THE STATE HOUSE.

The visitors at the State House yesterday were numerous.

The large number of persons who gathered around the State department were evidently not there without a purpose.

The manner in which big sheets of paper, with big red seals on them, were flying around, it was quite evident many were there to receive their commissions.

The Senate yesterday passed a resolution declaring the seats of Senators L. B. Jenks, H. L. Swords, and Robert Worrell vacant.

The resolution in regard to the expulsion of Democratic Senators who are taking part in the farcial, if not revolutionary, proceedings of the Odd Fellows' Hall Assembly was not called up yesterday.

The resolution of Senator Burch instructing the Committee on Penitentiary to go to Baton Rouge and investigate the affairs of the State Penitentiary, was taken up and passed.

Senator Blackburn called up his resolution instructing the above committee to find out whether there were any persons in the Penitentiary who had been sent there mainly on account of race, color or previous condition.

He spoke at some length upon this resolution, and charged that the prejudices of the Democratic party and the prejudices of the Penitentiary for no other reason than that they were Republicans.

When Senator Blackburn had concluded his remarks an executive session was called for, thus deferring action upon his resolution.

President Antoine announced the following special committees, in accordance with sections 153, 154 and 155 of the Revised Statutes.

To examine books and accounts of State Auditor—Senators Kelso and Harris.

To examine the securities deposited by banks and banking companies—Senators Anderson and Burch.

To examine the books, accounts, vouchers and other official documents of the State Treasurer—Senators Ingraham and Harris.

In the House yesterday Mr. C. W. Bryant, of East Baton Rouge, gave notice of a joint resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of five—three from the House and two from the Senate—to proceed to Baton Rouge and examine the State House and ascertain what amount of money will be necessary to repair that building and put it in a proper condition to be occupied by the State government.

Mr. Bryant also reported the same to the Legislature within thirty days from the adoption of the resolution. It lies over under the rules.

Mr. Demas introduced a joint resolution, submitting to the people, for their decision, an amendment to the constitution, prohibiting the incorporation of lottery companies and abolishing those already incorporated. The resolution was read twice and referred to the Committee on Constitution.

The resolution offered by Mr. Young on Saturday last, authorizing the Speaker to appoint a short-hand reporter, was called up and defeated by a very decisive vote.

Mr. Mahoney, of Plaquemine, moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the resolution of Mr. Young was defeated, and supported his motion with some remarks that caused the House to reverse its decision, and finally adopt the resolution.

Mr. Mahoney said he thought the members of the House should have their debates published, in order that their constituents might know their views on the different subjects that are discussed in the Legislature.

Mr. Young followed in a humorous vein, and said he did not know why his friend, Mr. Sartain, who so ably represented the parish of Carroll in this House, should object to the appointment of a short-hand reporter. Without a short-hand reporter Mr. Young thought it would be impossible for the gentleman's constituents to know for "sartin" what a brilliant statesman and scholar represented them in the popular branch of the General Assembly of Louisiana.

Mr. Young said for these reasons, if for no other, the gentleman should withdraw his opposition to the resolution and let it pass. The resolution finally passed by a vote of 46 yeas to 13 nays, the yeas and nays being demanded.

Mr. Tureaud, chairman of the Committee on Elections, submitted a report confirming Mr. L. J. Sener in his seat. The report was adopted unanimously.

The Committee on Elections also made their report in regard to the duly returned members of this House, who are now acting with an illegal body of men who hold their meetings in Odd Fellows' Hall, and pretend to make laws. The report gives the names of W. S. Cockerham, J. B. Eustis, J. J. Finney, F. Fischer, H. V. Vickers, W. A. Strong, J. F. Smith, J. A. Rice, T. Price, T. W. Norris, W. F. Moreland and T. J. Humble as duly returned members of this House who have never appeared here and taken part in its proceedings. The report further states that the following named gentlemen were also duly returned as members of this House, and were sworn in and participated for a time in its proceedings, and are now acting with the revolutionary body that is holding its meetings in Odd Fellows' Hall: A. C. Bickham, E. D. Estlette, E. H. McCaleb, T. B. Blanchard, Jr., Paul Jones, V. O. King, J. A. Shakspeare, J. R. Smart and J. Timony. Thereupon the report recant that their seats be declared vacant if they do not appear in the House this day, January 21, at 1 P. M., or send a satisfactory reason for their non-appearance.

The Railroad Committee reported favorably on the Louisiana Central railroad bill as amended. The report was adopted and the bill made the special order of the day for to-day at one o'clock.

Mr. Heffer, of Caddo, gave notice that he would at some future day introduce a bill to amend the election law.

The House adjourned until twelve o'clock M. to-day.

The statement—lately made, with many circumstantial embellishments, and widely circulated in print—that Miss Catharine Sinclair, formerly Mrs. Forrest, was present at the funeral of the late Edwin Forrest, is untrue. The lady was not in Philadelphia at all, and the current account of her conduct at the funeral is the fanciful fabrication of a sensation-monger.

Academy of Music—The Thompson Trupee.

No scandal against Queen Elizabeth, I hope!

There is no such traitor partisan as your "historian of the period."

The "Great Rebellion," as described by Clarendon, was an abominable conspiracy against the divine government of a paternal monarch.

The same conflict, as painted by Ru-hworth or Ludlow, was a noble effort to throw off a despotism. Leo and Luther have been equally misrepresented.

The benignant vice-gerent of God on one side, the artful and implacable imposter on the other—the impious Lucifer of one side, the fearless champion of truth on the other.

Our own country has not been exempt from the same evil. If the charges of each side in our late civil contest be believed, each was deliberately in the wrong, and humanity has been ruthlessly afflicted.

Indeed the truth of history has been distilled in other and impartial ages and countries from those in which the events were enacted.

Prescott, Motley, Botta, Carlyle, Mrs. Strickland, Thackeray, Abbot, have done much for historical justice.

It was the policy of kings and monarchs to hedge themselves as divinites. Historians exaggerated their deeds. Poets lauded and immortalized their reigns.

"Thus," said Cardinal Wolsey, "I keep my presence ever new, my presence like a robe pontifical near to be seen but wondered at."

In those days all was mystery and much was imposition. Scepticism was treason and censure death.

Safe, however, in the protection of time and distance, the historian may deal with the most formidable events of ancient history as the naturalist with the fossil remains of extinct monsters of geology.

The reign of Queen Elizabeth of England has been subjected to rigid comparisons with an authentic record. She was, according to some, a virgin Queen, but had no claim to the appellation in the testimony of others.

Her court claimed to be of strict propriety, but her maids of honor were said by her satirists of the period to be such by honorary title only.

She was as fond of authority as her father, but exercised no undue oppression over her subjects. She committed acts of state cruelty in the execution of Mary and Sussex, and treated the great benefactor of her reign with signal injustice.

She kept up the pageantry of royal display without regard to expense, but was a partner in the slave trade with Drake and Hawkins.

In a word, she was like other human beings, and was no better and no worse because she was a Queen. It is proper that the citizens of a republic should be taught truthful history.

They should behold royalty stripped of its tinsel, and religion clothed in her simple robes of truth.

If there be those who long for the hereditary flesh pots, they should be shown the graves and scourge of Pharaoh.

Perhaps Thackeray and Offenbach have gone too far in their expression of royal immities, but this free inspection of other forms of government have a tendency to increase our respect for our own. It is in this spirit that Miss Thompson may render service in the freedom with which she presents the court of Elizabeth. It is very probable that its state resembled a good deal the circus of "Old John Robinson."

The atrocious Beckett is fortunate in representing her majesty three centuries after its date. Had he worn the garb and lifted in the same discreditable manner in her reign he would have been attained of treason and swung with a shorter shank than his arrogant namesake of Canterbury.

Miss Thompson's burlesque of "Leo and Leo" is a beauty and grace which ways disarms criticism. The courtiers are acceptable specimens of carmine, satin and pink fleshings as can be found anywhere. Of course no one is expected to comment upon the dialogue and doggerel with which the playwright has provided them. The absurd buffoonery of Edolin is a misconception of the bravo of the low countries and the Spanish man. The cost in scene and mise en scene are all that costume and properties could effect. The performance is relieved at intervals by solo and chorus singing, and a break-down by the entire strength of the company.

Adjutant General.

Brigadier General Henry Street was yesterday re-commissioned by Governor Kellogg as Adjutant General of Louisiana State Militia.

REDUCTION OF RATES BY THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

As will be seen by an advertisement published in another column this morning, there has been an important reduction in the rates of this company.

VALUABLE IMPROVED REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION BY THE SHERIFF.

Particular attention is called to the sales at auction to be made this day at noon at the Merchants and Auctioneers' Exchange, Royal street, by the sheriff of the parish of Orleans. Said sales comprise:

1. A lot of ground with all the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in the First District of this city, on Gravier street, between St. John and Circus.

2. And a lot of ground with all the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in the Fourth District of this city, on Annunciation street, between Josephine and Jackson.

For full particulars and terms, see advertisements.

Another Business for the South.

We copy the following from the New York Herald:

Land of the best quality for the manufacture of glass exists in abundance in the Gulf States, and several preliminary efforts have been made to start glass factories, particularly in the southern part of Mississippi, but these efforts have proved abortive for the want of capital.

It will be a good thing for the South to manufacture glass and glassware. The culture of fruit is becoming so general in some sections that the use of glass jars for its exportation in a preserved form in large quantities has become a necessity.

Having the fruits and the glass, the South only needs her own glassware to obtain a monopoly of the trade in preserved fruit. Besides, she will then be able to erect her own glass houses, and be in condition to appreciate the political situation when she begins to throw stones.

It is a singular fact that of the three engineers who had the contract for constructing the Mont Cenis tunnel, Soumeiller is dead, Grandis and Gratton insane. The cause of Gratton's insanity is attributed by his physicians to an overdose of mercury.

Confirmed by the Senate.

The following nominations by Governor Kellogg met with the consent of the Senate on Saturday:

Parish of Orleans—J. E. Leet, harbor-master, vice J. Oplatek; A. J. Kenner, assistant supervisor of registration, fourth ward; A. Brand, assistant supervisor of registration, fifth ward; J. A. Breaux, assistant supervisor of registration, sixth ward; Ovide C. Blandin, State assessor, and Canon J. Adolphe, tax collector, Third District.

Oliver Provosty, district attorney, Seventh Judicial District.

NEW ORLEANS PURCHASING BUREAU.

Parties living in the country have long found it troublesome to get orders filled for military, dry goods, jewelry and other articles requiring taste and experience in their selection.

Merchants can not spare the time or have not the necessary skill and experience in selection, and it is a matter of delicacy to ask a friend to do this.

Consequently, if a lady away from the city should want anything of the kind, she had to come personally to the city or do without. We are glad to announce that heretofore this want will no longer exist.

Mrs. H. Mogridge, a lady of experience in the military business of this city, and of the finest taste, has opened a purchasing bureau at No. 56 Canal street, over Zimmerman's jewelry store, and in future will promptly fill all orders sent to her for anything in the way of military, dry goods, jewelry, trimmings, bridal trousseaus, sewing machines, etc. Mrs. Mogridge has a perfect taste in all these goods, and has also such connections in this city, in New York, Paris and other foreign markets, that parties sending her orders can but be given entire satisfaction.

Ladies living at a distance from New Orleans will find it to their interest to order through this bureau, as Mrs. Mogridge can buy at better rates than they could if they were here in person, while her taste is an acknowledged authority among the leaders of fashion in this city. See her card.

Governor Kellogg's Message.

The Washington Chronicle says:

A very plain, straightforward story is that told by Governor Kellogg, it discloses summarily of the statements made by Judge Campbell and his associates, and shows just how the case stands in the eyes of the law.

It is reported in Havana that a large expedition of the friends of the Cuban revolutionists, with arms and ammunition, had landed safely near Guantanamo.

An Important Whisky Case.

It is reported in Havana that a large expedition of the friends of the Cuban revolutionists, with arms and ammunition, had landed safely near Guantanamo.

The United States district attorney for Western Pennsylvania, who has been the most successful prosecutor of violators of the revenue laws, has just received a letter from the collector of the revenue in that State, in which he has no right to tamper with spirits in any way after the same has been gauged, unless they are re-gauged. The case will be tried at the Federal court at Erie, Pa., on the 27th inst.

Cheap Postages.

The House Committee on Post Offices and Postroads has decided to proceed with the preparation of the bill requiring prepayment of all newspaper postage and reducing letter postage to two cents. Postmaster General Casswell was in consultation with the committee, favoring both of the proposed changes in the law.

The Committee on Post Offices will have the preparation of all printed matter and the reduction of letter postage to two cents ready next week, and are unanimous in the support of it.

The Alexander's Gazette says:

From Mr. John E. Leet's compilation of frauds in Louisiana we extract what he says about Rapides, and while we do not pretend to endorse every word of it in regard to each particular specification
