Literary Exercises in the Upper Girls'
High School.

A half a day was very pleasantly and profitably spent by the teachers and pupils of the Upper Girls' High School yesterday in literary exercises. A suitable programme was presented of well selected pieces, comprising recitations, compositions, dialogues and music, the latter being under the immediate supervision of Professor Cordova, the musical instructor of the school. Were it quite a proper thing to do, the REPUBLICAN would give the public a detailed account of all that took place—what pieces were spoken by each young lady; how Miss Chalafour lectured Mr. Caudle as we hope she will lecture no other man; how Miss Emma Beach described the release of the captive young Englishman, who came within an ace of being burned at the stake by the Indians, through the timely intervention of a young Indian girl; how the witty editors of Gems of 1875 punned on the names of their school fellows and teachers and did not spare even the directors. We would remark that Miss Stevenson, in the character of a pious old Yankee lady, inveighed against the introduction of an organ into her church, which had given herself and a steady going old deacon a heap of trouble, how Miss Sinbor gave Thorenstein Ranch, a spirited Italian butcher boy, a chance to chant the praises of his cleaver, romantically called a sword for effect. Miss Stromeyer gave a specimen of French, which she and Mrs. Howard fully understood, though many others, including our reporter, did not, and how, finally, a sassy little miss, with decidedly Auburn locks, criticized the whole performance pugnantly and as fairly as a due regard to the feelings of the senior class would permit. The REPUBLICAN would go on and tell all about it, but for the fact that it was a semi-private amateur exhibition of literary skill, which to expose would bring on the penalty of being omitted in the invitations to the next. Therefore, our reporter refuses to say a word beyond representing that the affair was successful; the young ladies beautiful; their teachers unnecessarily anxious; the audience attentive and pleased, and the dancing, after the formal exercises were over, of a very vigorous description.

THE Missouri Election.

To-day the electors of Missouri will vote upon the adoption or rejection of the new constitution. Like almost all of such importance of these latter days, it is of great length, and enters into the minutest details.

COURT RECORD.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1875.

Superior District Court.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKay vs. city of New Orleans.—Petitioner alleges her husband was district attorney for the Second district from 1868 to the date of his death in November, 1871, that before the annexation of Carrollton he obtained fourteen convictions and afterward eleven, and that the city owes $11 interest on Carrollton bonds and $2000 on bonds of the State ex rel. B. F. Yates vs. Charles Clinton, State Auditor.—Relator alleges he is the father of the child of the said Constance street ticket will be tried, though by no majority as it was given to Governor Tilden last year.

STATE NEWS.

THE Views of the New York Herald.

The following editorial in the New York Herald of October 26 will be read with interest:

The election is to take place on Tuesday next. The intervening week will be one of the most important in the history of the present week average more than fifty speakers for each day. The advertised Democratic speakers are not more than a dozen, and comprise a larger proportion of the most able and successful of the party.

THE Death Penalty.

Governor Kellogg has fixed the day of the execution of the Nicholson brothers, for the murder of Marcus Young, for Friday, the nineteenth proximo.

COURT ITEMS.

The Second District Court adjourned yesterday on the suggestion of Lucien Charvet, Esq., of the death of Gaspard James, late minute clerk of the Sixth District Court.

Mr. James has been connected with the various clerk's offices of the old court building for many years and was a perfect cycloped of the routine. His pleasant manners, obliging disposition and cheerful bearing endear him to all who came in contact with him. He will be missed greatly by attorneys and suitors, and no one will think of him without a kindly wish. Industrious, faithful, honest, he was a good clerk, good citizen and a good man.

THE Last Day to Pay Taxes Without Penalties.

Elsewhere in this issue of the REPUBLICAN will be found a notice to taxpayers from State Tax Collector B. F. Joubert, of the Second District, to the effect that his office will remain open this day and evening until 8 P. M., for the purpose of enabling all parties to settle taxes without penalties. It will be remembered that set No. 7 of the extra session of the last Legislature remitted all interest and penalties on taxes paid on or before the first day of November, 1875. After that date the penalties must necessarily be exacted from delinquents, and a heavy per centage may be saved to taxpayers by making settlements to-day.

APPOINTMENTS.

Governor Kellogg has appointed for the parish of Cameron Thomas R. Gee, clerk of court, vice J. G. Stansberry.

For Catahoula—H. S. Doniphan, Justice of the peace, seventh ward, and K. G. Justice, constable, same ward.

For Iberia—William F. Schwing, notary public.

executed.

Election of Bishops.

The House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church concluded its session the evening, after creating two Bishops, one for the diocese of Ohio, and the other for the diocese of Africa. The Rev. Samuel J.
Scherechewsky was elected Bishop of Ohio, and the Rev. Dr. William C. Clark, of Georgia, Bishop of Africa.

The Field Libel Suit.

A suit has been brought against the editors of the Times for charging Joseph F.
Fields with bribery.

George Jones, publisher, and Lemie J.
Jennings, editor of the Times, were valued at $1000 each in the Field case.

A Tale of the Sea.

A morning paper publishes a Boston dispatch which states that a vessel recently returned from a voyage around the world fell in at one of the ports visited with a sailor, or some one who knew him, who stated that the bark's Jewess and Della M.
Long, and an unknown English sailor, were beached in the vicinity of the Auckland islands and were bearded at night by cannibals who scuttled the vessel and ate the crew, except the one survivor. The statement, however, is thought here to be a hoax, the supposition being that the vessel perished in a typhoon.

AGRICULTURAL.

The Crops in Georgia—Everyday Proprietors but the Laborers—The Penonage of Debt.

ATLANTA, Ga., October 29.—The October report of the Georgia State department of
