

to the hotel, where two hundred gentlemen and about fifty ladies were furnished by the entertaining host, Mr. HUNT, with a very excellent dinner, worthy indeed of the FOURTH OF JULY and the AMERICAN HOTEL. W. H. ADAMS and A. E. MASSEY officiated, very creditably, as president and vice-president. One lonely and honored living relic of the Revolution, supported in the procession by two young men, was seated at dinner by the president, and seemed for a time to have cast off his years and become young again. After dinner, the following toasts were drunk, accompanied by music and cannon:

1. The day we celebrate—It reminds us of the sufferings and triumph of our sires—We are slaves when we come to reverse it. May the next and all succeeding generations of Americans continue to hold it sacred.
2. The Union of the States—Our fathers reared the fabric in wisdom—Withered be the arm which shall attempt its dissolution.
3. The Fame of Washington—Where the flag of freedom waves, there will it ever live and brighten—none but tyrants and menials will attempt to tarnish it.
4. Lafayette—His sun rose in splendor and set without a cloud ever having obscured its brightness.
5. Our Republic—The only country where the Press is a fountain, clear and free, issuing a stream of many tidings against the foes of the People.
6. The Press—May it continue the fearless defender of our liberties.
7. Michigan, as a State—The twenty-fifth sister of a prolific parentage—though compelled to undergo a slight amputation on her reception into the family, may the vanity of her intruding neighbor never detract from her charms nor prevent her healthful and rapid growth.
8. The Governor, Lieut. Governor, and State Legislature of Michigan.
9. Agriculture, Commerce and Manufactures—a blessed combination. In their continued union shall our national compact be perpetuated.
10. Our institutions based on Democracy—A beacon for the world, that "Intelligence is the life of liberty."
11. The Chief Magistrate of the United States—As darkness and mist are dispelled by the rising sun so must calumny flee before the brilliancy of his talents and the purity of his patriotism.
12. The Fair—Valiant advocates for liberty and union. Battered be the tongue that would asperse them, and withered the arm that would oppress them.

VOLUNTEER TOASTS.

- By WILLIAM H. ADAMS, President of the day—The Orator of the day.
- By ALBERT E. MASSEY, Vice President of the day—The Patriots of '76—We can never do justice to their memories. 9 cheers.
- By the ORATORS—Our most gracious Sovereign, the People—the only one we acknowledge to be legitimate—May the Dynasty be hereditary and perpetual; and never be found in nouage or dotage, requiring a Regency. 9 cheers.
- By Maj. J. J. UELMAN, Marshal of the Day—The Youth of our own country—May they never forget that the Liberty they enjoy was purchased and secured by the blood and sufferings of their patriotic forefathers. 6 cheers.
- By Capt. P. E. GROVEN, Assistant Marshal—The Village of Constantine—Like the hickory, rapid in its growth. May its citizens evince as much liberality in their support of the Arts and Sciences, as they have in the building up of our beautiful village. 10 cheers.
- By Lieut. JOHN S. KEAN, Assistant Marshal—Lucius Lyon—Our respected Senator. Already have we experienced the beneficial effects of his integrity and wisdom. 6 cheers.
- By NELSON BRYANT, Reader of the Declaration. The Institutions of Antiquity—Their origin was ignorance and necessity; may the knowledge and experience of the present age remove gently and speedily the genius of man. 6 cheers.
- By LEMUEL BOLTER, a Revolutionary Soldier. The American Pair—Transplanted from their native soil, to one untried for the variety and beauty of its flowers. In them will the principles of '76 be perpetuated. 9 cheers.
- By DANIEL MUNGER, Michigan—Though oppressed in her infancy, will soon become the "tallest tree in the puddle." 9 cheers.
- By a GUEST—Santa Anna—Tread to all intents and purposes. Air, "Poison up a gum tree."
- By ALBERT CHANDLER—Our National Birth day—Whilst admiring the noble deeds of our pilgrim fathers, and paying just tribute to their memories, let us not forget that the luxury of liberty may null us into a dangerous repose. 9 cheers.
- By WILLIAM H. ADAMS, The State of Michigan—Inhabited by industrious, intelligent and enterprising citizens, who think and act for themselves; possessing virtues which form the bulwark of public safety, it cannot fail of becoming one of the chief pillars of the Republic. 10 cheers.
- By G. W. LANGWORTHY, The Captives of Andros—May the pure patriotism and true devotedness to their country, which characterized these men, and which triumphed over the proffer of the well filled purse, be instilled into the hearts of the present generation and their descendants, to the latest posterity. 6 cheers.
- By JOHN A. APPLETON—Uncle Sam's youngest child—Fat, ragged and sunny. 3 cheers.
- By NORMAN ROYS, The Fair Daughters of Michigan—The cherished objects of our affections and regard. Whilst they give to life its purest joys they afford the strongest proofs of the blessings of union. 9 cheers.
- By ALBERT H. STRONG—Republican principles—they were established by the Fathers of our Republic and illustrated by the sage Jefferson, and as they have been preserved by the patriot Jackson—May they go on conquering and to conquer until Kings, thrones, monarchs and despots shall become a by-word and a reproach unto the whole universal family of man. 10 cheers.
- By J. M. THATCHER—Stevens T. Mason—May he be recognized as the governor of a people, not of a party. 6 cheers.
- By S. C. GOODRICH—The Steam Boat Constantine—May her completion be speedy, and her builder's anticipations realized. 9 cheers.
- By JULIAN R. HOWARD, The Fair Daughters of Michigan—They are as pure as the snow that whitens their plains: Without their ambition would drop her wings and patriotism cease to exist. 6 cheers.
- By G. J. CLARK, Texas—May her sanguinary but triumphant struggles add a new star to the glorious constellation of Republics, whose brilliant rays shall shine forth upon the world as a convincing proof that all men are born free and equal. 9 cheers.
- By D. MUNGER, Ex President Adams—The firm and unyielding friend to Michigan.
- By HORACE HUNT, Our happiness—May we know no worse enemies to our happiness than the events of this day. Air, "Life let us cherish." 6 cheers.
- By Mr. LINDLEY The Back-Eye Tree—May the Woodmen stand aloof and not partake of the berries for fear of getting the blind-staggers. 9 cheers.
- By ALBERT ANDRE: To the memory of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. 9 cheers.

By D. T. HOLMES Our own State—May she at no distant day shine forth the brightest star in the constellation of our glorious union. 6 cheers.

By Doctor P. L. BALDY: May every true patriot of America bear in mind the liberty and Independence which our forefathers established for us. 9 cheers.

By GEORGE A. DUDLEY, Gen. Washington: The citizen, soldier and statesman: "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." His majestic statue fills the proudest, loftiest niche in the temple of fame; he lives in the grateful remembrance among the enlightened and free of all nations. Drank standing and in silence.

By W. H. ADAMS: May no son of America ever prove recreant to the sublime principles which the fathers of liberty and founders of our republican institutions have taught us. 9 cheers.

By FRANKLIN COWDERY, Gen. Houston: The "Lafayette" of Texas—May a Lafayette's reward of gratitude from the full hearts of a nation feed by its aid from the shackles of tyranny, ever attend him. 6 cheers.

By C. L. MILLER, The Fourth of July, 1776: Far distant be the time when the events of that day shall cease to be remembered with pride by every American. 9 cheers.

By CHARLES S. ADAMS—Our noble and beautiful St. Joseph—May we use her but not abuse her; and may we ever be as pure though not quite so crooked. 9 cheers.

By THOS. CHARLTON, Esq.—The American Flag—A true emblem of the spirit of liberty; its hues were born in heaven; the principles it maintains are an emanation from the Deity. 9 cheers.

By G. W. SCHNABEL, Constantine, which, but two years since, was slumbering in the cradle of infancy, has at last thrown off her infantile mantle, and is now destined to become the brightest star in West Michigan.

By ALBERT H. STRONG—The Clergy: They offer prayers and benevolence shall share, So long as they make religion and virtue their care; May our happy country never see the day When Priests shall bear rule and freedom obey. 3 cheers.

By Doctor WATSON SUMNER—The performers of Vocal and Instrumental Music, who have aided in the exercises and contributed to the festivities of this day—They have given the most conclusive evidence that "Music hath charms." 15 cheers.

The glorious Fourth was celebrated at Detroit, in a manner quite becoming the occasion, and with the usual demonstrations of joy. The Free Press says of M. J. BACON, Esq.'s oration, "The allusion of the orator to the past, compared with the present history of the peninsula, to the time when the savage Pontiac revelled on the very spot where they were then rejoicing—was both judicious and happy." Gov. MASON, senator L. BEARDSLEY of N. Y., Col. H. WHITING and Doct. Z. PITCHEL, of the U. S. Army, and the Hon. J. WITHERELL and A. GARRISON, two Revolutionary veterans, were among the guests. Among the toasts were the following:

By Chairman A. W. BUEL, Esq. The old and the new thirteen—may the statute books of the latter ever bear upon their pages the immortal declaration of the former.

By Hon. Wm. C. FRAGER of Wisconsin Ter. Michigan—one of the last stars in the political firmament—may she soon shine forth, one of the brightest in our beautiful galaxy of sovereign states.

By Hon. L. BEARDSLEY of the N. Y. senate. Gentlemen—the subject of the sentiment to which I beg permission to call your attention, has, from its repetition at this festive board, become like a "thrice told tale," yet I will give you—The free, independent and sovereign state of Michigan, whose spirit and patriotic devotion to the great interests of the Republic, entitle her (as her rapidly increasing population will enable her to command the admiration and respect of the elder members of this great confederacy. Unmeasured and unbounded prosperity to Michigan.

The Letters of our correspondent, which we insert to-day, will be found quite interesting. Its first, is a detail of a passage through Detroit. He gives rather an unfavorable account of a portion of our roads; but by reference to his dates it will be seen that his trip was performed about the winding up of a continued succession of rain storms, which lasted about four weeks. In dry weather, these roads are superior to any we ever traveled in, in any country. We know how to pity him. We were once coming through when the road was in about the same situation; four in the coach, besides a lady, who seemed to have no protector, and her child. On arriving at the edge of a long causeway, the most of which was floating, we were told by the driver that we must walk over this bad piece of ground, which was nearly a mile in length; and we readily alighted, and, through politeness we volunteered our services to the lady to carry the child. What a situation! Only imagine, a man who has been in the habit of setting types all his life on dry land, paddling along through mud and water up to his knees, with a baby in his arms, squalling every step. On entering the stage again, we murmured to ourselves, it is a fine thing to be polite, but this thing of carrying young ones through the mud is not "what it is cracked up to be."

Printers rising—ISAAC HILL, a printer, and for several years publisher of the Patriot at Concord, has been a senator in congress and is now governor of New-Hampshire. The first printer of the Albany Argus, JESSE BEEL, for several years state printer, and who previously published a little paper, entitled "Uster Plebeian," has been a judge, is now a farmer and a candidate for governor of the state of New-York.

At Opelousas, Louisiana, a young lady, in posting herself in the Gazette for a husband, gives the following description of her charms; the last item of which we should think the most magnetic for admirers:

"My complexion is bruno, eyes and hair black, nose Grecian, mouth small, neck slender, bust proportionally full, height five feet three inches, ankles and hands delicately formed, fortune about 30,000 dollars."

There is a small kind of electioneering, too common among editors on both sides, from which we take the liberty to dissent. There seems to be just about as much connection between the presenting of a petition to Gen. Harrison and his qualifications for president, as there was between Judge Marcy's patched breeches and his fitness for governor of New-York.

The Buffalo Daily Com. Advertiser gives the following as a precise copy of a "laicid" superscription to a letter recently dropped into the box of their post-office:

"To Metilde Goghben of geargo Seat of elinoyce Amroca."

Such a letter may get to Chicago, Illinois; but it may stand about as good a chance of going to Goshira, South America.

Having so much interesting matter to insert, we have taken the liberty of leaving out many advertisements. They will appear regularly hereafter.

The Commissioners appointed by the Legislature in the bill incorporating the Constantine & Niles Canal or Rail Road Company, met at Adamsville, in Cass Co. on the 6th inst. and organized their board, by electing VINCENT L. BRADFORD, of Niles, President, Doct. WATSON SUMNER, of Constantine, Sec'y. E. N. BRIDGES, Esq. of Edwardsburgh, Treas'r.

The commissioners have resolved to make as speedy arrangements as possible, for opening the books for subscriptions to the capital stock.

We have a list of fifty new Mail routes established in Michigan. The list will appear entire in our next paper. The following is of vast importance to this section of country:

"From Coldwater, in Branch county, to Michigan City, in the state of Indiana, via Centreville, Constantine, Mottville, Bristol, Elkhart, Mishawaka, South-Bend and Laporte."

This will be a very important route. There is not a better road in the western country than this, from Centreville to South-Bend. We have never been over the other part of the route. Mr Graves, of Niles, and Mr Besley of Detroit, agents for the Detroit and Chicago Line of Stages, are expected here in a few days, to examine the route through from this place to Coldwater. They will be accompanied by a number of our citizens; and we are confident that, whatever funds may be required to improve the road will be liberally subscribed, by those interested in the route. We expect to see a daily line of stages on the road in less than three months.

The Deposit Law—We have a copy of the act of congress, to regulate the deposits of the public money—an abstract of which we may publish hereafter. The apportionment is to be regulated according to the representation in congress, so that 2,857,000, ours will be but about 905,000. If Michigan has already two millions of the public money in her banks, she will under this law, instead of receiving, be obliged to shell out about one million seven hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars, to be handed over to some older state, better able to do without it. The times of deposit, are to be the first of January, April, July and October, 1837, in four equal divisions, reserving in the treasury five millions of dollars. The 5th section provides, that from the 4th of July, 1836, no bank shall be selected as a place of deposit, which issues bills of a less denomination than five dollars, or which does not redeem its notes on demand, in specie; neither are the bills or notes of any bank that issues of a less denomination after that time, to be received in payment of any debt due the United States. Whether the operation of this law will produce a general pressure or not, remains to be seen.

THE DETROIT DAILY FREE PRESS, has recently been enlarged and improved with new type, so as to about equal in appearance its new contemporary, the Daily Advertiser. Messrs. Morse & Bagg justly merit the liberal patronage which this improvement is evidence of being awarded to them by a thriving business community.

We rejoice in the reflection, that the enterprise and liberality of the metropolis of our new state are sufficient to sustain two so respectable dailies as the Free Press and Advertiser.

INDIANA FREE PRESS, is the title of a new paper, by William Millikan, at South Bend, St. Joseph county, Indiana, 36 miles south west of this place. The editor says, he "will studiously maintain Whig principles," but "will do no design to make a trade of politics." So far as relates to "a lucrative livelihood in the business of his profession," as he expresses it, and "the growth and prosperity of Northern Indiana," we wish him success.

Lima, or Mongoquinong—We refer our readers to the sale of Lots advertised in another column in the above village. This village, the county seat of Lagrange County, Ia., is beautiful, located on the bank of Pigeon River, on the border of an extensive and highly cultivated Prairie, thickly inhabited by industrious citizens. The river at this place possesses uncommon hydraulic advantages which, are about to be extensively improved by a wealthy and enterprising company of individuals, who have received a charter from the Legislature of Indiana, for this purpose. These advantages, together with the Toledo and Lake Michigan Rail Road, which will pass through this place, must make it a point worthy the attention of the public generally.

We have read that terrible bill, which passed to its third reading in the senate by the casting vote of the Vice President, and which some of the wonder making papers term the "incendiary bill," some the "sedition bill," and others the "gag law;" and shall probably publish it next week, accompanied by the remarks of a respectable Harrison daily paper. If those editors who are so censorious on the subject, would be sincere enough to accompany their gentlemanly epithets with a copy of the bill itself, they would get better credit from their candid readers as doing the fair thing.

Creek War—A letter in a Millidgeville, Ga., paper, dated Camp Georgia, June 18, says, "We have just received intelligence of a battle fought between the Alabamians and Jim Henry, which is said to have been fought yesterday, about 30 miles below this place; the report is that the Indians were badly whipped, and their town burned; but I cannot say that the report is true—although it was expected they would have a battle yesterday. It is also said that Neah Mico and 100 warriors have given themselves up. If these reports be true, we shall soon end the Creek campaign."

Another letter of the same date, says, "News has just reached here, that the troops below have taken Neah Mithlo and his son prisoners, and that the war is at an end—that they have scourged the country west of Irwinton."

[Letters received at Washington strengthen the above, stating that Gen. Jessup had gone with the Alabama troops and 700 friendly Indians, and was supposed to be able to reach Neah Mithlo's camp on the 16th ult.]

The Buffalo Daily Star states that two men in a boat, were seen to go over Niagara Falls on the evening of the last day of June! after considerable effort, at some distance above, and two almost successful attempts to rescue them. They answered to the waving of hats, by persons near the falls, just as they made the fatal descent. Names not known.

SHELDON M'KNIGHT, Esq. formerly proprietor of the Democratic Free Press, has been appointed Post Master at Detroit. The Daily Advertiser of the 1st inst. presumed he would enter on his official duties immediately. We congratulate the citizens of that place, on the respectability of the appointment.

Congress has passed a bill for the reorganization of the Post Office department, and a bill reducing the pay of the members of congress to six dollars a day instead of eight.

Hon. LEWIS CAS, former governor of Michigan, has been nominated minister to France.

Saugateek, is the new name of the Post Office at the mouth of the Kalamazoo river, Allegan county.

From the Detroit Daily Free Press.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

The state of the boundary question has become entirely changed. Up to the present time, or to the passage of the late law upon the subject, the disputed Territory has belonged to Michigan by virtue of the ordinance, and a law of the United States. The State of Ohio claimed it, and endeavored to extend and exercise her jurisdiction over it. But Michigan, in pursuance of her rights and her duty resisted the attempted usurpation. The Government of the United States sustained the course of Michigan in her resistance to the forcible occupation of her territory, attempted by Ohio. The president is bound by his oath to see that she laws of the United States are faithfully executed, and he announced his determination at the period of the collision, to secure to Michigan the possession of the disputed territory for the benefit of the act of 1805, establishing her territorial government, until her boundary should be altered by congress.

Despairing, after this announcement of the president, of ever obtaining possession of the disputed territory on the pretences under which she claimed it, Ohio made application to congress for the passage of a law, giving to her the country in dispute. The people of Michigan met Ohio in a dispute. The people of Michigan met Ohio in a dispute, to which she had appealed, and denied its jurisdiction of the question. We contended that congress, in establishing the territorial government, by the act of 1805, precluded itself from further legislation on the subject, and vested Michigan with boundary rights, which could not be taken from her.

But we were overruled in the positions which we assumed. Congress decided that it had jurisdiction over the question in dispute, and would proceed to exercise it. Committees were appointed in both Houses to investigate the subject, and the respective delegations of Michigan and Ohio, appeared before them to vindicate and contend for the rights of their constituents. The committees examined the allegations and the proof, and the examination resulted in a judgment against Michigan.

The question now presented is, whether it is best for Michigan to resist the execution of the judgment, which the government of the United States has thus pronounced against her.

The two bills, each of which contains a judgment against Michigan, gives the disputed territory to Ohio, at any rate, whether we comply with the terms of the bill, or not. Ohio, as Ohio now has the right, she will unquestionably take immediate possession of her State government over it. The law which confers it upon her is a statute of the United States, and the president is bound to see it faithfully executed. The same oath that has required him heretofore to aid Michigan in maintaining her laws over it, now imposes before him the unavoidable duty of sustaining Ohio to the disposition of the territory, and the water of this stream, to the benefit of the State of Ohio, takes possession of the disputed tract under an act of congress, over which we have no control. It is, if we oppose the extension of her jurisdiction over it, we incur the heavy penalties of resistance to a law of the United States.

APPOINTMENT BY THE PRESIDENT.

By and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

GEORGE WOLF, of Pennsylvania, to be First Controller of the Treasury of the United States, in the place of Joseph Anderson, resigned; to take effect on the first day of July, 1836.

MUNGER & COWDERY,

Having one of the best assortments of Job Type in the western country, are prepared to turn out in the neatest style, and on short notice, at the office of the Constantine Republican.

JOB PRINTING,

LIMA OR MONGOQUINONG,

County Seat of Lagrange County, Indiana.

The location and advantages of this place, are exceeded by few in the western country. It is situated on the southwest side of MONGOQUINONG PRAIRIE, and immediately on the bank of White Pigeon River. This river excels all most every other in the country, both as to beauty and for manufacturing facilities.

A Company have very recently received a charter under the title "Lagrange County Manufacturing Company," and the water of this stream will be brought immediately through a part of the Village, thereby creating an immense Water Power, with from 10 to 14 feet fall, and the privilege of using any quantity of water that may be required for Mills or other Machinery. The Capital stock of this company consists of fifty thousand dollars, and was all taken in one hour and a half, on the first opening of the books for subscription.

All the important roads running from the east, north and south, make this place a point of great importance. The great Toledo road, leading from the Maumee River to Michigan City, and from Lake Erie to Lake Michigan, passes through this place. This road has recently been carried the great west upon which will soon be carried the great west, connecting the eastern and western countries by the shortest possible route. The Public buildings for Lagrange County, are already nearly completed at this place. Several extensive Stores for Merchandising, as well as Mechanics' shops, of large commodious public houses, Academy, &c. &c. From the native richness of the country, &c. From the fact is established that LIMA is destined by nature to become one of the most wealthy and flourishing inland towns in the west.
