

New Orleans Republican. OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE UNITED STATES OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, JUNE 2, 1872. See notice of the Administrator of Public Accounts to holders of appropriation certificates.

The first number of the Shreveport Evening Telegram has been received. R. G. Lowe is editor.

The Carrier's Monthly Business Directory of Chicago, for April, 1872, is received. It is valuable for reference.

Senator Kellogg has our thanks for a copy of the testimony taken by the select committee to investigate the condition of affairs in this State.

The Italian Opera Company will give a grand farewell concert at Lyceum Hall next Tuesday evening. Complimentary tickets have been received.

A grand base ball festival will be given by the R. E. Base Ball Club at the Park next Sunday, the ninth instant. Complimentary tickets have been received.

The Orleans Dramatic Association will perform "Julius Caesar" at the Varieties Theatre next Thursday evening. We thank the committee of arrangements for complimentary tickets.

By the statement of receipts and expenditures of the entertainment given at the Varieties Theatre by the Ladies of the Benevolent Association of Louisiana, it will be seen that the net receipts were $1018 10.

A representative of the REPUBLICAN has been invited to witness the operation of the hydrostatic-galvanic gas-igniter, with explanations thereon, by Theodore Forstall, Esq., to-morrow evening at half past seven o'clock, at the Academy of Sciences.

The Levee and Barracks line of street cars yesterday commenced running to the Barracks, instead of stopping at Poland street. It is only very lately that Royal street has been opened beyond Poland street so that the cars can run over the entire route.

The concert given last night in Odd Fellows' Hall was for the benefit of the Infant Orphan Asylum, and was attended by some of our best people. The airs sung were popular, the music good, the singers in excellent voice and the audience an appreciative one.

The ladies of Napoleon Avenue Presbyterian Church have our thanks for an invitation to their series of entertainments for the benefit of their new church edifice, commencing on the evening of June 3, and continuing through the succeeding evenings of the week. All are cordially invited to attend.

The ladies of Napoleon Avenue Presbyterian Church propose to hold in their new church edifice, to-morrow evening and through the succeeding evenings of the week, a series of entertainments, consisting of music, recitations and tableaux. Refreshments will be disposed of also. All for the benefit of the church.

We have been favored with complimentary tickets for the grand fair to be held on the third instant, at the corner of Liberty and Gasquet streets, for the benefit of the Central Church. From what we hear, we judge that this fair will prove a most enjoyable occasion, while the purpose for which it is got up is most commendable.

The Harmonia Club, an association of Germans, paraded last night in strong force, having just received the blue silk flag (Union Jack) that the club gained at the recent Volkfest by a large vote. The procession was organized with the usual forms, and the organization, which was in large numbers, visited and received the congratulations of their friends.

It will be seen upon referring to our advertising columns that a change of firms has taken place in the great commission house of Lehman, Newgass & Co. by the withdrawal of Mr. B. Newgass. The firm now consists of Messrs. E. and M. Lehman, Henry Abraham and Henry Beer, under the style of Lehman, Abraham & Co., and we doubt not, will continue their career of prosperity as heretofore.

We have received complimentary tickets to a grand fair for the benefit of Central Church, at the corner of Liberty and Gasquet streets, commencing Monday, June 3, 1872. The officers are: Mrs. D. C. H. Thompson, president; Mrs. J. H. Ingraham, vice president; Mrs. J. T. Newman, treasurer; Miss Nellie Ramsey, secretary. Committee of arrangements: Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Joseph Dunn, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. James Isabella, Mrs. Higdon, Mrs. Robert Isabella and Mrs. Hutehinson.

Short-hand is one of the greatest advantages a person can possess, as it is always a source of livelihood. Any one who is a good phonographer can easily make from ten to fifty dollars a day. Stability and patience will master anything, and short-hand is no more difficult to learn than anything else. It is an interesting study, and once in the theory the student becomes in love with his work. Instructions given at the office of the REPUBLICAN. See advertisement.

Mons. E. Calabrese, manager of the New Orleans Opera, paid us a complimentary visit yesterday, to say good-by for the season, as he is about to go to Europe to make the usual arrangements for next season. He was accompanied by Mr. E. Wiltz, president of the Opera Association. We are glad to learn that the receipts of the association very nearly defrayed the expenses, leaving but a small amount to be made up by the stockholders. This is doing well, as it is proverbial that in no city does opera pay without outside assistance.

This hot weather reminds us to seek any place where we can get into the cool, and idle away a few hours after the hard day's work. Looking over our column for such a place of resort, we are reminded of "Idlewild," in the Sixth District, to be opened on the fourth instant by the ladies of the Sixth District. The grounds are delightfully situated a few squares above Napoleon avenue, and all are promised a musical and dramatic treat; while for the inner man cool drinks will be served by fair hands. Thus regaled, we shall enjoy viewing the young folks upon the dancing platform, which is one of the largest in the city. We hope to meet many of our tired, overworked citizens at this grand entertainment.

THE SITUATION. The convention which adjourned on Wednesday night was probably the ablest body of Republicans ever assembled in this State. It was composed of two hundred and thirty of the most active, earnest and intelligent representative men of the party. This convention was not the Liberal Republican Convention. It was the regular Republican Convention, called by the committee of which Lieutenant Governor Pinchback is chairman, for the purpose of sending delegates to the Philadelphia convention, and for the nomination of a State ticket. The friends of Governor Warmoth, having acted with this committee up to the time of the meeting of the Cincinnati convention, determined to attend it, with a view of influencing it, if possible, not to send delegates to Philadelphia, but to secure the endorsement of Mr. Greeley and the Cincinnati movement.

The first object was accomplished, and the convention is thus conspicuous as the first and only Republican regular convention which has met within the last four years that did not pass a resolution in endorsing Grant. So far all was well; but the attempt to commit the convention to the Cincinnati ticket was found to be impracticable for two reasons: 1. While a majority of the convention was undoubtedly for Greeley and Brown, there was a large element in it favorable to General Grant, not so much on account of their approval of his administration, as for fear of the long train of evils which they believed would follow the success of a Democratic ticket in this State.

2. While a large number of the delegates, probably a majority, were in favor of Greeley and Brown, they were impressed with the conviction that the plan of the Democrats and Reformers was to unite on a straight State ticket, and to assure its election by taking advantage of the division among Republicans, and that to this end they would reject a coalition with any branch of the Republican party. The question presented to the convention was whether to subordinate national State issues, as the Bee and Pionette, with the Democratic and Reform orators, have persistently advised, and to wait and bide the results of the Democratic and Reform conventions, or to break up the convention by springing the Presidential question and forcing a showing of hands. The facts had just as well be stated at once. If the Democrats and Reformers unite on a State ticket composed only of Democrats and Reformers, and refuse an honorable coalition with the Republicans who are the friends of Greeley and Brown, the Republicans will do the same by making a straight Republican ticket, and will do as their opponents propose to do—subordinate the Presidential and all other questions to the issues presented in the State contest.

There are a large number of Republicans who earnestly desire and will do all they honorably can to secure a change in the local administration of the State government, and who want to meet with the Democrats and Reformers on a fair State ticket to accomplish this object. This has been proposed time and again and advocated by the REPUBLICAN, and we have no doubt, would secure the endorsement of a majority of the convention which is to meet at Baton Rouge or such place as may be indicated by the State committee. But no dishonorable trade will be made; nor will the Republicans, as much as they desire to beat Grant and elect Greeley, consent to any arrangement by which they will not have a full, fair and just recognition on the State ticket, running in the interest of the national movement. If this fair and honorable proposition is ignored and rejected by the Democrats and Reformers, they may expect that the two Republican conventions will unite and run a State ticket, subordinating all questions to saving the State from men who care more for the success of the Democratic party than for reform in the State and national administrations.

HOW THE "WORLD" WAGS. The New York World, with its editorial heart as cold as marble steadily set against Republican principles, is doing its eccentric best to defeat the Liberal Republican movement inaugurated by the people at Cincinnati. It is one of the few Democratic papers that continues, in the language of the Bible, to "kick against the pricks."

The World, in its worldly sowings, is again tempted to ignore the lessons of the past that have so irrevocably decreed the death of the Democratic party. It still refuses to accept as final the repeated verdicts of the people since 1860, proclaiming the non-existence, for any good purpose, of the Democratic party. A well-directed perseverance is correctly esteemed a virtue; but to persevere in forcing upon the people the rule of a party that has become extinct because it has no settled opinion in common with the people, and therefore receives no life from them, is a malignant crime. In this the World is not even what it professes to be—Democratic—for it fails to respect the voice of the people.

The World has recently made the tergiversation of Mr. Ferry, the recently elected United States Senator from Connecticut by a combination of the friends of the Liberal Republican movement in the Legislature of that State, a cause for making a scandalous attack on Mr. Greeley. We are aware that political tricksters are generally capable of doing any species of meanness to accomplish their political ends, but would be sorry to learn that a man should have reached the exalted position of a United States Senator by pretending to be a Liberal Republican, and the fact had been generally circulated among the American people proclaimed himself a shameless liar and deceiver in denouncing the chief standard-bearer of the great Cincinnati reform movement. If Mr. Ferry is an honest and sincere Liberal Republican, we are satisfied he has not attempted to set up his judgment against the assembled wisdom in the Cincinnati convention.

If Mr. Ferry's heart is really with the people and the great reform movement in-augured by them at Cincinnati it would be "midsummer madness" in him (a disease that has been generally supposed to be confined to dogs) to oppose the chief embodiment of the principles of the new party. What good can come of Mr. Ferry's opposition to "the continuance of political disabilities after they have become a needless and mischievous irritation, without a single good result," if he opposes the party that honestly proposes to remedy the wrong when it is clothed by the people with the power to do it? What difference does it make whether he believes or not "in the miscalled civil rights bills, subversive of local self-government, and destructive of the school systems of whole groups of States," if he opposes the party that honestly proposes to remedy the wrong when it is clothed by the people with the power to do it? What difference does it make whether he believes or not "in the miscalled civil rights bills, subversive of local self-government, and destructive of the school systems of whole groups of States," if he opposes the party that honestly proposes to remedy the wrong when it is clothed by the people with the power to do it?

DECLINES THE HONOR. Few men in the State are better known than General J. Frank Pargoud, of Ouachita parish. A large and successful planter, a thorough business man and a genial, high-toned gentleman, he is, too, a keen observer of political events, and is capable of discerning the drift of the tide with the best of men. Some of the Bourbon Democrats, hoping to utilize the General's popularity, have earnestly besought him to become a candidate for Governor on a straight-out Democratic ticket, thus closing the door on all hopes of a combination with the Liberal Republicans, which the sober, reflecting men of that party deem so essential to reform success. But General Pargoud is not to be caught with chaff. He does not propose to become a sacrificial offering by those who would forever destroy a few surplus Democratic patriots that afflict Louisiana. He knows that even the chance which a canvass on his individual merits might give him would be utterly lost by their support and championship, and that they could but push him on to speedy and certain defeat. So, shrewd diplomatist as he is, General Pargoud writes to his friend, P. Malochet, Esq., peremptorily declining the high honors and dignity sought to be thrust upon him. Very good, indeed, General.

The Citizens' Guard has recently complained that so few Republicans seemed willing to submit their names to Packard's forthcoming convention for nomination to the various offices which are to be filled next November. Even its hungry growl don't like to hang their political chances by so frail a thread. The Democratic convention will be at no such loss. Candidates it will have of all degrees, and in large numbers. But it must not expect such level-headed men as Frank Pargoud to accept place on the ticket.

DIRT FOR DIRT. An unsuccessful effort was made in the Legislature before the last to give the printing of the journals of that body to the Pionette, as they were given to Carter's paper in Cameron, and about a dozen other papers, at a cost to the State of over one hundred thousand dollars. Governor Warmoth could not veto these transactions, as he would have done, because the work was paid for out of contingent funds that the House and Senate had exclusive control over. In the session before that a law was lobbied through giving the Bee the right to print all the legal sales in the parish of Orleans in French. Governor Warmoth did squelch that little swindle, and he has never been forgiven. Now, with a less vigilant officer in the executive department, the Pionette and Bee may both win their game. These are better arguments than the unsupported charges which these papers bring against the Governor. The parties, interested in the unsuccessful speculations to which we have adverted, may deny that they had any interest, or knowledge of the benefits that the Legislature attempted to heap upon them, but as they credit nobody else for honesty of expression, they cannot complain if the public measures them by their own yard sticks.

THREE POINTS OF FOLLY. In 1868 the Bourbon Democrats, being the same stupid set that now demand a straight Democratic ticket, refused to take part in the elections because the same were illegal, unconstitutional, and would amount to nothing. They now admit that they had no sense then. For four years after 1868 the same Bourbons, being the identical set of stupid that committed the above folly, and who insist on a straight Democratic ticket today, refused to acknowledge the colored people as citizens, which was as if they denied that there was any sun during the same space of time. They now admit that they wanted sense in this, for what they denied they now admit. In 1870 the same Bourbons, being as stupid in their ambition to carry the State as they are to-day, failed to elect a straight Democratic ticket while the Republican party was partially divided, and were beaten as badly as they were in 1868. They pretended that all the white voters would support their ticket, and in this they failed, for ten thousand white men voted for the Republicans, and twenty thousand conservatives refused to go to the polls. Their folly, then, is apparent in their presumption as it is in their conduct.

The Citizens' Guard uttered, and the Pionette repeated, a statement that Governor Warmoth made a speech to the Republican convention to the effect that he did not desire that body to accept his preference for the Presidency, that he desired them to eschew national politics, etc. This is a falsehood out of whole cloth. Governor Warmoth made no speech to the convention, nor has he made public declarations of any character since the organization of the Fourth District Liberal Republican Club, two weeks ago. But whatever sentiments he has expressed to Grant and unflinching support of Greeley and Brown. Will the Pionette—we do not expect fair-play from the Guard—make a proper correction?

In noticing General Frank Pargoud's declaration of a Democratic nomination for Governor, the Bee declares him to be a "distinguished citizen." We inform the Bee that General Pargoud is a Warmoth office-holder—that he has actually accepted a highly responsible appointment from his excellency. Hiring, minion, tool and thief is the sort of epithet to fling at the General. A correction and explanation is desirable.

What was foretold of the Pionette has come to pass, that it favored an alliance with General Grant. What the prophets predict of the Bee is, that it will support an alliance in the same quarter. They have used the same arguments for months and they are bound in the same direction, the one impelled by selfishness, and the other by stupidity. These two elements drift together as naturally as water seeks its level. All around us are the multiplied evidences that bad men succeed by manipulating weak ones.

Yesterday the Pionette deliberately assumed the position that the State could only be saved from Warmoth by going with Grant. The Bee will do the same thing in good time. This is what we have expected, for since they have both admitted that the Democrats were too weak to succeed in a direct contest, because such a conflict would inevitably reunite the Republican party, they have committed themselves to the necessity of a combination of some sort; and they gave unmistakable signs of partiality for a union with the Customhouse faction rather than with the Republican party, as represented by Governor Warmoth and Lieutenant Governor Pinchback.

If Louisiana goes into the hands of the corruptors next November, it will be the work of the Bourbons. Perhaps the Bee, then, will get its contract to print legal notices in French, and the Pionette may secure the journals.
