Local Intelligence.

THE REASON WHY.—Our correspondent, Knarr, asks why it is that the forsaken little village of Covington, St. Tammany parish, delightfully situated, is so entirely neglected by New Orleans people. One reason is plain and indisputable: That section has for many years been cursed with men who glory in the number of human lives they have taken by violence, and the number of men they have run off. We can mention several names—men whose hands are red with blood—that today go and come as they please, having no fear of outraged laws. They receive any severe punishment that a few days' imprisonment in that cell of the parish prison is worth.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Melinda Stokes and Susan Martin, who were convicted of assault and battery, but recommended to the mercy of the court, were sentenced—Melinda to pay a fine of $25 or go down for ten days, and Susan to pay over $10 or go down for twenty-four hours to the Parish Prison.

RECORDED HIGHLIGHT.—Alexander Mitchell, charged by Harman Esenstien with burglariously entering the premises, No. 85 Delta street, and stealing two gold watches and chains, several pieces of jewelry and about $30 in gold and greenbacks, to the Criminal Court under bonds of $300.

A large building is in course of construction at the corner of St. Charles and Clio streets, and another at the corner of St. Charles and Terpsichore streets.

The river is eleven feet below high water mark of 1892, and rising.

THE PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

[Brief Communications Published—Long Ones Invariably Rejected—The Editor not Responsible for the Sentiments Expressed in the Communications.]

A Plan for the Sparrow. A few days since I read an article in your valuable paper in reference to some sparrows. Do you know, sir, we have no law to protect the birds in this city? Two years ago a distinguished physician of our city had a law passed to prevent birds from being killed in the city. But, unfortunately, it extended out to the swamps, the region of the ortolan and papabot, and of course the bon vivants could not stand that. It was, attacked by all. One of the witty editors, whom I suspect is an epicure, amused us by his lively regrets at the loss of the papabot, and the bill was revoked.

I have been watching some merry little birds in my garden all the spring, and enjoying their gambols and their songs, but with fear. A few days since, one of the dear little fellows was killed by a stone thrown by some mischievous boy. The English sparrows (which it is a charming sight to see so fearless, as we see them in the streets of a large city) would be no safer than our native birds.

If some law could be passed, including only the city proper (that is the streets), perhaps the lovers of papabot would allow the cardinals, the mocking bird and the sparrows to cheer us with their beauty and their songs.

Mr. REPUBLICAN, I know that you are powerful—that you can influence the factors of the city to pass this law. Do it, my dear sir, and many will thank you.

ON CARONDELLET STREET. The cotton movement is undiminished in activity or energy, though factors are putting up their prices to pay for the dry spell of the preceding few days. The following table shows the rates at which the cotton business set, and the waver is anticipated, will be higher on the beginning of the week:

Table with 3 columns: Item, Ashed, B. L. Gold, 111.00, 112.00; State National Bank, 111.00, 112.00; New Orleans National Bank, 111.00, 112.00; Mechanics and Traders' Bank, 111.00, 112.00; Southern Bank, 111.00, 112.00; People's Bank, 111.00, 112.00; Mercantile Bank, 111.00, 112.00; Crescent City Railroad Company, 111.00, 112.00; Orleans Railroad Company, 111.00, 112.00; New Orleans Gaslight Company, 111.00, 112.00; Jefferson City Gaslight Company, 111.00, 112.00; Calcasieu Sulphur and Mining Company, 111.00, 112.00; Sugar Land Company, 111.00, 112.00; Louisiana Levee Company, 111.00, 112.00; Ammonia Propelling Company, 111.00, 112.00; Mississippi Valley Navigation Company, 111.00, 112.00; Salamander Insurance Company, 111.00, 112.00; Factors and Traders' Insurance Company, 111.00, 112.00; Louisiana State Warehouse, 111.00, 112.00; Louisiana State certificates of insurance, 111.00, 112.00; City certificates of appropriation, 111.00, 112.00; City five per cent. Waterworks, 111.00, 112.00; City favor of railroad bonds, 111.00, 112.00; City ten per cent. bonds, 111.00, 112.00.

There is no new thing in Levee stock, which is rated at the same figures as the day before, and no sales are heard of in any quarter.

There is a threatened break in Lottery stock, which is now not quoted at all, so "unsartin" has it become. The air is full of rumors concerning suits at law and big prizes drawn, among which, it is reported, some lucky man held a ticket which drew $25,000 yesterday, it being anticipated this would make it "flat."

No sales reported at the Board of Brokers last evening. The offerings and bids were as follows:

A. Walz, same charge. A. Gaffney, malicious mischief. Joseph and Johanna Newman, larceny; prescribed. Philip Brown, alias Peter Burton, convicted of larceny, was sentenced to one day in the Parish Prison.

Peter Connolly, who pleaded guilty to larceny, was sentenced to three months in the Parish Prison.

James Lightning, alias Wagner, was convicted of larceny. Harry Johnson, also, of the same offense.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCES—Polytechnic School.—The committee of fifteen appointed by the Academy of Sciences to report and consider projects for the establishment of a polytechnic school, held a meeting at the University building last evening. Eight members of the committee were present, including the chairman, Professor C. G. Forsyth.

The chairman stated that the advertisements for plans and suggestions had, so far, not met with a single response—a fact, he said, could be taken for what it was worth.

Several plans were talked over by the members of the committee. Mr. James Freret offered some suggestions, which he was requested to elaborate and place on paper for presentation at a future meeting.

On motion of Dr. Nicholson, Professor Forsyth and Messrs. Freret, Komitz and Richards were appointed a committee to invite such persons as they might think proper to prepare projects or offer suggestions, and to meet with the committee on Saturday evening, March 23, to discuss the subject thoroughly; also, to secure the services of a suitable person to publicly lecture upon the subject of industrial schools.

After a further general comparison of ideas among the members present, the committee adjourned.

THE DUELLO.—The police last evening received information that a duel was to take place between Colonel Perkins and Mr. W. S. Long. As dueling is contrary to law and good order, our inquisitive police took the trouble to stay proceedings.

Invitations—St. Patrick's Day. Mr. D. Moriarty, marshal of Hibernian Benevolent and Mutual Aid Association, No. 1, sends us tickets of admission to Old Fellows' Hall, after the parade to-day, to partake of the collation to be given by that branch.

By Branch No. 2, Hibernian Benevolent and Mutual Aid Association, the editorial staff of the REPUBLICAN are invited to attend a dinner to be given by that association at their hall on Marigny street, at four o'clock this afternoon, St. Patrick's day.

From Branch No. 4, Hibernian Benevolent and Mutual Aid Association, an invitation has been received to participate with them in the celebration of St. Patrick's day. After the procession a pleasant reunion of the members of No. 4 will take place in St. John's schoolhouse, to which a representative of the REPUBLICAN is also invited.

With the compliments of Robert E. Diamond and Mr. D. Crowley, marshal, we have received an invitation to dine with Hibernian Benevolent and Mutual Aid Association No. 5, after the procession to-day, at the Louisiana Hotel.

FURNITURE.—Messrs. Montgomery are in daily receipt from the Eastern and Western manufacturers of rosewood, mahogany, and black walnut bed-room suits, parlor sets, upholstery in Cataline, reps, Terry, and hair cloth, French plate glass door armors, French and German mantel and pier mirrors, rockers, etc., which they offer to city and country buyers at very low prices. Their warehouses are at Nos. 75 and 83 Camp street.

St. Louis insists that its population has increased 40,000 since the census of 1870. We are not prepared to deny that all the matrons of that village may have had twins during the intervening period; but when we are by implication asked to believe that the male inhabitants have done likewise our credulity revolts.

THE CITY HALL.

It seems that the opposition to the right of way to the Eighth and Coliseum street railroad has not entirely ceased on the part of the up-town people. They have another protest in the hands of the Mayor. But, by a ridiculous mistake in the spelling of a word, their protest seems to be in favor instead of against the road. They protest against the road of the road. They evidently mean road. Nevertheless, it may be well enough for them to be particular in their spelling in future, lest they say what they don't mean.

Quite a significant action was taken at the City Hall, in the Department of Improvements, yesterday. It seems the administrator has been annoyed by much evil company of late, and has grown weary of it. Seeing a crowd in the front office, he called to Street Commissioner Pearson, and told him that "he didn't want any more of that kind of company."

"Strange enough," the street commissioner thought the order applied to his district superintendents, and forthwith gave them orders to leave, "and not come back any more till they were sent for," repeating what his chief had said about it. Harry Waters was the first to depart.

The tax bills are now ready for settlement, and the collections are quite as brisk as is usual at this season of the year. A number of property-holders are paying two and three-sixteenths per cent, which includes the Metropolitan Police and school tax, but the Administrator of Finance demands but two per cent, the rest increasing the tax not having been approved. It is thought, however, the bill will be signed as soon as Governor Warmoth returns to the city, and to avoid further trouble many taxpayers think it best to pay all at once.

A petition from produce dealers has been presented to the City Council asking that the proposition to make a landing for flats at the head of Washington street be reconsidered. Should that step be taken, many cargoes of produce would be thrown into the hands of wholesale merchants, and small dealers would be compelled to buy from second instead of first hands.

The grand jury has recently visited the Boys' House of Refuge, and finds the institution in a most uncomfortable position. The foreman will, probably, have a consultation with the Administrator of Police concerning the institution.

The Council met yesterday as a committee of the whole with closed doors. What action was taken has not yet been made public.

Upon examination, it was found that many of the engines reported in the estimate as simply requiring repairs, will need entirely new doors.

Police Commissioner J. A. Ragnal and the Committee on Accounts yesterday morning destroyed $1,236,116 70 worth of police warrants, being the amount received in three fiscal years from the State Treasurer. The warrants were taken to the gas works and thrown into a furnace.

NEW BOOKS. THE THEORY OF THE MODERN SCIENTIFIC GAME OF WHIST. By William Pole, F. R. S. New York: G. W. Carleton & Co., New Orleans: Kain & Co., No. 130 Canal street.

This is, perhaps, the best treatise on card-playing ever written—certainly it is the most thorough and scholarly work ever read on the subject. The principles of the play are carefully analyzed, the rules elaborately explained, and the percentages of chances exactly calculated. No whist player, expert or novice, should miss its perusal.

NOTES, EXPLANATORY AND PRACTICAL, on the First Episode of Paul to the Corinthians. By Albert James, New York: Harper & Brothers, New Orleans: Kain & Co.

This is a revised edition of the celebrated "Barnes' Notes," and is not only full of interest for the professing Christian, but contains useful and entertaining information, both of geographical and historical character, bound in a beautiful, and with a view of Corinth looking toward the Acropolis, accompanying the introduction.

AROUND THE WORLD: Sketches of Travel Through Many Lands and Over Many Seas. By E. D. G. Prime, D. D. With numerous illustrations. New York: Harper & Brothers, New Orleans: Kain & Co.

This is a most entertaining volume indeed, and brings us into close acquaintance with people and countries that are but just becoming known to Americans and Eurotians. The author jogs socially along with his readers among the wonders of the Pacific Slope of our own continent, thence to Japan, China, India, the Holy Land, and back home again by way of Naples, Florence, Rome and Venice. There is much that is new, much more that is not, but is told with a vigor and originality which give it the charm of novelty, and the variety must prove pleasing to all.

THE LOVELS OF ARDEN. A Novel. By Mrs. M. E. Braddon. With illustrations. New York: Harper & Brothers, New Orleans: Kain & Co.

An opinion, based, it is true, on a rather superficial investigation, leads us to recommend this as one of the best works of this leading and prolific authoress. It is catalogued among Harper's select novels, is clearly printed, and the engravings are full of life and character. It is full of spirit, and the plot is not too harrowing for warm days, such as we now enjoy.

PERSONAL AND PERTINENT. The Dec makes an assertion which opens the door to a very interesting discussion. In noticing the death of Mr. George Eastis at the town of Cannes, in France, after enumerating the events of his life, and repeating the very circumstances which debarred his title to the right which it claimed for him, the Dec assumes that the United States lost a valuable citizen by the death of Mr. George Eastis. The discussion that this assertion suggests is: Was Mr. Eastis an American citizen? Was he not debarred from that title by the laws of the United States on account of his participation in the rebellion? Was he not equally debarred from assuming the title by voluntarily acquiring a home in France, and by permanently removing his family outside of and beyond the limits and control of the United States? Did not Mr. Eastis abdicate his rights as an American by deserting the country in the very hour of her greatest peril, and when his assistance was more than ever necessary in assisting toward the restoration of his own State to prosperity? If it shall be decided that he was a technical citizen, which men are of service to their native land? Mr. Eastis was a man of talents, and was greatly esteemed by his friends. There is no doubt but that he might have made himself a valuable American citizen, but whether or not he did is open to discussion.

THE CITY HALL.

From the Marais street steam brewery, of which Mr. H. F. Sturken is proprietor, we received yesterday a half barrel of pale cream ale, which is now on draft in one of the editorial rooms. Mr. Sturken, after many years of research and experiment, has succeeded in producing a quality of ale which can not be excelled by any other brewery in the United States. He has engaged, at a large salary, the services of Mr. Benjamin Draper, an experienced brewer from New York, and he is now prepared to compete with all others. This cream ale is pronounced delicious, and dealers can obtain their supplies from the brewery, Nos. 82, 84 and 86 Marais street.
