Admission.
We called attention recently to the fact that all the calets nominated from Louisiana to West Point this summer were rejected for incompetency. One of these was nominated by Hon. C. B. Darrah, Congressman from the third district. Dr. Darrah now announces through the newspapers in his district that he has opened the position to competitive examination. A board of examiners, consisting of Professor Boyd of the University of Louisiana, Mr. Leard, division superintendent of education, and Dr. R. N. Day, will meet in Baton Rouge on the twelfth of July, and whoever they may designate as best qualified Dr. Darrah will appoint. The applicant must be between seventeen and twenty-two years of age physically sound, and will report at West Point by the fifteenth of August.

Admission.
We believe this is the first instance where these public gifts of Congressmen have been thrown open to public competition; and we congratulate Dr. Darrah upon having inaugurated a system other Congressmen will hereafter be prone to follow.

A Shreveport Matter.
The able and genial Fusion Senator from Shreveport, A. H. Leonard, Esq., has been compelled to rise to explain. He was recently employed as attorney in a suit before Judge Looney, and naturally enough argued that according to the laws of the State and the rulings of the Supreme Court, parties appointed to office by McLeary are promoters and usurpers. This led some of Mr. Leonard's neighbors to accuse him of turning Radical; and that gentleman felt called upon to publish a card in the Shreveport papers, denying that he had changed his political opinions. His friends are called upon to make the most discrimination between Leonard the lawyer and Leonard the politician. Leonard the lawyer, in pursuit of a fee, makes an argument that brings Leonard the politician into disrepute; therefore Leonard the politician says the public must not believe what Leonard the lawyer says, for he is dealing with a court, and a Kellogg court at that; and, besides, he does not seem to think much of lawyers, anyhow.

Business Connection.
At-Teece, whose name may be most readily pronounced by an American sneeze, has acquired the art of compounding ice cream, but has not been equally fortunate in commanding the precise pronunciation of the name. He presided at the region of Dumaine and Esplanade for some days, and the habitues were under the impression that his pronunciation of "ice-cream" bore some resemblance to repairing glass and earthen ware, in which the Celestials are especially skilled. Several tin-falls having "sounded on" At-Teece, he succeeded in effecting an arrangement with a young American of the colored persuasion, named Sam Jones. This supplied the lingual facility. Sam singing out in stentorian tones and in two languages, "Creame a la glace a la vanille," "High-scream" At-Teece laddles out the luxury and receives the nickels. The terms of the special partnership have not transpired on Carondelet street, but it is understood that Jones has no power to sign the name or dip his fingers into the cash box or cream jar of the concern.

Calvary Church Concert.
The concert given at Old Fellows Hall last evening by the band of Calvary Church, proved to be one of the most delightful entertainments of the season. A large and fashionable audience, by frequent applause, testified its appreciation of the music rendered. An excellent programme had been selected. Among the gems of the evening may be mentioned a solo by Miss Blanche Marsh, "The Evening Brings My Heart to Thee," which was encored. Following this was a beautiful duet, "The Lily and the Rose," sung by Mr. C. Van Benschuyzen and Miss Granger. Mr. J. Metzger, the favorite tenor, and Mr. C. C. Tracey's sweet voice made pleasing music. A solo by Mrs. Pierson was well received. Miss Little sang "Al Mon Elia," and for an encore gave "Fishes in the Sea." This lady has a charming contralto voice, new to the concert room, and did herself great credit by her singing last evening.

Letter to the Auditor.
Governor Kellogg has transmitted the following letter to Auditor Clinton:

5. And a lot of ground, with the buildings and improvements thereon, situated in the same district, on the public road and Clinton street, between Bienville and Customhouse streets.

For full particulars and terms see advertisements.

The Temperature.
Mr. Louis Frigida, No. 59 Chartres street, reports the weather for Sunday and yesterday as follows:

RENT.
It was proposed to lease a new building, five stories, a small one, State street, when we show the building to the committee of the Board of Public Works. The committee is to be held in depth. Terms are to be made by the committee. A preliminary meeting of the committee will be held at their rooms, No. 35 Rampart street, on Friday evening, July 1, at half-past seven o'clock.

Court Items.
The closing days of the term of 1872-73 in the district courts are very dull, except the foreign rush of small business. In the Superior Court there is some life arising from the trial of counsel on small points of law.

In the Fourth District Court yesterday the Progre case came on for motion for a new trial. As in the trial of the case on the merits, the evidence offered by plaintiff in fact was entirely identical with their pleadings. There was a great deal of ground for the remark of a counsel for the other side, that "the counsel, with all due respect, seem to have written their motion first and studied up the law afterward."

Mr. Ellis was upon the stand to show that the juror, Hayward, had approached him in company with Mr. Cavarec and talked of the trial. This was excluded on the ground that it was hearsay of what the juror could tell. What Mr. Hayward did, while a juror, could not be testified to by him as a juror, and as much greater was the reason for excluding what Mr. Ellis heard, Mr. Raoul D'Aquin was offered but not permitted to talk what transpired in the jury room. Mr. Cavarec was put on the stand, but was only permitted to tell that he did see Mr. Hayward. The same indefinite rule of law that stopped Mr. Ellis, ruled him out. Mr. J. F. Dick's testimony had been taken and was offered, but it was contrary to the rule.

The foreman of the jury was sworn, but what Mr. Ogden wanted to show by him was objected to, and the court considered the points well taken. Top scraps of paper between sheets of letter paper were shown to deputy sheriffs and jurymen, and offered in evidence, but didn't fit in somehow. Under the motion and affidavits, Mr. Ogden seemed to find himself without any evidence. As to said, in substance, he was ruled out down to the one point of what Deputy Sheriff Walker had done, and he couldn't be heard.

Judge Cooley seemed to think the desire to have Walker was strikingly similar to the request for Pelage Brown, and when an affidavit for continuance was made he went for that affidavit and every other thing in the case in his usual ferocious style. But Judge Lynch, out of the kindness of his heart, seemed to take pity on the plaintiffs in suit for he continued the case to Wednesday morning. If Walker comes up to the scratch, Mr. Ogden may have a case to present to the court for a new trial, but just now he only has a colossal number of bills of exception. A stray observer might have thought that he had considerable confidence in the weakness of his case by his saying that he took a bill of exception on an objection of counsel before the court passed on the question.

In the First District Court the bonds of Edwin C. Serries, in two cases of $1000 each, were declared forfeited.

Mr. James H. Cooley commenced his duties as sheriff of the Fourth District Court yesterday. Although he will have but few days to serve before the end of the term, the popularity he earned in the same capacity in the Sixth District Court will cling round still.

St. Joseph's Literary Association.
The annual literary and musical entertainment of the above association was given last night at the Varieties Theatre. The auditorium was fairly filled by the many patrons and friends of the school; the orchestra and circle shining with the beauty and fashion that had gathered to encourage and applaud the young gentlemen in their second public appearance. Under the direction of Brother Cadon, the members of the association, who have just completed the first year in their literary course, have succeeded beyond the expectations their most sanguine friends. The ability and perseverance of their accomplished director has established so perfect a system that by their ease, grace and eloquence, the young participants mimicked all the manners of old debaters. The exercises were throughout worthy of the warmest commendation, but we must mention, in particular, the magnificent declamations of Messrs. McQueen and Belle, the comic recitation of Dan Craven, and the brilliant execution of the Duet from Lucretia, Borgia, by the Star Corset Band.

Letter to the Auditor.
Governor Kellogg has transmitted the following letter to Auditor Clinton:

Mortality.
There were 131 deaths in this city last week. There was but one case of sporadic cholera reported, and that is a very doubtful one. There were five deaths of small-pox, fifteen of consumption and six of convulsive fever. In the corresponding week of last year there were 134 deaths, and in the year preceding 124.

We publish in another column the semi-annual statement of the Louisiana National Bank. We call special attention to the fact that the net profits of this bank for the past six months amount to about twelve and a half per cent—a better showing than any of our city banks have made in our recollection. The directors, at their meeting yesterday, declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent on the stock.

The Coffee Trade.
We have received from Messrs. Marks & Co., coffee brokers, their annual tabular statement of the coffee trade of this port for the year ending June 30. From this exhibit it appears that during the last trade year the receipts were 190,444 bags, a gain of some 38,200 on the previous year. During the winter months the most of this freight was received, only about 50,000 bags being received since February. The stock on hand, however, has all been sold. New Orleans, which once stood at the head of coffee importing cities, now stands third, with New York and Baltimore exceeding her in this department of commerce. The total importation of coffee from Rio to the United States is put down at 1,573,889 bags, a gain of 17,068 on the year preceding. Messrs. Marks & Co., in concluding their circular, say:

A close observation of the transactions taken place in the early fall and winter of the past year, coupled with the conclusions previously arrived at in the same direction, fully corroborates the repeated assertions that the distributive capacity of this port has been tested since the war but in a fractional degree.

As a general thing, nearly all the cargoes destined for the port were disposed of by importers and resold by jobbers to the local grocery trade. The coffee trade, however, the latter class fearing a lack of supply pending their arrival.

The year just closed has been remunerative to those engaged in the trade and banking the severe monetary and commercial depression lately passed through with, has been sufficiently satisfactory to warrant a continuance of their efforts to foster and build up our once great trade in this specialty.

Death of the President's Father.
Jesse R. Grant, the venerable father of the President of the United States, died at his home in Covington, Kentucky, about seven o'clock Sunday evening. This was an event that had been for some time expected, and the President was on his way to his father's bedside when the death occurred. The deceased was a very old man, and was one of the sturdy pioneers of the West. He held nominally the office of postmaster of Covington, though he had been unable to devote his personal attention to the duties of the office for a long time. He died, the telegraph informs us, of general debility. The immediate cause of his death was softening of the brain and spinal marrow, although he had been suffering for some time from a paralytic stroke. The venerable mother of the President still survives and was at the dying bedside of the husband by whose side she has passed for so many years through the vale of life.

A Duel Probable.
Messrs. R. B. Rhett, Jr., and Judge Cooley, accompanied by five friends, left the city last evening on the Mobile train, it is rumored, to stop at a point near Mississippi City. It is believed that the two gentlemen have gone hence to fight a duel. The cause originated in some strictures that appeared in the Progre, not complimentary to Judge Cooley's course in the Hawkins-Playne libel suit. These strictures induced Judge Cooley to publish a strong card in the Progre last week, in which Mr. Rhett was called some hard names. As was expected, by the entire community, a challenge was sent and accepted, and the gentlemen have concluded to settle their dispute by resorting to the dueling code. We will probably be informed of the result before night. Messrs. Rhett and Cooley were arrested in the third precinct yesterday for being about to commit a breach of the peace. Judge Stas admitted them to bail in the sum of $1000. Bonds were furnished.

The Forts and Quarantine.
Captain Charles King, of General Emory's staff, returned last evening from a pleasant official excursion—inspection of the fortifications in the vicinity of New Orleans, and St. Philip he inspected Forts Jackson and St. Louis, and found them in good order. As on a previous occasion, he was compelled to stop at quarantine station, where Dr. Howe is in charge. Captain King expresses his appreciation of the thorough and efficient manner in which the duties of the station are performed. Five vessels, three steamers and two barkas, which had casually stopped at Havana, were in quarantine. The Doctor's enforcement of the quarantine regulations was inflexible. The vessels were visited personally four or five times daily, thoroughly fumigated, and the crews inspected. No case of yellow fever was passed by him.
