Local Intelligence.

THERE WAS A CALL AND A FIZZLE.—An association called the Mechanics' and Workmen's Association called for a mass meeting in Lafayette square last night to pronounce against the amalgamation of that association with the Southern Republicans, but somehow the members did not get to the centre, as but a single lamp was seen lighted on the platform after dark, and that specimen was placed there by an intelligent newboy. No reason was given why the meeting did not take place, but it is supposed the interested parties got mixed up in the political club parade last night. However, the world still revolves.

DEMOCRATIC SUPERVISORS.—The following appointments were made yesterday: Orleans parish—W. J. Grady, third ward, vice C. J. Daley, resigned. Pointe Coupee—Mortimer Thompson.

BREWER COMMISSIONER SOUTHWORTH.—Twenty regular affidavits were made before this United States official yesterday against persons who are supposed to be aliens and who have attempted to register or have registered contrary to law.

Charles Gaines, tenth ward, was arrested for attempting to fraudulently obtain a registration paper.

Joseph Borsone, sixth ward, was up for a like offense.

Mr. B. McGrady was before the court for depriving Peter Needmire of his right to register.

Louis Gruppel, employed on the steamship St. Louis, was taken in for robbing a passenger of $100.

The carpenter of the Spanish ship Fifteenth of March was arrested for having smuggled rum, cigars and tobacco. When a deputy marshal went to the vessel to serve the warrant, the master, or a person who acted in that capacity, flatly refused to permit it to be served, but after a time the alleged offender was given up.

The commissioner decided that a person holding a regularly issued naturalization paper could not be questioned back of that document by a supervisor or assistant supervisor of registration, according to a United States Supreme Court decision, Spratt vs. Spratt.

None of these cases were examined yesterday.

ONLY A SEWING MACHINE.—Late Wednesday night policemen at the corner of Rampart and Girod streets noticed a man engineering a wheelbarrow in which was a sewing machine. As the hour was not a good one for rolling one-wheeled buggies loaded with such property, the man was taken to prison. He endeavored to explain that somebody at the corner of Carondelet and Poydras streets had hired him to take the machine somewhere. The owner can secure her property at police headquarters. He says his name is George Reed.

EVADING THE LAW.—While one of the private market keepers was in prison for contempt of court, one of his friends took charge of the market and kept it open as usual, vainly supposing that such a course would circumvent the court, but just as soon as the second offender, Wischer, was sentenced to remain in prison ten days for the offense, he began to see where the laugh came in. If anybody else wishes to try the experiment there are abundant opportunities.

BRIEF MENTION.—A colored man, whose name was not ascertained, a laborer on the Jackson railroad, was yesterday brought to the city from a point near Kennerly, terribly mutilated by a car running over him. He died soon after reaching this city at his home on Philip, near Howard street.

Michael Corbine, mate of the steamboat Katie, waxed wroth when Mortimer Thornton, a roustabout, said he would not work for the wages offered him. Corbine poetically put on a clean pair of white kid gloves, took out his silver mounted revolver, which contained feathery bullets, and fired at the horrible roustabout.

If a person should chuck a rock on St. Charles, Canal, Poydras, Carondelet or other central thoroughfares a candidate for some office would be thumped.

Almost ninety-nine men out of every hundred are perfectly willing to accept any parish office that they may be thrust on them.

It was only a pigeon, but little Thomas McDonnell wanted it, when he saw a bird at the corner of Julia and Claiborne streets. Tommy merely cried his eyes out in astonishment. There is no room to doubt that in many Southern communities Democrats are organized and armed for the purpose of carrying the November election by fraud, intimidation and murder, if necessary to accomplish their revolting monetary plans. The most skeptical may be convinced that this is not a Republican or a false alarm, by a perusal of Southern Democratic papers, in which all I have stated as to the organization and arming, is admitted and approved. The significance of "Tilden and reform" becomes very apparent in the light of such revelations, and especially so when taken in connection with the uncontradicted charges at present re-ing against the character of the great reformer. Secretary Morrill's success at the head of the Treasury Department, particularly his satisfactory management of the new loan, has secured him the confidence of the business men of the country; and he is warmly commended on every hand. His administration thus far, has amply vindicated the President's good sound judgment in designating Bristow's successor.

MAXWELL. Board of Health. The regular weekly meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon.

Present—F. B. Gaudet, M. D., president; F. Y. LeMonnier, M. D., secretary; J. F. Finney, M. D. and Alfred Shaw, Esq., and John R. Clay, Esq. The minutes were read and approved.

The committee on revising the code of health ordinances asked further time. The salary of the attorney of the board was fixed to September 1, and directed to be warranted for.

The secretary reported that ninety-two vessels from ports within the yellow fever had reached this port, stopped at quarantine, fumigated and disinfected and passed to the city. No case of yellow fever had arisen from any of them. Now there was no danger of an epidemic from any source.

A letter from Administrator Burke requested the board to designate what streets most needed attention, and promised relief for any evil complained of.

The board then adjourned.

THE AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

[Special Correspondence of the Republican.] NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, September 11, 1876.

Some of the Democratic managers manifest a disposition to evade the responsibility for the delay in the transaction of public business in the department, since to follow in some of the bureaus the wholesale slaughter of clerks is taking place, while shouting themselves hoarse over their re- trenchment exploits in cutting down the force. Already the Controller of the Currency declares his inability to keep up his current work with the force allowed him; and this complaint is likely to be made by the heads of several bureaus where the work instead of diminishing is constantly increasing, before next December. Almost every year since the war there has been a well advanced reduction of clerical force, consistent with the requirements of the service; for instance, in the second Auditor's office, where, at the close of the war, several hundred clerks were necessary in the examination and auditing of the hundreds of thousands of claims filed there, the force has been reduced by a Republican Congress almost every year, keeping pace with the diminishing amount of work to be done.

While giving the late Democratic House credit for all its boasted retrenchments, it is well that every one, having business before the departments, should be able to fix the responsibility for any delay in its adjustment. Notwithstanding the popular delusion that the male clerks employed in the departments here are composed of broken down politicians and political dead beats, who do nothing but draw their salaries and spend them in dissipation and riotous living, there is a vast amount of complicated labor accomplished, requiring a high order of intellectual ability for its proper performance, and the equivocal manner in which the female employees of the government departments are often alluded to as the favorites of members of Congress and other influential officials of doubtful morality, is a cruel and rank injustice to a large majority of them, many of whom are the supporters of infirm parents, younger brothers and sisters, or their own children. General charges of an offensive character could with no more injustice be made against any other community of like numbers, anywhere, because it might contain one or two individuals who are not rigidly orthodox in their life or expressed views. A wall of distress is going up all over this city from the victims of the late official slaughter, the notification of discharge being regarded as a sure harbinger of the distress, destitution and death that can hardly fail to come to those dependent upon those beheaded clerks.

The stream of centennial visitors who have made the national capital a halting place on their way to or from the Centennial Exposition has heretofore been almost exclusively from the West; but within the past week a counter current has set in from the East. These opposing waves meet in our city, mixing their constituent atoms into a cosmopolitan mass, and keeping the generally civil and obliging custodians of the public buildings busy answering eager interrogatories and piloting the curious visitor to the points of greatest interest.

The number of admissions to the Philadelphia Exhibition appear to be steadily increasing. The rush is to be during the last months of its existence, which shows that the heads of a majority of American citizens are very level, because, not only is everything in and about the grounds better arranged for inspection, but the hotel and boarding-house arrangements are more satisfactory and complete, and from this time on cool, invigorating weather may be anticipated. During the three first months a very large number of visitors were driven to the seashore, the mountains, or to their homes by the extreme heat, before their programme was half completed.

The Baltimore Gazette, which has made itself especially notorious during the present campaign by the vicious tendencies of its teachings to the Ku-Klux of its own locality and to those further South, intimidated by the furious fire it has concentrated against itself, makes haste to disavow any rebellious sympathies. The recent demonstration by Democratic "Plug Uglies" in that city, whereby a Republican club was dispersed and some of its members seriously wounded, will be generally attributed to its influence. There is no room to doubt that in many Southern communities Democrats are organized and armed for the purpose of carrying the November election by fraud, intimidation and murder, if necessary to accomplish their revolting monetary plans. The most skeptical may be convinced that this is not a Republican or a false alarm, by a perusal of Southern Democratic papers, in which all I have stated as to the organization and arming, is admitted and approved. The significance of "Tilden and reform" becomes very apparent in the light of such revelations, and especially so when taken in connection with the uncontradicted charges at present re-
