POLITICAL GLEANINGS.

It has been our fortune to glean a bit of political history which goes far to illustrate the trickery which characterizes every move made by the Customhouse ring.

All are familiar with the use made of the deceased Dunn as an incentive to the colored people to "go for Grant." His picture adorned their tickets and banners, and his sayings and writings are blazoned in all Granite assembly rooms.

No one ever seriously charged him with the authorship of the letter to Greeley which appeared just after Marshal Packard had driven the bulk of the Republican party out of the Customhouse with Galling guns—the letter which, as the utterances of a deceased patriot, forms the chief point of Packard's case before the congressional committee, and quotations from which point the moral and adorn the tale told by the Customhouse orators far and wide.

Yet few ever suspected that a fraud and imposition the episode was, not only on Greeley and the reading public, but on Dunn himself. This is the history of it:

The outrages perpetrated by Packard at the ninth of August convention had aroused popular indignation in all parts of the country. Party lines were ignored in the general denunciation, and the President felt compelled to act decisively in the matter if something was not at once done to at least stem, if not turn, the tide of outraged public sentiment. It was useless for Jim Casey, Packard, or any of that set, attempting the herculean task, and the only way they saw for salvation was to drag in the inevitable colored man.

Dunn was rather weakening on Packard's clique at that time, and they did not dare consult him, but Messrs. George W. Carter and Joseph H. Wilson took the bull by the horns by writing this now famous letter to Greeley and getting it published in Jim Ingraham's one-hour weekly sheet (of which the present Customhouse organ is the fit successor) called the Citizen's Guard.

"Dunn, in the words of the old song, 'kicks up the devil of a row just then,' but those who had made such free use of his name and sentiments finally pacified his irate excellency, and a compromise was effected, to wit: Dunn was to have all the honor and glory, and whatever else grew out of the surreptitious publication, and the letter should be reprinted in the New Orleans Times, emancipated of several distinct and specific charges against the official integrity of Governor Warmoth.

Mr. Dunn, like the Dolly Varden Pie, the Bea, and the numerous detractors of his Excellency, could go the broadside acrostically and general denunciation style of attack on Governor Warmoth, but when it came down to proving points, he begged to be excused.

So the thing went before the world. Opinions undreamed of, and denounced when first presented to him, were forced down the throat of Mr. Dunn as the convictions of the "representative of his race."

We make this exposé some what in sorrow for it cannot but lessen the estimate of Mr. Dunn's character for fairness, fairness, and honesty of purpose which has heretofore been placed upon it. Perhaps, however, it will have the effect of inducing the so-called friends of the late Lieutenant Governor to let his memory rest with his laurels no farther faded by their trickery.

Mr. DeKlyne should resign his post of permanent secretary to the Grant convention in Louisiana, or do his work up quicker. On Sunday, after the Baton Rouge convention was almost forgotten and the ticket it made condemned to everlasting political perdition, he came out in the Citizen's Guard with a dozen columns of minutes of the proceedings, as if it were a new and good thing. We had not time or patience to go through it, so it may be deemed to conform to "all its friends' conduct, with it." We have no doubt it is the same game in the National Theatre affair which he knows how "the old thing works." But considering this production as a solemn obituary notice of Kellogg, Antoine & Co. DeKlyne's selection of Sunday for its publication was in the highest degree commendable.

Senator Kellogg has been presented with a list of the jobs, steals, plunders, grants, etc., which have passed through the Louisiana Legislature with the assistance and vote of his colleague, Antoine. He expressed himself shocked at the corrupt exhibit, and declared that such a load would sink any ticket. Will he resign or will Packard and Casey make Antoine withdraw? To run with Antoine is to endorse him. To endorse him is to signify approval of not only all the villainous schemes which have become laws, but the seventy odd which Governor Warmoth vetoed. How will Kellogg justify this with his letter to the five "old cities." We will get the list referred to and print it.

Address to the People of the State of Louisiana.

The two conventions recently assembled in this city having failed to result to the requirements the emergency demanded, we, the undersigned committee, have determined to appeal to the people of Louisiana, with a view to the selection of a representative political elements of the State, irrespective of party and past political differences, in order that we may present an undivided front to the people of Louisiana.

The action of the convention could not have been expected to reflect the public sentiment, or to be equal to the occasion; nevertheless, the members were, for months previous to its meeting, and under a very different state of circumstances. It was anterior to the Cincinnati movement, which was but faintly muttering the thunder of that storm that now rages throughout the entire land. Since then a political earthquake has occurred, disrupting parties and creating a chaos broad and deep between the followers of Cincinnati and the friends of the national administration.

Such is the national outlook to-day. To say that, in this conflict, Louisianians shall be idle spectators, is to insult their understanding and patriotism. In the great contest which now rages over the whole country between liberty and constitutional government, liberty and constitutional government, liberty and constitutional government, and vice, despotism and imperialism on the one hand, there cannot and will be no such thing as neutrality. The people of Louisiana will be either with the friends of liberty and the National and State reform, or one and inseparable. They can not be disconnected; it is fully and politically axiomatic.

When the Democratic and Reform committees undertook to repudiate the proposed fusion of all the elements of national reform, and to insist on the election of a nominee State, electoral and congressional tickets, they perpetrated an act which, if commuted by the people of the State, would result in the reinstallation of despotism, corruption and profligacy in our State Legislature for the next four years, and the reversion to the old order of things. It is against this retrograde movement that we protest; and we appeal to the people to rally, and discarding all considerations of party prejudice, to unite in an organization, which alone can save the nation from ruin, and the people from the overthrow of their constitutional liberty.

It is therefore ordered by the undersigned executive committee that a convention of delegates, on a basis of a duplicate of the National Reform Convention, of Representatives of the General Assembly of Louisiana, shall be elected by the different parishes and districts of the city of New Orleans, Louisiana, on the first Monday of August next, for the purpose of a thorough organization of all who concur in these views, sentiments and resolutions, and to elect a delegate to the National and State reform, and the leadership of Greeley and Brown.

NEW ORLEANS, Louisiana, July 8, 1872.

DANIEL W. ADAMS, Chairman Independent Greeley and Brown Executive Committee.

J. HASSINGER, Chairman National Reform Convention.

J. W. DeKlyne, undersigned, of the Natchitoches parish, of the State of Louisiana, without distinction of party, fully concurring and fully approve of the foregoing address, and the constitution of the National Reform proposed shall be held on the first Monday of August, 1872, as therein suggested:

E. L. Pierson, Chas. J. C. Puckette, J. H. Groves, L. Caspale, J. W. Drayton, J. A. Leony, C. V. Dieroff, L. A. Boster, John B. Levy, C. P. Blanchard, F. Johnson, M. D., J. S. Stephens, L. A. Deblieux, J. E. Jones, R. E. Burke, Emile Deblieux, C. Chapin, Sr., Charles H. Low, W. S. Combs, Jr., C. A. Ballard, Jr., J. Brete, J. C. Mack, W. H. Jesse, J. T. Lacoste, J. H. Groves, Jr., A. H. Leonard, George W. Ramsey, T. E. Tancie, Willis Holmes, G. Fanatun, John Gano, J. W. Butler, A. H. Ponce, R. S. Canale, J. D. Addison, W. B. Casparry, M. H. Carver, P. Myers, Elihu Holcombe, D. J. Conner, J. W. Drayton, J. A. Leony, R. F. Parker, W. J. Smith, J. B. Barlow, T. F. McLean, A. Debbex, Daniel Murray, M. Canzler, T. B. Leopold Cartel.

Custom Receipts.

The Granite's Battle Ground.

Settle, of North Carolina, who was president of the Philadelphia convention, undertook to give an account of his stewardship in the Granite's battle ground, but was not well received. We are told that, during his speech, "the Ka Klux began asking him pertinent questions." One of them actually had the audacity to inquire, "Where were you when secession began?" It is evident that if this sort of thing continues, Grant will have to call out the militia. The Ka Klux must be suppressed at all hazards.

North Carolina has become the great central battleground with the Granite's. Money is lavishly, within a few days past, a prominent supporter of Grant, supposed to be ex-Senator Abbott, went to New York to obtain money to be used in the canvass, and obtained $25,000, and handed it in to Washington, where election is in August and is the first to be held. If we are to believe the assessors, marshals, collectors, postmasters, etc., the State is certainly in a bad way, but we are to believe the people, Grant will be decidedly beaten in November. A federal reign of terror on the one hand and of cartage on the other still rules North Carolina.

Style Among the Barons.

A Salt Lake letter says: "When the congregation was dismissed the rustic of silk and the flashing of diamonds attracted my attention, and I saw many of the poor Mormons women going with long hair, but the rich dresses of their Gentile sisters. The contrast between saints and sinners was still farther heightened by the conduct of the men. The Gentiles men, in fact, if we are to believe the people, Grant will be decidedly beaten in November. A federal reign of terror on the one hand and of cartage on the other still rules North Carolina.

The Danbury Jones man says: "The majority of women care but little about suffrage. If the backs of our car seats could only be hollowed out so as to admit of their hands lying over the ballot might go to thunder," "all they care."

Among the celebrities at Long Branch are Leonard Jerome, Daniel Drew, August Belmont, John Morrissey, Lawrence Jerome, Gordon Gordon, John Chamberlin, Colonel Stockton, Lester Wallack and Edwin Booth.

Editing a newspaper is very much like carrying an umbrella in a windy day—everybody thinks he could manage better than the one who has hold of the handle.

The swiftest "pitch" in the country is a young woman aged twenty-three, belonging to a Minnesota female ball club.

One of the wealthiest bankers in Vienna started in life as an errand boy at a salary of fifty cents a week.

A schoolmaster, on being asked what was meant by the word fortification, answered, "Two identifications make a fortification."

A college student, in a discussion with a professor as to whether the sense of seeing or that of touch was the most delicate of the senses, maintained that the sense of touch was. "What proof can you give of this?" asked the professor. "Why," responded the student, "there's my chin's mustache; he's all the time feeling it, and nobody has ever been able to see it."

THE THIRD WARD.

It is not common for the third ward Liberals to suffer their meetings to be broken up by Customhouse emissaries. Even as it turned out, the Packard bunnies were by no means elated with their success. They will have reason for absolute grief if the experiment be tried on again. The Liberal Republicans of that ward are peaceable, quiet men, who dislike tumult and avoid as much as the sun controversy and dispute; but they know their rights, and know, too, how they ought to be maintained. The Radicals have no rights at their club meetings but as respectful spectators. It is an impertinence in them even to offer an objection, and in future it is likely to be interpreted in this way.

The origin of the row, it is said, was very remote from the cause assigned. One of the Baton Rouge candidates—a big dander, too—took a darkey home to dinner with him, without first consulting his wife on the subject. This so excited the indignant lady that she feathered on them with a broomstick. The candidate and his guest fled hoving from the house to meet at the club. In quietly talking over the matter, the colored man, feeling that his rights and privileges had been assailed, demanded satisfaction, at the same time drawing a pistol. This gave rise to a tumult, the lights were put out and the melee began.

It is rumored that Judge Sloanaker proposed, in the State Central Committee of the Liberal party, at its meeting last night, that after the Baltimore convention—indorsed the action of the Cincinnati convention there should be a fusion of the members of the Democratic and Liberal State Central Committees, and also between the respective parish committees, and after this the ward and parish Democratic clubs should be fused with the present Liberal central clubs, so that all the elements of the supporters of Greeley and Brown could participate in the election of delegates to the coming Liberal State Convention, provided first, however, that all the Liberal Democratic tickets should be withdrawn from the field, so that a free chance can be given to all in the nominations of tickets to be supported by the Liberals at the ensuing election. It is understood that no action was taken for the present, although this plan is in union with that of the Liberal and Democratic conventions recently held in the States of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania.

Also that Mr. Lane, of this committee proposed to adopt the cumulative system of voting in the election of delegates to the nominating convention, which means as an illustration, that where there are four delegates to be elected by a club, the elector shall have the right of casting his four votes for any one of the candidates, thus securing a minority representation in concert with the majority rule, which affords representation to all the elements comprising the Liberal movement in this State. It is understood that the committee will consider these propositions at a future meeting.

It was intimated on the streets yesterday that a committee, consisting of a majority of the presidents of the Liberal central ward clubs waited on Governor Warmoth, in the interest of political changes in the executive patronage, and after an interchange of opinions the Governor intimated that he deemed it inadvisable to make any general changes until after the action of the coming August Liberal State Convention.

It is also understood that the Liberal State Committee has transferred all matters relative to parish nominating conventions to the respective parish committees of the State.

A Democratic Bolt.

The president of the Democratic State Central Committee and the chairman of the Reform State Committee, Messrs. LaSere and Randolph, have united their forces and "come out." They present the following series of names, which they call the "united State ticket," for the suffrages of the people:

McMurry, of Ouachita, for Governor.

B. F. Jones, of Orleans, for Lieutenant Governor.

Daniel Bennett, of St. Mary, for Auditor.

H. N. Ogden, of Orleans, for Attorney General.

A. D. Lafargue, of Avoyelles, for Secretary of State.
