Local Intelligence.

IN THE NAME OF THE JUSTICE KING, ninth ward, parish of West Feliciana, calls in late September Isaac Mitchell, who was killed in West Feliciana, and two of the witnesses, Amy Mitchell and Thomas Stewart, for an affidavit in the case, and Deputy Sheriff Spencer was ordered to go to New Orleans and locate their bodies. That officer found them yesterday, produced his pretended warrant and took them to the steamboat Fargand, prepared to start up the river. Fortunately, Sergeant Sullivan, harbor police, learned of the affair and took the deputy and his would-be victims to the central station for his superior officers to pass on the case. The consequence is that as a country justice of the peace is not a proper person to deprive residents of New Orleans of their liberty, the warrant was ignored and the persons told to go their ways. Spencer, the deputy sheriff, might easily have been held on a charge of kidnaping, as doubtless that is the name of his crime.

A HEAD SMASHER.—On the twenty-third instant Officer Davis arrested David Underwood, on Michael's plantation, in the lower part of this parish, for clubbing and nearly killing a fellow laborer named Washington. It is believed that Washington will die from the effects of his wounds.

THE BOOT ON THE OTHER LEG.—For the past six weeks the Democracy has occupied the almost entire attention of United States Commissioner Southworth's court, and impressed the deputies of the United States marshal into service in getting out piles by the hundred of warrants against Republican citizens, alleged to have registered with false points of residence, etc. So persistent and frivolous has become the pursuit of Republicans, that Counselor Whitaker, acting in the Democratic interest, refused last week to appear longer in court against the aggrieved parties, who have been coming up in large numbers and, upon unmistakable showing, have received a merited discharge. It is not for the Democrats to complain that warrants are now being issued against a large number who, after an exhaustive Republican canvass, are found not to have the local habitations severally set forth on the registration rolls. Over 2000 warrants of arrest were issued last night in such fraudulent cases. There is no doubt that legal recourse in this wise will very largely serve to purge the registration rolls of the cumbersome weight of frauds that has always burdened the rolls in Orleans parish.

FIRE IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.—A fire was discovered at a quarter past nine o'clock Wednesday night in an unoccupied frame stable, on the Grand Rue St. John, between Savage and Encampment streets, owned by Anatole Brigny, which was totally destroyed. Loss $100. No insurance. The alarm was sounded from box No. 412, on station, Laharpe and White streets, by the foreman of the station. Cause of fire unknown.

CAUSED BY BAD TEMPER.—A bad temper, in male or female, is likely to injure somebody, and that somebody may be an innocent party. A day or two ago a resident of the rear of the third ward, lodged almost to madness by his wife's taunts, lost his temper, and blindly threw missiles at her. A tumbler, meant for the wife's body, sped out of the house and struck a young woman's head, but fortunately the glass did not injure her. Little family matters such as this should be performed in the backyard, especially if the wife is high.

BRIEF MENTION.—That awful looking thing on the banquettes in front of Postoffice No. 2 was called a turtle. It did not look like a mocking bird.

Somebody wants the Cotton Exchange office closed on election day. Whether it is open or shut field hands will continue to pick the staple.

No news of the United States war vessel Osage up to dark last evening.

The insurance tugboat Protector put in some good work yesterday by throwing water into the street gutters at the head of Esplanade street.

The revenues of fourteen of the public markets will be sold to-day.

A young man was lately arrested for stealing firearms, but as it was little more than a twist of his wrist he will not be prosecuted. The property was returned to the owner, and all parties being satisfied the offender was permitted to depart, having a troubled conscience.

The eleventh hour men are now exceedingly anxious to register, and if they fail they will condemn the government.

REPORT FROM THE CITY ATTORNEY.—Mr. Robinson, secretary to the City Attorney.

Death of Francis P. Blair, Sr.

The death of Francis Preston Blair, well known as a politician, statesman and journalist, is announced this morning. His demise took place at his home, Silver Springs, Maryland, on Wednesday, October 25, at the age of 76 years. He was the father of General F. P. Blair, son of the deceased. Mr. Blair was born at Abingdon, Virginia, April 12, 1791. James Blair, his father, removed to Kentucky in 1800, and became Attorney General. The son graduated at Transylvania University, and then studied law, but from ill health and lack of voice never engaged in practice. Early a politician, he supported his friend, Mr. Clay, for the presidency in 1824, but became politically estranged from him during the administration of John Quincy Adams. An article in the Democratic paper against the nullification movement procured him an invitation from General Jackson to remove to Washington and edit a Democratic paper. He was elected on election day. Whether it is open or shut field hands will continue to pick the staple.

How the Democrats Carried Georgia.

Hon. Jonathan Nash, who was the Republican candidate for Governor in Georgia at the late election, addressed a Republican meeting in Philadelphia on Thursday evening. In the course of his speech he said: "Notwithstanding all the professions, pledges and abjurations of the Democratic party of the South, if we may take the voices of the leaders and the preachers of the party, we do not intend to enforce the fifteenth amendment of the constitution, or allow us to have fair and honest elections in various parts of the country. I don't ask me how they prevent it. I can tell you. They employ or visit encourage intimidation, fraud, and violence in various parts of the country. In addition to this, they employ or encourage all the arts, tricks, and influences that ingenuity can invent. First, they keep the Republicans from the polls, and then they prevent them from voting as they wish when they go to the polls. One trick is—and this, I believe, is an invention of the present year, and practiced throughout the State of Georgia—is to send out a party of men, legal and some illegal, to be pronounced to the colored voters when they come up to the polls. This series of questions consumes from ten to fifteen minutes to each voter. While the voters are being pronounced the Democrats are dropping their votes into the box as fast as they can be numbered, with no questions asked. In this way a hundred colored men can vote in the course of the day. Another trick, when the

A SQUEAL.

A Document that Should be Appended to the Protest of the Franchise of Charleasts.

Captain Lloyd, of the Eighteenth Infantry, United States army, who was ordered to the scene of the disturbance at Aiken, South Carolina, makes a report to army headquarters regarding his investigations. On his arrival at House's Bridge, Captain Lloyd stated that he found a body of 300 mounted men under the command of P. Butler, who had thrown out skirmish lines surrounding the negroes, and adds that there was undoubted evidence of a digested plan which, if carried out, would have resulted in the slaughter of nearly all the negroes in the place. The presence of troops brought about an agreement by which both armed whites and negroes disarmed. On the march from House's Bridge to Elliott on the bodies of three negroes who had been killed were found, and information received that five others had been killed. One of the negroes was killed. The negroes were completely cowed and afraid to leave their hiding places in the woods and return to work from about seven to the end of the field. A detachment sent down the Barnwell road met a body of twenty or thirty white, who stated they were a detachment of General Haywood's army, and were ordered from Judge Wiggins to disarm and arrest negroes, and also protect a party of negroes white burying a colored member of the Legislature who had been shot and killed. The report estimates the total number of whites engaged in the riots at not less than 800, coming from Georgia, and Edgefield, Aiken and Barnwell, South Carolina. The Fort Royal railroad which had been torn up, was repaired under the protection of a squad of soldiers. The men previously had been afraid to work on the road.

Another: From the Columbia Union, October 23.

A number of colored men were standing in the store of Mr. Gerrick at Adam's Car, sixteen miles below the city on the South Carolina railroad, on Saturday night, discussing the political situation in New York. One of the men, a white man, who is reported, procured a pistol from a clerk named Blakely, and walking to where the colored men were standing, fired the pistol, killing one of the men, named Ben Mack, in the leg, the ball lodging in the ankle. Adams then fled. The wounded man was brought to Columbia for surgical treatment, arriving here on Sunday morning. He was first taken to Dr. Turpin, who refused to extricate the ball unless Mack would promise not to prosecute Adams, and if he did not make the promise he would be fined $50. The unfortunate man was then taken to Dr. J. F. Ensor, who immediately rendered the needed aid, extracting the ball, which was found to be a Remington. Dr. Trezvant assisted Dr. Ensor in the operation. The above facts are gathered from notes of Trial Justice Thompson and verified by Robert Mack, who is the wounded man, and our reporter. The old man is now lying in a very painful condition at the residence of Hampton Mims, in this city.

Tilden's Pet Lambs.—The Quarrel Over the Spoils.

John Morrissey has returned to the fold of Tammany Hall, where his talents and training fit him for a leader. The Tammany movement is thus deprived of its leader. But the quarrel over the anticipated spoil spoils office is no less violent on that account. John Kelly has virtually taken the words "spoils" out of the dictionary, and seventy-five thousand dollars; and members of the General Assembly shall receive five dollars a day during their attendance, and a mileage of twenty cents for each actual day's attendance on their respective parishes to the State Capitol.

The last sentence in article sixty-six of the constitution, which bill shall not be returned by the Governor within five days after it shall have been presented to him, and if he does not return it, it shall be a law in like manner as if it had been returned by the Governor.

"Jimmy" seems now to be conducting a campaign for spoils on his own account. Last Thursday evening he filled Continental Hall "to overflowing" by a spontaneous rally of his supporters. In his speech, Mr. O'Brien expressed his indignation at the action of the prize fighter. He insisted that Morrissey has been rigidly in his contributions for campaign purposes, and as an illustration cites the election of Mr. Kernan to the office of Mayor.

In the election he says Morrissey only contributed $50, while he, himself, out of his "frugal savings," contributed $50,000. He said the Levee was a "new" and Tilden and Morrissey and John Kelly having all the spoils between them.

This is a blow to the spoils on the shoulders of John Morrissey would say. "In the world could be so great a reformer" as to be oblivious to such injustice? A man who contributes but a paltry $50, and who is not allowed to have a share in the spoils, while a man who contributes fifty thousand dollar contributor is exempted. Until the bandage shall be rudely torn from the eyes of Justice, and her delicate scales are placed on the scales, by the gods, it shall never be!

Meanwhile the desperate scramble among the "bosses" has but setonahed and issued in the most chaotic proceedings.

"Democrats of this city who have the success of the party at heart, and care comparatively little for the distribution of local offices, do not dissent from the fact that the spoils of the national administration jeopardized in a contemptible struggle about the true ratio for the division of city spoils.

And then, after a moment for breath, it goes on to say:

"These leaders are short-sighted even in their struggle for spoils, since they are willing to risk the Federal patronage of the city for what is by no means the certainty of winning part of the local offices."

And thus affairs now stand. John Kelly, the man who fought to the last moment for the nomination of Tilden, is united with John Morrissey, the man who secured that nomination, and the union has been brought about for the purpose of dividing the spoils of the national administration.

The national spoils are divided into three classes, to-wit: (1) to the spoils of the national administration, (2) to the spoils of the State, and (3) to the spoils of the city.

The Governor shall receive a salary of six thousand dollars annually, payable quarterly, on his own warrant.

The Auditor of Public Accounts shall be allowed to receive by the Treasurer, Auditor, Attorney General, or by district attorneys.

E. D. ESTILEPTE, (Signed) Secretary of the House of Representatives.

(Signed) C. C. ANTOINE, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate.

P. G. DESLONDE, Secretary of State.

The foregoing was received in the office of the Secretary of State July 1, 1876.

REPRESENTATIVES TO FEDERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE constitution, which provides:

Any amendment or amendments to this constitution may be proposed in the Senate or House of Representatives, and if the same shall be agreed to by two thirds of the members elected to each house, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be printed and distributed to the members of the next General Assembly, in at least one newspaper in every parish in the State in which a newspaper shall be published. And such proposed amendment or amendments shall be submitted to a vote of the voters at said election; and if a majority of the voters at said election shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments, the same shall become a part of the constitution.
