DEFECTIVE BOILERS.

Our railroad companies are securing the services of the best practical boiler-makers to do their boiler work. The one at the head of the boiler that is made in the construction or repair of their locomotive boilers. They employ only first class mechanics for their boiler-makers.

We will first examine the boiler-plate that is used in this class of boilers, and you generally will find it of the poorest quality. The same time the proprietor of the so-called boiler-shop complains about the high price of boiler iron.

We soon see a defect in the hot iron, and inquire of the workman if the boiler inspectors will receive such a reply. "These are the best," he seldom comes here; there is too much dust and smoke, and he only examines the boiler after it is finished, then cracks and breaks it down.

The Lauro Fair Trial—its Conclusion. The San Francisco Bulletin of the first instant describes the scenes and incidents of the concluding portion of the trial of Mrs. Fair, from which we quote:

At an early hour yesterday it was whispered about that the jury had agreed upon a verdict, and would announce it at nine o'clock. No one knew what it could be, but various reports were received, and it was a verdict of conviction, another that it was a compromise verdict and another that they had agreed upon a verdict of acquittal.

The crowd was kept back as much as possible, and when the critical moment arrived a profound stillness reigned in the courtroom. Mrs. Fair stood at the side of Mr. Curtis, and when the clerk asked the jury if they had reached a verdict, she replied, "Yes, we have."

A letter signed Charles B. Inman has appeared in one of the California papers, stating that the writer intends to make the voyage from Calcutta to England, by the canal, in a small boat thirty-two feet long, eight feet across the beam, and about two and a half feet deep.

A Washington special to the New York Herald says: The Southern Claims Commission will resume its sessions on Tuesday next. During the summer vacation the commissioners employed their leisure time in examining and preparing reports on the claims of the United States, which have been presented to them.

The Enterprise, Mississippi, Courier says: Captain W. Hardy, attorney, and Superintendent Ingram, of the New Orleans and Northeastern railroad, were in the city during the week, and their visit has caused some railroad prospects to assume quite a lively interest in the appearance of these gentlemen.

Snagging of a Mare—A Case for Darwin. A remarkable instance of the sagacity (if it not reason) of a horse has come to our notice. Mr. John Fletcher of New Orleans owns an unbroken young mare which runs in a pasture adjoining his house.

to turned her away. As soon, however, as he hurried toward the house she returned to him, and he was obliged to let her go. He then remarked that her coat was not with her, a fact he had not noticed before it was quite dark. It occurred to him that she would have the coat, and so he went to see if he could find it. He did not find it, and he was obliged to let her go.

Excitement Not Reported Here. NEW JERSEY. NEWARK, October 8.—The Newark charter election resulted in a Republican majority of nearly 1,000 over the last year's gain of nearly 1,000 over Governor Parker's majority last November.

OMAHA, October 8.—The election passed off quietly here. The Republican and Democratic tickets were elected by about 5,000 majority. (Douglas) county, which may be considered a Liberal stronghold, gives an average Republican majority of 1,000.

South Carolina held her State election last Tuesday. There was no Democratic ticket in the field, but bolting Republicans carried the State by a large majority.

From India in a Small Boat. A letter signed Charles B. Inman has appeared in one of the California papers, stating that the writer intends to make the voyage from Calcutta to England, by the canal, in a small boat thirty-two feet long, eight feet across the beam, and about two and a half feet deep.

A STRANGE STORY. The Tale of the Bank Note Forger—Unfolding of a Romance in a Swiss Court of Law. [From the London Daily News.] The famous affair of the diamond necklace has at length found a rivival. For dramatic interest, the story of the forger has been enlarged in it, and for a certain novel mystery which even yet unfolds the principal actors and their deeds, we should like to follow the forger, as he has been forger, as that has been partially opened up to us in a Swiss court of law.

The English Court Wants. A writer in the London Financier, who has been making a tour of the large coal producing counties in England, gives a gloomy account of the business prospect. The collector he saw, who dealt in orders and contracts, many of them old ones, and at low prices, while the men everywhere were more inclined for recreation than for work.

The Next Vice President. The St. Louis Democrat of Wednesday says: A number of the most prominent Republicans of the city and county called on Senator Henry Wilson, the Republican candidate for Vice President of the United States.

Colorado Silver. If a report, not yet authenticated, can be trusted, a deposit of silver has been found in Colorado promising to equal in extent the discovery of Montana.

A Lost Ohio Soldier Wanted to Claim His Inheritance of $20,000. George Williams, who was twenty-eight years of age when he was killed in the Mexican war, is reported to have been killed in the Mexican war, and his estate is valued at $20,000.

Impending of John Barclay. COLONEL JOHN BARCLAY, who was killed in the Mexican war, is reported to have been killed in the Mexican war, and his estate is valued at $20,000.

Texas Bull Railroad Cars. The Galveston Bulletin says: The purchasing agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, who has been late weeks in the city, is reported to have been killed in the Mexican war, and his estate is valued at $20,000.

The Jackson Pilot says: During a recent trip on the line of the Mississippi and Missouri, we noticed that numerous carpenters and masons were at work in every town, and everything looked prosperous.

Bozney's Press, of the ninth, under the head of "Returns—Greely's Dought Sealed." It would be folly to allege that Hartman's majority is the offspring of fraud.

A grand wedding is on the tapis in New York, the orders for dresses to be worn at which have reached a hundred at one house alone. The bride's dress is now in the room at Lyons, France, and is being manufactured to order, and will cost $18,000.

A letter from an American gentleman received by the postmaster general of England says: Having recently arrived in the country, and having seen the present whereabouts of a sister, I add a note to her last residence, thus: "Upper Newwood, etc. etc." I received a reply by the post, in which she said she had been delivered to her on the coast of Wales.

They have a new arrangement in France. They call it rolling paper. It is like fox hunting, only lacking the fox element. The company goes skating over the country, and the skaters are given ten minutes start, and whose track is marked out by bits of cut paper which his motion scatters out of a couple of huge bags which he is laden with.

has had ample authority to fill out the $400,000,000 if he chose to exercise his authority. Such is the opinion held at the Treasury Department, and the question arose as to the manner in which any portion of the $1,000,000,000 could be precipitated on the New York market out of the virgin legal tenders locked up in the treasury vaults.

The New Chicago Anniversary of the Chicago, October 9.—To-day has been observed here by many people as a sort of holiday, and the streets of the rebuilt district have been unusually full of people in their best attire, viewing the wonderful change that has been wrought since this year ago.
