The Schools in Richland. RAVILLE, May 21, 1875. EDITOR REPUBLICAN: The high water this spring has delayed the opening of schools in most parts of this parish. The public fund for Richland is small, consisting almost entirely of the two mill State tax. Very little is received from the sixteenth section fund, as only a small part of the school land has been sold, and still less paid for. In 1873 a valuable section was sold, terms one tenth cash, the balance in nine yearly payments, with interest. The payments have not been promptly made. District attorneys are required by law to look after these matters and enforce the collection of money due the school fund. If any one of these officials in the State has performed any part of this duty since 1870 we hope somebody will publish his name. So far, however, we have not found even one faithful among the faithful. Last year the board had two schools, one white and one colored, in each of the five wards of the parish, but the fund was sufficient only to pay the teachers for a term of three months. It will be about the same this year. The teachers have been examined and furnished with certificates by Superintendent Brewster, and the schools will be opened so soon as the pupils can attend. VIATOR.

A person must have much heart to know much sorrow.

Evangelical Lutheran Church. BALTIMORE, May 27.—The twenty-second biennial convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Church is now being held here. The reports show there are over 100,000 members and 700 ministers.

Protestant Episcopal Church. The nineteenth annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, diocese of Maryland, is in session. The question of prayers for the dead will be brought before the convention. Bishop Smith, of Kentucky, and the committee on temperance failed to take action raising the rectors of Calvary Church.

The Cumberland Presbyterian Conference. JEFFERSON, Tenn., May 27.—In the session of the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church to-day, the committee on education reported the schools connected with the church as being in an encouraging condition.

The report of the judiciary committee favoring change of venue in church cases was not concurred in, and the minority report was read and approved. The committee on sabbath schools recommended renewed efforts in support of the sabbath schools, and discontinuance of the sabbath school in churches where the same were not being conducted. The committee recommended ceaseless efforts against the great evil of intemperance, but thought not necessary any additional deliverance from the same on that subject. The report was adopted.

The general assembly will doubtless adjourn to-morrow night.

Young Men's Christian Association. RICHMOND, Va., May 27.—The delegates to the Young Men's Christian Association held prayer meeting at the Baptist Church this morning at ten o'clock. President Hardie called the convention to order. Yesterday's proceedings were read and approved. The committees were announced, and include the following Southerners:
