B) Lo! THEY'RE COMING !—From two steam boats, FIVE HUNDRED Emigrants landed at Toledo, in one day last week ; and TWENTY. FOUR HUNDRED in one day, from seven steamboats, at Detroit. Five hundred is said to be the average daily landings at the latter place

We seissor the following from the Philadeip ommercial Herald: Commercial Herald:

"Where's the use of sighing like an old bellows, wearing long faces, and looking as melancholy as patience on a monument? We move that every man whose face hereafter measures more than two feet and a half in length, shall be expelled from 'good society,' and 'put into the middle of next month.'

All in favor of this motion say aye—contrary no—the ayes have it! Clear out you long faced gentry—Presto! be gone."

Treasurer of the County of St. Joseph. All in favor of this motion say aye—contrary no—the ayes have it! Clear out you long-faced gentry—Presto! be gone." This is the kind of paragraphs we like to see. The luguirious whinings of most of the editors are a disgrace to the corps, and an injury to the community.—Schenectada Reflector. We vote in the affirmative-and agree with and at points like ours, where the pressure is invariably proportioned to the extent of its business transactions—such evidences of wealth and enterprise as are presented by the almost weekly addition of a splendid stermboat or gallant schooner to our numerous lake craft, should still exist. But they exist, despite the whelming embarrass-ments which paralyze the common business transactions of the country.

Among the numerous steamboats brought out this season, the "New England" which out this season, the "New England," which left our harbor well laden for the west, is the latest which has come under our notice. She was built during the winter past, at Black Rock, under the superintendence of Mr. J. W. Banti, and is a handsome specimen of

The New England mensures 450 tons burthen; deck 165 feet; beam 26 feet. She is propelled by one of Allaire's low pres-sure engines, and will carry in addition to passengers and baggage, a freight of 2500

Although fitted for carrying freight as well as passengers, the cabins of the New England are fitted up in a style inferior to no boat on the lake. We were really surpri sed to find such elegance displayed in this department. The Gentlemen's cabin contains 30, and the Ladies', 16 berths, besides 4' state rooms—all richly furnished, and what is vastly convenient to the tallest sort of men, the cabins are of very liberal

The New England cost some $45,000, and is owned principally by Messrs. J. Saltar & Co., and J. Mayhew of this city; and Messrs. Gillespie, Joyce & Co. of Cleveland. She is commanded by Captain C. BURNETT, and will run regularly between this port and Detroit.

Agents, Colson & Cooke, and J. Saltar

Now, when so many faces look gloomytrue philosophy intimates, that it is better not withstanding every purse is getting lank and bill-ious to laugh than cry. In this view, one of the New York penny daily papers, the Transcript, has the following humorous hit at the times :-

A List of Suspensions .- The banks are suspending specie payments; the prisons are suspending the worst of their inmates; the tailors are suspending their credit system, and those who never intend paying are consequently suspending their orders for

The respectable sixpennies, [the large papers] are suspending their profits, and will soon be suspending operations; the Sun, during the panic which the Transcript has occasioned it, is suspending its wits; and the Sunday Morning News is suspending its judgement; this, by the by, has been so long suspended that many are extreme-ly doubtful as to whether it ever possessed

Any.

Pashion is suspending its extravagance; fops are suspending their moustaches and eyeglass: men monkies are suspending their promenades in Broadway, and the elite are uspending balls, fetes and soirces, without which a few short months since they found it impossible to exist.

Cupid is suspending his arrows and Hymen his torch; clerks have suspended writing sonnets, and ladies have suspended all thoughts of them, and Love himself has suspended all operations, in consequence of having had his pocket picked of the desideratum to make the pot boil.
