THAT NAMELESS FORCE.—A considerable number of people last evening went out to the lake by the several routes, not that they confidently expected to see great sights, but they were in hopes that some one would turn up. Announcement had been made that one Wingard, or somebody answering to a name similar to that, would actually blow up a vessel that might be anchored a mile or more from the shore. The bait was eagerly bitten at by hundreds of people who were perfectly willing to go to the lake whether or no. However, very few of the excursionists felt that they were "left" in five minutes after they landed, and so concluded to make the best of a bad bargain. Some members of the committee were on the ground (or water), but they could not find Wingard, the great inventor of a nameless force, and consequently the general verdict was that a job had been put up by somebody. Who that "somebody" was remained a doubtful question in the average mind, but the cheaper portion of the visitors did not hesitate to express an opinion. A part of the audience retired in good order as soon as possible, returning home, but where two departed two remained to enjoy the fresh air and change of scene. Naturally enough the inquiry was, "Where is Wingard?" Nobody found him, and it is not likely that he ever knew of the arrangement.

An old schooner had been anchored something like a mile off from the mouth of Bayou St. John, and it indeed looked lonely, notwithstanding she had a flag on her mainmast, labeled "Little Nell." All eyes were turned toward the bark, but the thing remained stolid, and nothing changed the complexion of things until a solitary sail boat pointed directly toward her. There were four or five gentlemen on the yacht, and they boarded the schooner about six o'clock in the evening to see what they could see. They report that there was nothing on deck or in the hold to attract attention save an old tin can, to which was attached a short chain and rope. This can smelled as if it had been a century or more in the innermost confines of Hades, and when the thing was closely examined, the contents were thrown into the lake, and the can brought to town and placed in Hawkins' saloon, on Common street, where the curious may examine it leisurely.

One more such trick will be sufficient to prevent people visiting the lake, especially when an indictment is held out.

RECOGNITION OF PATRIOTIC SERVICES.—At a meeting of the Veterans of the Mexican War last Sunday, a motion was adopted to present one of the national badges of the Mexican Veterans to old Jordan Noble, who served with them, as musician of the First Regiment of Louisiana Volunteers during the war of '47. Noble was also admitted to full membership in the society.

BRIEF MENTION.—In the list of delegates to the Sixth District Senatorial Convention, held on Wednesday and published in the REPUBLICAN of yesterday morning, the name of A. Talbot should have appeared as delegate from the sixteenth ward, in place of A. Lobel.

Mr. Weeks, superintendent of the fire alarm and police telegraph has placed alarm wires out to a box on Lapeyroue, between Claiborne and Derbigny streets, where the Babcock arrangement has made a depot for some of its machines. By the sixteenth instant all will be in readiness for active operations.

The teachers and pupils of the Madison Girls' Public School passed an enjoyable time in Magnolia Garden yesterday, celebrating the annual holiday. The children, as well as the teachers and parents, made a happy day of it until nightfall. This is one of the largest schools in New Orleans, and the teachers understand exactly how to please the scholars, whether in school or out.

The Blue and the Gray met in warlike array recently in one of the down street cars. The young soldier in blue is of English birth, and the civic soldier, dressed in the gray worn by a military company recently composed of citizens of Irish descent, looked somewhat like a Fenian. The boy in blue was willing to talk about anything, especially about the absurdity of Fenianism. The couple talked and talked and finally fell together like tigers, until the other passengers and the driver were compelled to eject them. How the fight resulted is not known to the reporter, and he cares but little when or where the battle closed.

The child Tony Quinn, aged seven years, who was run over by car No. 16 of the Annunciation street line on the evening of April 27, and had his foot badly crushed, died at the residence of his parents, No. 214 Chippewa street, at three o'clock yesterday morning, of lockjaw.

MORE THAN A CENTENNIAL.—At one o'clock yesterday morning Francis Bernard, reported as 105 years old, was found at the corner of Front and Crossman streets, by a policeman kicking up a terrible rumpus. He lifted up his sonorous voice in thunder tones, as if he had swallowed half of a barrel house for five cents. The officer looked him as a disturber of the peace and a vagrant, and the old centennial swore he will make the Metropolitan prove it. The officer says he will find proof without going beyond the boundaries of the first levee lunch house.

SHEDDING HUMAN BLOOD.—A difficulty occurred yesterday on Dryades between Union and Perdido streets, between Edward Sam and Lucy Williams, alias Betsey Tobey, during which the former was stabbed and severely wounded under the right shoulder with a knife by the latter, who was arrested and locked up in the central station. The wounded man was taken to the Charity Hospital, where his wound was dressed, and then sent to his residence on Pennington near Magazine street. The difficulty was caused by Sam accusing the woman of stealing $1.60 from him.

A MIXED CASE.—Several days ago a woman made complaint that two or three men ravished her near Douglas square, and that in her efforts to free herself one of her limbs was broken. The details of the affair are altogether too offensive to publish, therefore further mention is omitted, excepting to state that Paul Bernard, Barney Doyle and John Finney were arrested as the guilty parties. Judge Adams sent the accused to the Parish Prison without right of bail.

A New Southern Attraction. The busy season is near its close, and our citizens are coming their summer's programme of pleasure and recreation. The tentorial exposition will draw large numbers to the Quaker metropolis, but it is gratifying to note that more than ever before is a disposition manifested to seek in Southern resorts that health and enjoyment which it has been too much the fashion to purchase at great cost in distant places.

For two or three years this tendency to support home institutions has been notably on an increase, with the very natural result that attractive and facilities have kept pace with enlarged patronage, until a culmination has been attained in the erection of the "Grand Hotel," at Point Clear, which leaves even habitual visitors to the famous caravansaries of Saratoga, Newport or Longbranch nothing to wish for.

On one of the loveliest sites of the entire American coast, where invigorating sea breezes mingle with health-giving zephyrs from scattered pine forests, where drives promenade through groves of spreading oaks and magnolias low latitudes from the invalid and the indolent, Messrs. H. C. Baldwin & Co. have erected a hotel unsurpassed for completeness in all its appointments. Every comfort and convenience of the first class fashionable watering place can be had at the Grand Hotel. Its fittings and arrangements are superb and wholly new. Its facilities for billiards, ten-pins, boating, shooting, fishing, driving, etc., are complete and under experienced management, so that the man of the world need fear no deprivation of accustomed pleasures; while a superior band will be ever ready at the call of Terpsichore's devotees.

That the capacities of Captain Baldwin's magnificent establishment will be thoroughly tested by the elite of Mobile and Montgomery society seems already assured, and we can safely promise a full representation from the Crescent City during the glorious Southern summer evenings now so near at hand. Point Clear was ever popular with our people, and many pleasant reminiscences linger with them and recall by-gone men and times. Under the new regime, with such reasonable charges as are asked, the old popularity can not but be increased. The rate for board is to be only $50 per month, or $25 per day. Passengers leaving New Orleans on the morning train arrive at Point Clear at dinner. The beautiful and fleet steamer Annie makes daily trips from Mobile to the point. All letters for further information should be addressed to H. C. Baldwin & Co., proprietors, Point Clear, and promptly, too, for the formal opening will take place by the first of June.

New Orleans Monthly Review. Professor D. K. Whitaker may be a day or two behind hand as to time of publication, but he is well up in the quality of the April number of his Review for April. Aside from the familiar literary articles with the names of which most of his readers are familiar, the number before us contains a review of the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Grant parish case, in which it is said the innocence of the accused has been ultimately vindicated, which is news to us, as it will be, no doubt, to the Supreme Court and the accused themselves. Also, a lecture before the Academy of Sciences by Mrs. Marie B. Williams, on "False Deductions of Science." Aquila calls the roll of France's dead monarchs in a so-called prize poem of no merit, and Rev. B. M. Palmer contributes a biography of Dr. Thorneval, a deceased South Carolina professor of theology. Dr. Whitaker's Review is lively and entertaining, if it does not always achieve accuracy.

The Mississippi Investigations. Senator Boutwell says the Senate select committee on outrages in Mississippi will not start for their field of operations in that State for a week or two. Having finished the examination of ex-Senator Kellogg, of Louisiana, they will examine Senator Bruce and Representative Lynch, both of Mississippi, and some others. All their records are being prepared and prepared for some days, and it is evident Senator Boutwell means business.—New York Herald.

It has been demonstrated that amateur actors have no draft. They can not draw a large audience through doors where admission fees are charged.

STATE NEWS

From the Attitapas Register, May 6. On Thursday Charles Morgan passed through to New Orleans on his return from a visit to Texas. He is reported to be in health he was obliged to decline a public reception which many of our citizens proposed to tender him. He regulated his visit to announce the receipt of the public, together with his feelings of gratitude to our citizens for the high compliment extended him by affixing his name to our little city, which he hoped would have a permanent effect.

Last Wednesday evening Charles Green was on the gallery of his house when Nelson Thorn, his step-son, walked up and proceeded to cut the hair of the latter, but he persisted in coming. A double-barreled shotgun was procured and its contents discharged, taking effect in the right side. There was taken home and died within an hour afterward. It is the result of an old quarrel.

From the Journal, May 9. Between Delib and Kayville the water has fallen eight or twenty inches, and the Levee at the mouth of the river, about eight inches. The Black river Delta is still submerged. The river at Delib has fallen but a very little the past week, while the Vicksburg Herald reports a daily rise of from a foot to a half inch. We can not account for this, unless it is the effects of the wind on the lake water. The rivers above are all falling.

"A Louisiana Carpet-Bagger." The Sentinel refers to the recent attempted assassination of Senator Twitcheil, of Louisiana, in terms of a carpet-bagger, and to that gentleman himself as "a Louisiana carpet-bagger." It is one of the misfortunes of present-day Democracy that it requires its votaries to justify the current epithet which is applied to it.

Resolved, That a convention of the Republican Party of Louisiana be called for the purpose of selecting delegates and alternates to the National Republican Convention.

Resolved, That the basis of representation in said convention be as follows: Every four hundred Republican votes cast at the last general election for State Treasurer in each parish and ward shall entitle the electors to one delegate for a fraction over one-half of four hundred.

Resolved, That the several parishes and wards of the city of New Orleans shall be entitled to the number of delegates, as follows:
