Ordinance sergeants of posts, thirty-four dollars. Sergeants majors of engineers, thirty-six dollars. Quartermaster sergeants of engineers, thirty-six dollars. Sergeants of engineers and ordinance, thirty-four dollars. Privates (first class) of engineers and ordinance, seventeen dollars. Privates (second class) of engineers and ordinance, thirteen dollars. Sec. 2. That to the rates of pay above established one dollar per month shall be added for the third year of enlistment, one dollar per month for the fourth year, and one dollar more per month for the fifth year, making in all three dollars increase per month for the last year of the first enlistment of each enlisted man named in the first section of this act. But this increase shall be considered as retained pay, and shall not be paid to the enlisted man named in the first section of this act, until he shall have served honestly and faithfully to the date of discharge. And all former laws concerning retained pay for the service of the army are hereby repealed. Sec. 3. That all the enlisted men enumerated in the first section of this act who have re-enlisted or who shall hereafter re-enlist shall be paid at the rates allowed in the second section of this act to those serving in the fifth year of their first enlistment, provided that the pay of re-enlisted men shall be retained from the pay of re-enlisted men, of whatever grade, named in the first section of this act, during the whole period of their re-enlistment, to be paid to the soldier on his discharge, but to be forfeited unless he shall have served honestly and faithfully to the date of discharge. Sec. 4. That the President is hereby authorized to establish a system of deposits, to prevent desertion, and elevate the condition of the rank and file of the army. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any enlisted man of the army may deposit his savings, in sums not less than five dollars, with any paymaster or quartermaster, to be held in a deposit book, in which shall be entered the name of the paymaster and the amount, date and place of such deposit. The money so deposited shall be subject to the order of the soldier, and shall not be subject to forfeiture by desertion, and shall not be permitted to be paid until final payment on discharge, or to the heirs or representatives of the soldier, or until that soldier is exempt from liability for such soldier's debts; provided, that the government shall be liable for the amount deposited to the person so depositing the same. Sec. 5. That if any sums not less than fifty dollars so deposited for the period of six months, or longer, the soldier, on final discharge, shall be entitled to a certificate of discharge, at the rate of four per centum per annum. Sec. 6. That the money value of all clothing overdrawn by the soldier beyond his allowance shall be charged against the soldier, and shall be deducted from the money he shall be entitled to on his final statement if sooner discharged. The amount due him for clothing, he having drawn less than his allowance, shall not be paid to him until his final discharge from the service. Sec. 7. That the system of deposits herein established shall be carried into execution under such regulations as may be established by the Secretary of War. Sec. 8. That the amounts of deposits and clothing balances accumulated to the soldier's credit under the provisions of this act, and three of this act shall, when payable to the soldier upon his discharge, be paid out of the appropriation for "pay of the army" for the year current fiscal year. Sec. 9. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. Approved May 15, 1872.

The money so deposited shall be subject to the order of the soldier, and shall not be subject to forfeiture by desertion, and shall not be permitted to be paid until final payment on discharge, or to the heirs or representatives of the soldier, or until that soldier is exempt from liability for such soldier's debts; provided, that the government shall be liable for the amount deposited to the person so depositing the same. Sec. 5. That if any sums not less than fifty dollars so deposited for the period of six months, or longer, the soldier, on final discharge, shall be entitled to a certificate of discharge, at the rate of four per centum per annum. Sec. 6. That the money value of all clothing overdrawn by the soldier beyond his allowance shall be charged against the soldier, and shall be deducted from the money he shall be entitled to on his final statement if sooner discharged. The amount due him for clothing, he having drawn less than his allowance, shall not be paid to him until his final discharge from the service. Sec. 7. That the system of deposits herein established shall be carried into execution under such regulations as may be established by the Secretary of War. Sec. 8. That the amounts of deposits and clothing balances accumulated to the soldier's credit under the provisions of this act, and three of this act shall, when payable to the soldier upon his discharge, be paid out of the appropriation for "pay of the army" for the year current fiscal year. Sec. 9. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. Approved May 15, 1872.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any enlisted man of the army may deposit his savings, in sums not less than five dollars, with any paymaster or quartermaster, to be held in a deposit book, in which shall be entered the name of the paymaster and the amount, date and place of such deposit. The money so deposited shall be subject to the order of the soldier, and shall not be subject to forfeiture by desertion, and shall not be permitted to be paid until final payment on discharge, or to the heirs or representatives of the soldier, or until that soldier is exempt from liability for such soldier's debts; provided, that the government shall be liable for the amount deposited to the person so depositing the same.
