Local Intelligence.

REGULAR FRAUDS.—Samuel Woodbury, William Johnson and James White, unwell.

They tried to earn their bread by the sweat of their brows, induced themselves into the accused mysteries of strap and drop games.

They practiced their necessities on strangers, and those whose education had not been closely looking after.

Recorder Houghton did a good thing in giving the three accused a restraining ticket for sixty days each on the long chain.

George Alexander goes down to keep them company.

Frank Robinson, finding his exchequer quite exhausted, flew into the face of the law, and became guilty of larceny, stealing numerous articles from Josephine Comand, Dryades street.

He will see a jury for that offense and for carrying a concealed weapon.

TAUCRA.—A male bovine, so-called for sake of mistaken delicacy, ran a muck corner of St. Phillip and Old Levee streets yesterday morning, and in running found Louis Weiser in his path.

One of the two went to grass, and it was not the bull. Mr. Weiser was sent to his residence.

BODY FOUND.—The body of a drowned man was found at the head of Celeste street yesterday morning, and it is supposed to be that of Aristede de Lavigne, who fell into the river off a vessel several days ago.

ANOTHER MALE BOVINE.—Bulls on the tear are like accidents—come all in a heap. One escaped from the steamboat Richmond yesterday morning, and went on to the war path, picking out a track through several streets down town, crushing two or three persons along the route.

When near the corner of St. Claude and Elysian Fields streets he ran jam up against a bullet sent off by Sergeant Thibaut. The bullet was one too many for the bovine, and the last seen of him was the bone man taking him off for his hide and tallow, bones and soap fat.

Raphael Talares, Cuban vendor, found his way into prison because F. Mascero chose to consider that he had obtained money by means of false pretenses.

Edward Long, German waiter, was pulled out of the St. Charles Hotel, in consequence of the sudden disappearance of a diamond, claimed by M. Schofield.

John Williams knows how it is himself to be in prison. Four barrels of cotton vanished from the burned bark Monetta just before.

It seems to be an error that the cotton pickery fire originated in Paul Lecour's establishment. It is now stated that the fire broke out in Patrick Murphy's stable, on Richard street.

Judge Abell, having made a sly remark to Judge Atchoa, when the latter was acting as counsel for Earle and Garvey, made proper amends as soon as he discovered his error. Judge Abell is not too proud to acknowledge a mistake as soon as he is convinced that he is wrong.

GRAND GERMAN VOLKSFEST.—On Sunday and Monday, the twenty-first and twenty-second instants, a grand German Volkfest will be held on the Fair Grounds, which promises to be a splendid success.

Nearly every kind of amusement will be included in the programme. The general committee consists of the following gentlemen:

President, Charles Pottoff, vice president, F. Richter, treasurer, J. Weckler; secretaries, Benjamin Arrubruster and K. Becker.

The following committees have been organized:

Committee on Grounds and Buildings—Louis Stein, chairman.

Committee on Amusements—A. Himmel, chairman.

Committee on Music—Professor Louis Mayer, chairman.

Committee on Refreshments—J. A. Schalk, chairman.

Committee on Lighting and Fireworks—John Van Sloten, chairman.

Committee on Invitations and Printing—Jacob Hassinger, chairman.

Committee on Races—Charles St. Frey, chairman.

Finance Committee.—Messrs. F. Oberhauser, and H. Droste.

The Volkfest will be the inauguration of annual grand festivals, which will give enjoyment to everybody in search of well conducted and tastefully arranged amusements.

A large number of citizens, brewers, etc., have already offered the committee their fine decorated wagons, with six horses, to add to the grand procession, and from what we can learn from the general committee, the procession will be one of the finest turnouts in that line in our city.

INDUSTRY.—Honey bees on a regular spring loaf, found nothing better to gather than to go together in a swarm on a hand cart in Camp street, near the Poydras office.

The chief engineer of the cart was one, puzzled, not knowing what to do. One who knows something about farthing secured the swarm in a barrel and took them away.

The police report war to the death on rapid dogs daily.

BURBUNDY STREET HOMICIDE.—Recorder M. Arthur gave his decision in the case of Manuel Lozada, charged by Coroner Jackson with the murder of Jose Calbino, on Burgundy street, in February last. The accused was sent before the Criminal Court under $500.

THE EARLE AND GARVEY CASE.—Judge A. A. Tatche yesterday died a written consent from the Attorney General that, with the approval of the court, the defendants, Earle and Garvey (for the second time con-

CRIMINAL COURT.—A jury was empanelled in the McGloin murder case.

William Davis, convicted of stealing a gold watch and chain valued at $100 from Jose Brisolari, was sent for one year to the Penitentiary. The larceny was committed by the accused on the same day he left the Parish Prison, his sentence for a former larceny having expired.

Henry Parker, charged with larceny, was convicted.

In the case of Pierre Berdia and Jean Capdeville, convicted, without capital punishment, of the crime of having, during the night of the thirty-first of October, 1870, entered, armed with deadly weapons, the dwelling house of J. Segassy, on Old Levee street, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for life, to whom a new trial had been granted by the Supreme Court, the appeal taken by their counsel, J. C. Walker, a motion for bail was made, and bail fixed at $10,000 in each case. The above is what was commonly known as the Rochereau burglary case.

THE FIRE LAST NIGHT.—A fire broke out in the lower story of No. 53 Poydras street about midnight. The place below was used as a wine bottling establishment and the upper stories as tenement rooms. A barrel of combustible matter was found by the police on their arrival after the alarm, and the supposition is that the fire was incendiary. The first floor was pretty well cleaned out, but the amount of loss or insurance could not be ascertained.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Officers Collins and Lepuis took Samuel Realy to the Charity Hospital, he having swallowed thirty cents worth of morphine, intending to kill himself. He says he came from Pittsburg, and is twenty-six years old.

McKean Buchanan.

Our telegraphic dispatches of yesterday morning announced the death of this gentleman.

Mr. McKean Buchanan was, some years ago, a merchant in this city, and many of our old citizens will remember him. He became imbued with the idea that he could be an actor, and lost no opportunities to obtain an opening from the managers of that period, but for a long time was unsuccessful in his efforts.

However, finding that the principal objection of the managers was their not being a native of the city, he made a proposition to the late James H. Caldwell, who, we think was at that time the proprietor of the theatre on Poydras street, to play for one week. Buchanan guaranteeing some three or four hundred dollars per night, which would cover the expenses of the theatre, and he to receive all over that amount. The receipts on the night of his first appearance were over $1000, and his performance considered a success. The following nights, however, were not so successful, and we believe the result of the week's business was a small loss to Mr. Buchanan. But his artistic success, and the flattering notices he received from the press of the city, complimenting his power and talent as a tragedian, induced him to give up his commercial pursuits and adopt the stage as a profession.

He played numerous successful engagements in this country and afterward visited California, Australia and Europe. He returned from England ten or twelve years since, and from that time until the present season he was the manager of a travelling company, playing himself as the star, and was generally received with favor by the public. His daughter, Miss Virginia Buchanan, who is a very talented and beautiful actress, was with him for some time as the leading lady of the company, but for the last year or two has been engaged at the Globe Theatre, Boston.

Mr. Buchanan was a gentleman of very peculiar habits and many eccentricities, of great experience and a great traveler. His talents as a tragedian were often rewarded with the most glowing praise, and again met with most adverse criticism. Personally, he was a gentleman of excellent education, very affable and genial, and greatly esteemed by those who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

There are many anecdotes which illustrate his peculiarity of manner, one or two of which may not be out of place here. While playing in Australia, to very fine business, Mr. Buchanan found, much to his astonishment, that his receipts were, comparatively, quite small. He consulted his agent regarding the matter, but could elicit nothing satisfactory from him, so he determined to find out where the leak was himself, which he did the next night, for he found that his agent pocketed a large percentage of the box office receipts, and of course made small returns to Mr. Buchanan. The agent being a valuable business man, Mr. Buchanan was loath to make a charge against him, although his dishonesty was evident. At last Mr. Buchanan hit on a plan which succeeded admirably. He was one of the best "poker" players in the world. The agent was also quite fond of "putting up his ante," so Mr. Buchanan used to invite him to his room at the hotel after the performance was over, and in an hour would "bust" the agent of every cent. He kept it up, and in this manner retained his valuable business man and got all his money regularly besides, for no matter how much the agent would "knock down" at the box office, Buchanan would win it all in an hour after the show was over.

While he was playing in New York, at the theatre that was formerly a church, situated opposite the New York Hotel, he received a good many harsh notices from the papers, principally on account of his voice, which was a deep double bass, and a very vigorous one at that. At the same time Barnum was exhibiting a gorilla—in his advertisements, spoke of the animal's "roaring like a lion." Well, a party of ladies and children on their way to see and hear the wonderful gorilla, were passing the theatre where Mr. Buchanan in "Rich-elen" was at that moment, using his loudest tones. The ladies and children, hearing this fearful noise, supposed at once it was the mufson, and very much astonished, as well as shocked, the gentleman at the box office by asking for seven tickets to see the "roaring gorilla."

An English correspondent of the New York Times says: "Mrs. Scott Siddons, who is about to put her remarkable pretty person on the stage, advertised some time ago for a drama suited to her powers as an actress. Three hundred plays were specially written for her, it is said, and from them, with or without reading them all, she has selected 'The Ordeal Touch' by Mr. Robert Lee.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Search Day of the Spring Meeting.

Agreeable weather is no inconsiderable point toward the success of a meeting, and in this respect the new club has been peculiarly favored. A warm sun with floating clouds can not be purchased with money or given by preference, yet this organization has been furnished with both. Baring very dusty roads, there has not been a single disagreeable circumstance thus far attending this meeting. The class of visitors has been excellent, the racing up to a recognized standard and money quite flush on the course. Fair ladies have graced each day with their presence in far greater numbers than was ever before seen on a course in this section. The story of yesterday's racing is easily told, and once more the favorites found back seats. Generally speaking, Blind Tom stood at the head in the first race, but there were better wagers who were willing to take the field against Tom, and they were sensible indeed.

SUMMARY.

First Race—Handicap hurdle race, two miles, for all ages, over six hurdles; purse $800; $600 to first horse, $150 to second horse, and $50 to the third horse.

5. George enters DANCE, dam Blonde by Imp. Gioconda, 5 y. 6 m. weight 12 pounds.

Time—3:57.

On making the second mile Von Moltke threw his rider, going on the second mile, and that left him in the cold. Blind Tom made no effort to regain the ground he lost in the start, off, but the Blacksmith was unwilling. Near the last half mile Tom put down his feet to win the race, and did gather up on Blacksmith, but could not secure more than a tail of his opponent, for the new favorite was going for the money. He cleared the hurdles as neatly as Tom ever did, getting under the string in good time—3:57.

SUMMARY.

Second Race—Pickwick style, sweepstakes for three-year olds; mile, sweepstakes, $25 entrance, p. 3; three or more, $30; club to add $150; $1200 to first horse, $300 to second horse, and the third horse to save his entrance.
