Thou canst not say I did it." What does he say? "To correct any misapprehension that may exist." So, then, Mr. Collector's action in the matter was on its face of no question, a character as, in his estimation, to afford ground for "misapprehension" by the department. A very generous admission indeed. Your frankness, Mr. Casey, deserves more from an admiring public than your discretion and, take notice, you will be duly credited. You have now surrendered the key of your treasures into the hands of justice, which, though its organs are sometimes perverted to wrong, has resources that the evil tort but can not escape.

Suppose the department did not misapprehend, would it be likely to act upon a mere suspicion, and without careful investigation by its agents? Was it to forestall inquiry that he wrote? Some suspicious persons, less delicate than others, would infer that the object of this letter was to prevent investigation, and that its author, conscious of resting under the shadow of a mighty sceptre, believed it would be of fact.

What is the chief point with reference to which he is so anxious that the department shall not suffer under misapprehension? He says that when he took charge of the office, April 12, 1869, he immediately began a most comprehensive system of investigation, and that within ten days he discovered fraudulent weighing and gauging of the sugars imported by August Conturie & Co. Will he now be good enough to relieve us from any misapprehension we may be laboring under with reference to a little point in this connection? Will he tell us why it was that several months after his alleged investigation had begun, he expressed the most utter surprise upon being informed by Mr. Dillingham, the naval officer, that these frauds were going on? Anazoid, were you, Mr. Collector, to learn a fact of such startling import—to learn something that you already knew?

Again, he "kept the matter perfectly quiet until the arrival of other suspected cargoes." That hardly disposes of the charge of concealment of duty in failing to inform the department. Keep it quiet! Of course he would, for ruin might follow disclosure. But what says the President's message upon this question of waiting "until the arrival of other suspected cargoes"? Let him be informed that the people know it. Let him be told, in all kindness, that if he would be honored by the people, he must respect their rights, he must do their bidding, he must recognize no rivals, even though they be brothers-in-law, he must cleanse from his foulness the civil service, he must obey and execute the laws. This question of the collectorship is not to be evaded. We urge him to decide, not in view of the Philadelphia convention, though his decision will have its effect there, but in view of duty, and to decide quickly. RAD.

Serena to Hon. T. B. Stamps. At ten o'clock on Monday night, second instant, a representative sample of Jefferson parish, was aroused from his slumbers by hearing the exquisite musical sound of a brass band in front of his residence at Carrollton. The Representative, thinking, perhaps, the "Grand Duke" was about, threw open his doors, and to his astonishment there were about seven or eight hundred souls staring him in the face. He was not a little surprised to make a notice of Hon. Z. McKay, Mayor of Carrollton; Hon. Joseph L. Montion, Messrs. J. J. Gaudet, J. H. Perkins, Alfred Monroe, T. F. Wheeler, J. G. Ellis, Joseph Brooks, A. Tolson and others.

After several national airs by the band, J. B. Gaudet, Esq., amid deafening cheers, stepped upon the portico and spoke as follows: Honorable T. B. Stamps: I have been selected by this vast multitude of Republican voters of the parish of Jefferson, who are assembled here to-day, to make a few remarks to you, their immediate representative, as a partial manifestation of their gratitude, and by way of welcome to you upon your return home to the cherished care of your dear family and your many friends. In endeavoring to do so, sir, I must beg your indulgence for a few moments in which to make efforts to discharge this arduous but pleasant trust. I am entitled to me as best I can—a trust, sir, which, from my own knowledge of your integrity as a man, and of your fidelity to the fundamental principles of your party, I am disposed to believe will be fully and gratefully sustained. I could not, however, but which, I frankly confess, I knew I had not the power to fulfill upon this special occasion. Having been delegated, in common with others, to represent the wishes and interests of the whole people of Louisiana, I have had the honor to be elected to this office, and have been characterized by an earnest and unwavering watchfulness for those of your constituents and party. After sixty days of incessant labor, and the expenditure of much of my private property, I have succeeded in securing the maintenance and immunities, you have returned to give an account of your stewardship.

Hence, with all respect for the other members of this honorable representative district, I assert that your conduct merits a special and commendable mention, as having received their almost unanimous and unqualified approval. Your action has been watched and particularly scrutinized throughout the last session of the General Assembly of this State. Whenever the eyes of Louisiana were directed upon any question of public interest, or upon any matter in which the people in general, and our race in particular, the eyes of almost every one interested were cast upon the proceedings of the session, now pending before the Legislature. The course pursued by some of our Representatives, I regret to be constrained to assert, has not met the approbation of the people. It is to be regretted that you have made no report at the proper time; but with you, sir, I reiterate it was different. Nowhere in these proceedings can your vote be found wanting, or recorded in a manner which would reflect discredit upon the welfare of your race. On the contrary, it was always, I take pride in saying, cast in favor of the integrity of the Republican party, and in support of the sacred rights of our people.

I appealed to the journal of the House of Representatives in proof of this assertion. But this is all that I can say, and I do not wish to be understood as implying that I have any objection to your conduct, or that I have any objection to your position. I have only to say that I have no objection to your position, and I have no objection to your position.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, JAMES F. CANEY, Collector.

To Hon. George S. Boutwell, Secretary of the Treasury. What a spectacle is presented here! The spectacle of an honest man lying in advance of accusation, and crying, "Thou canst not say I did it." What does he say? "To correct any misapprehension that may exist." So, then, Mr. Collector's action in the matter was on its face of no question, a character as, in his estimation, to afford ground for "misapprehension" by the department. A very generous admission indeed. Your frankness, Mr. Casey, deserves more from an admiring public than your discretion and, take notice, you will be duly credited. You have now surrendered the key of your treasures into the hands of justice, which, though its organs are sometimes perverted to wrong, has resources that the evil tort but can not escape.

Suppose the department did not misapprehend, would it be likely to act upon a mere suspicion, and without careful investigation by its agents? Was it to forestall inquiry that he wrote? Some suspicious persons, less delicate than others, would infer that the object of this letter was to prevent investigation, and that its author, conscious of resting under the shadow of a mighty sceptre, believed it would be of fact.

What is the chief point with reference to which he is so anxious that the department shall not suffer under misapprehension? He says that when he took charge of the office, April 12, 1869, he immediately began a most comprehensive system of investigation, and that within ten days he discovered fraudulent weighing and gauging of the sugars imported by August Conturie & Co. Will he now be good enough to relieve us from any misapprehension we may be laboring under with reference to a little point in this connection? Will he tell us why it was that several months after his alleged investigation had begun, he expressed the most utter surprise upon being informed by Mr. Dillingham, the naval officer, that these frauds were going on? Anazoid, were you, Mr. Collector, to learn a fact of such startling import—to learn something that you already knew?

Again, he "kept the matter perfectly quiet until the arrival of other suspected cargoes." That hardly disposes of the charge of concealment of duty in failing to inform the department. Keep it quiet! Of course he would, for ruin might follow disclosure. But what says the President's message upon this question of waiting "until the arrival of other suspected cargoes"? Let him be informed that the people know it. Let him be told, in all kindness, that if he would be honored by the people, he must respect their rights, he must do their bidding, he must recognize no rivals, even though they be brothers-in-law, he must cleanse from his foulness the civil service, he must obey and execute the laws. This question of the collectorship is not to be evaded. We urge him to decide, not in view of the Philadelphia convention, though his decision will have its effect there, but in view of duty, and to decide quickly. RAD.

Serena to Hon. T. B. Stamps. At ten o'clock on Monday night, second instant, a representative sample of Jefferson parish, was aroused from his slumbers by hearing the exquisite musical sound of a brass band in front of his residence at Carrollton. The Representative, thinking, perhaps, the "Grand Duke" was about, threw open his doors, and to his astonishment there were about seven or eight hundred souls staring him in the face. He was not a little surprised to make a notice of Hon. Z. McKay, Mayor of Carrollton; Hon. Joseph L. Montion, Messrs. J. J. Gaudet, J. H. Perkins, Alfred Monroe, T. F. Wheeler, J. G. Ellis, Joseph Brooks, A. Tolson and others.

After several national airs by the band, J. B. Gaudet, Esq., amid deafening cheers, stepped upon the portico and spoke as follows: Honorable T. B. Stamps: I have been selected by this vast multitude of Republican voters of the parish of Jefferson, who are assembled here to-day, to make a few remarks to you, their immediate representative, as a partial manifestation of their gratitude, and by way of welcome to you upon your return home to the cherished care of your dear family and your many friends. In endeavoring to do so, sir, I must beg your indulgence for a few moments in which to make efforts to discharge this arduous but pleasant trust. I am entitled to me as best I can—a trust, sir, which, from my own knowledge of your integrity as a man, and of your fidelity to the fundamental principles of your party, I am disposed to believe will be fully and gratefully sustained. I could not, however, but which, I frankly confess, I knew I had not the power to fulfill upon this special occasion. Having been delegated, in common with others, to represent the wishes and interests of the whole people of Louisiana, I have had the honor to be elected to this office, and have been characterized by an earnest and unwavering watchfulness for those of your constituents and party. After sixty days of incessant labor, and the expenditure of much of my private property, I have succeeded in securing the maintenance and immunities, you have returned to give an account of your stewardship.

Hence, with all respect for the other members of this honorable representative district, I assert that your conduct merits a special and commendable mention, as having received their almost unanimous and unqualified approval. Your action has been watched and particularly scrutinized throughout the last session of the General Assembly of this State. Whenever the eyes of Louisiana were directed upon any question of public interest, or upon any matter in which the people in general, and our race in particular, the eyes of almost every one interested were cast upon the proceedings of the session, now pending before the Legislature. The course pursued by some of our Representatives, I regret to be constrained to assert, has not met the approbation of the people. It is to be regretted that you have made no report at the proper time; but with you, sir, I reiterate it was different. Nowhere in these proceedings can your vote be found wanting, or recorded in a manner which would reflect discredit upon the welfare of your race. On the contrary, it was always, I take pride in saying, cast in favor of the integrity of the Republican party, and in support of the sacred rights of our people.

I appealed to the journal of the House of Representatives in proof of this assertion. But this is all that I can say, and I do not wish to be understood as implying that I have any objection to your conduct, or that I have any objection to your position. I have only to say that I have no objection to your position, and I have no objection to your position.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, JAMES F. CANEY, Collector.

To Hon. George S. Boutwell, Secretary of the Treasury. What a spectacle is presented here! The spectacle of an honest man lying in advance of accusation, and crying, "Thou canst not say I did it." What does he say? "To correct any misapprehension that may exist." So, then, Mr. Collector's action in the matter was on its face of no question, a character as, in his estimation, to afford ground for "misapprehension" by the department. A very generous admission indeed. Your frankness, Mr. Casey, deserves more from an admiring public than your discretion and, take notice, you will be duly credited. You have now surrendered the key of your treasures into the hands of justice, which, though its organs are sometimes perverted to wrong, has resources that the evil tort but can not escape.

Suppose the department did not misapprehend, would it be likely to act upon a mere suspicion, and without careful investigation by its agents? Was it to forestall inquiry that he wrote? Some suspicious persons, less delicate than others, would infer that the object of this letter was to prevent investigation, and that its author, conscious of resting under the shadow of a mighty sceptre, believed it would be of fact.

What is the chief point with reference to which he is so anxious that the department shall not suffer under misapprehension? He says that when he took charge of the office, April 12, 1869, he immediately began a most comprehensive system of investigation, and that within ten days he discovered fraudulent weighing and gauging of the sugars imported by August Conturie & Co. Will he now be good enough to relieve us from any misapprehension we may be laboring under with reference to a little point in this connection? Will he tell us why it was that several months after his alleged investigation had begun, he expressed the most utter surprise upon being informed by Mr. Dillingham, the naval officer, that these frauds were going on? Anazoid, were you, Mr. Collector, to learn a fact of such startling import—to learn something that you already knew?

Again, he "kept the matter perfectly quiet until the arrival of other suspected cargoes." That hardly disposes of the charge of concealment of duty in failing to inform the department. Keep it quiet! Of course he would, for ruin might follow disclosure. But what says the President's message upon this question of waiting "until the arrival of other suspected cargoes"? Let him be informed that the people know it. Let him be told, in all kindness, that if he would be honored by the people, he must respect their rights, he must do their bidding, he must recognize no rivals, even though they be brothers-in-law, he must cleanse from his foulness the civil service, he must obey and execute the laws. This question of the collectorship is not to be evaded. We urge him to decide, not in view of the Philadelphia convention, though his decision will have its effect there, but in view of duty, and to decide quickly. RAD.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The following is a recapitulation of the public debt statement for the month ending February 29:

Table with columns: Description, Amount. Rows include Principal, Interest, Total, etc.

A Notable Meeting. A Washington special of the twenty-ninth, to the St. Louis Democrat, says: There was a notable meeting before the House Committee on the District of Columbia this morning, when John W. Garrett, head man of the Baltimore and Ohio corporation, Tom Scott, the Pennsylvania railroad king, met face to face, for the first time, since the late session of the Senate, to discuss the granting of a part of the public reservation on Sixth street, near Pennsylvania avenue, for a depot for the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad. Scott's proposition was to make a depot on Sixth street, and to make a depot on Sixth street, and to make a depot on Sixth street.

The Shreveport Times says: Colonel George Williamson returned from Washington City and New York on the steamer "Texas" on Monday morning. He is satisfied of the railroad prospects. He is satisfied of the railroad prospects. He is satisfied of the railroad prospects.

SPECIAL NOTICES. Assessment Notice.—Economy Mutual Aid Association, No. 45 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Office Mutual Aid and Benevolent Life Insurance Association of Louisiana, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city November 4, 1871, and are called upon to pay the same at the office of the Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, on or before the 10th inst.

Notice.—New Orleans Credit Bureau Association, No. 129 Carondelet street, New Orleans, March 2, 1872. The members of this Association are hereby notified that assessments No. 6, 7 and 8, caused by the death of August Choucaux, are hereby notified of the death of August Choucaux, who died in this city October 12, 1871, and Michael Bayler, who died in this city