TO THE EVENING STAR.

STAR of the west!—thy dewy beam
Looks o'er our mingled joy and wo—
Reflected in the glassy stream,
Thou degn'st to light the world below;
While the waves ripple their reply
To the low breeze's evening sigh.

Star of the west!—when Nature sleeps,
And the last glance of the day is gone,
And when the baimy dew-drop weeps,
Thou shin'st and sparklest there alone,
And throw'st thy ray of silver light
On the dun breast of coming night.

Star of the west !—whose glories burn, As if to guard while we are sleeping, Ere we retire, to thee we turn,
And gaze where thou thy watch art keepis
Thy gentle influence o'er us shed,
And with sweet slumbers bless our bed!

And guid'st it through its heavenly flight, Who guard'st us wheresoe'er we are, Through radiant day or gloomy night; Oh shed around the willing heart The light that never can depart!

Temperance Address .- We find on our table a neatly printed pamphlet containing an Address delivered before the Total Abstinence Temperance Society of Detroit, by the Rev. EDWARD TOMPSON of the Methodist Church. It is written with conparagraphs .- Detroit Adv.

"I pass to notice one or two arguments wine in eastern countries is used tempe rately; that'when so used it may be bene ficial; that the Saviour countenanced its use. I answer, oriental climates are ener-vating, our climate is bracing, oriental wine is pure, ours adulterated, oriental habits are temperate, our habits intemperate : and though in certain situations and under certain circumstances it may be innocently used, yet in our country and age, it cannot be so employed. But it is enquired may not oriental wines be obtained by some unadulterated, used by them temperately, and when those wines are thus used, is their employment wrong? I answer, others are injured by their example and the apostle says, "If meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no meat, while the world stan-

I look upon the effort in which we are engaged, as one purely providential, growing out of the circumstances of the nation, and the age. An enterprise in which every party, creed, or sect, may cheerfully engage. I embark in it as the capitalist engages in cutting a canal to unite two distant seas. The primary object of the former, as of the latter enterprise is to increase the wealth, the commerce, Volinia, Mar. 1 1837. GEO. FREESE. science, and the happiness of the world. To the enemies of our society, I proand good men who projected this noble scheme, and at the sacrifice of personal interest and popularity maintained it, with all the powers of their vigorous minds and holy hearts. You may cover their names with obloquy and their cause with contempt, but they will not suffer. They have already grown gray in the service of their ding upon the margin of the grave, and ty will do them justice in this world, and Temperance revolution, would dishearten the friends of Temperance in every land, as much as the breaking up of our government would sink the hearts of the chamions of liberty throughout the world."

ance at church to a rich neighbor by saying he had no breeches fit for the occasion, which the latter offered to lend. The man priest was about to commence prayer, he cast a glance to his friend, when he called out in an under tone, but loud enough to be heard by those around, "Don't kneel down in my breeches." The man carried home the borrowed garment, and was a long time absent from church, as usual, when another neighbor enquired the reason, which the poor man gave as before, adding, that he once borrowed a pair, which had given ocasion to insult his poverty before the whole audience—"Come with me," said his new friend, "and I will supply you." Accordingly he essayed once more to visit the church in borrowed breeches; and when no-

The next morning we take half a pint of tar for half a bushel of seed, put it into an iron vessel with water, and heat it till the tar is dissolved, and the liquid becomes tar water. It is then turned upon the seed and well stirred. It adheres to the grain, and gives it a thin transparent coating. The tar serves a double purpose; it prevents an excess of moisture entering and rotting the seed, if the weather or soil are cold and wet; and it preserves it from the depredations of birds, &c. which prev upon it. After the seed is taken from the siderable spirit, and has some pertinent steep, where we never leave it more than arguments, and pointed appeals in behalf of the cause it advocates. We copy a few ed with it as will adhere to the kernels. The gypsum prevents the kernels from adhering to each other, and favors the after against this society. It is contended that growth of the crop. Ashes or lime may be substituted for gypsum. The seed should be planted while it is moist, and immediately covered. It should not be exposed to the sun.

Distance in planting .- This must depend on the variety cultivated and the richness of the soil. The Dutton is of dwarf growth, and upon well manured land may be planted three feet each way, or three feet by two feet and a half. Southern corn, and the same old varieties in the north grow taller, and require more room. As a certain quantity of food is required to bring each stock to maturity, poorly manured land cannot feed so many stocks as that which is highly manured. "Quantity of seed and covering .- From using too little seed, and a recklessness in covering it, many corn fields are deficient one half of what ought to grow upon them. religion.
