

Interviewer—He never was a Republican, was he? Mr. Pinchback—He was never so regarded. I do not know that he appointed Democrats to office, but I think he did.

enemies of the President? Mr. Pinchback—That was their capital all the time. They had nothing else to buy them up except the assertion that Mr. Warmoth had broken his pledges to the colored people.

STEAMBOATS. CAIRO. St. Louis and New Orleans Packet Company. FOR CAIRO AND ST. LOUIS. Illinois Central Railroad Packets.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Call for a Southern States Convention. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted by the State Convention of Georgia, held in Atlanta, February 3, 1871.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. H. R. LEHDE & BRO., GROCERS. No. 79 81 & 83. Baronne Street, Corner of Union Street. New Orleans.

DRY GOODS & CLOTHING. PARTIES WHO BUY FIRST CLASS DRY GOODS. BRASELMAN & ADAM'S CASH HOUSE. THE PEOPLES COMMERCIAL COLLEGE!

LOTTERIES. LOUISIANA STATE LOTTERY COMPANY. Incorporated August 17, 1868. CHARLES T. HOWARD, President. SINGLE NUMBER LOTTERY.

Interviewer—Is anybody going on to Washington to see about this matter?

Mr. Pinchback—I am on my way there now to see the President.

Interviewer—Do you intend to make a direct issue on the removal of the United States officials who managed the convention?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—And if the President does not remove them, you are going for him?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir; square, for we look upon him as the great end and means of the accomplishment of the official outrage that has been perpetrated upon us.

Interviewer—How long was it before the Convention that he went to see the President?

Mr. Pinchback—About three weeks. Interviewer—Just about the time they were setting the thing up?

Interviewer—Did it look as if he had gone to Grant as an emissary of his party and that he came back with instructions to Packard and others?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. He saw his mistake the moment he arrived. He came out in the Picayune the next day in a sort of interview, saying that he regretted that he had arrived so late; that if he had got home sooner he would have made other arrangements.

Interviewer—Didn't these Customhouse people pretend to believe that Warmoth and his friends were

Interviewer—When did he say this? Mr. Pinchback—Before the convention and since. Interviewer—The rebels look a little cross-eyed at him, don't they?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes. But they look cross-eyed at every body who don't do what they want them to do. Is Longstreet popular with colored people in Louisiana?

Mr. Pinchback—As popular as any man in the State. Interviewer—If these disturbances should result in the overthrow of Warmoth, would the Warmoth Republicans and the supporters of the State Administration be turned against the re-election of Grant to the Presidency?

Mr. Pinchback—Unquestionably they would. Interviewer—Is anybody going on to Washington to see about this matter?

Mr. Pinchback—I do now, although I refused to sign a petition for his removal some time ago. He hasn't a handful of brains and no will of his own. He doesn't know anything more about that custom-house than you do. He leaves it all to Herwig and Herwig is virtually Collector of the Port of New Orleans.

Interviewer—How long was it before the Convention that he went to see the President?

Mr. Pinchback—About three weeks. Interviewer—Just about the time they were setting the thing up?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—Didn't it look as if he had gone to Grant as an emissary of his party and that he came back with instructions to Packard and others?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. He saw his mistake the moment he arrived. He came out in the Picayune the next day in a sort of interview, saying that he regretted that he had arrived so late; that if he had got home sooner he would have made other arrangements.

Interviewer—Didn't these Customhouse people pretend to believe that Warmoth and his friends were

Interviewer—When did he say this? Mr. Pinchback—Before the convention and since. Interviewer—The rebels look a little cross-eyed at him, don't they?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes. But they look cross-eyed at every body who don't do what they want them to do. Is Longstreet popular with colored people in Louisiana?

Mr. Pinchback—As popular as any man in the State. Interviewer—If these disturbances should result in the overthrow of Warmoth, would the Warmoth Republicans and the supporters of the State Administration be turned against the re-election of Grant to the Presidency?

Mr. Pinchback—Unquestionably they would. Interviewer—Is anybody going on to Washington to see about this matter?

Mr. Pinchback—I am on my way there now to see the President. Interviewer—Do you intend to make a direct issue on the removal of the United States officials who managed the convention?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—And if the President does not remove them, you are going for him?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir; square, for we look upon him as the great end and means of the accomplishment of the official outrage that has been perpetrated upon us.

Interviewer—How long was it before the Convention that he went to see the President?

Mr. Pinchback—Unquestionably they would. Interviewer—Is anybody going on to Washington to see about this matter?

Mr. Pinchback—I am on my way there now to see the President. Interviewer—Do you intend to make a direct issue on the removal of the United States officials who managed the convention?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—And if the President does not remove them, you are going for him?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir; square, for we look upon him as the great end and means of the accomplishment of the official outrage that has been perpetrated upon us.

Interviewer—How long was it before the Convention that he went to see the President?

Mr. Pinchback—About three weeks. Interviewer—Just about the time they were setting the thing up?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—Didn't it look as if he had gone to Grant as an emissary of his party and that he came back with instructions to Packard and others?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. Interviewer—Didn't it look as if he had gone to Grant as an emissary of his party and that he came back with instructions to Packard and others?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes, sir. He saw his mistake the moment he arrived. He came out in the Picayune the next day in a sort of interview, saying that he regretted that he had arrived so late; that if he had got home sooner he would have made other arrangements.

Interviewer—Didn't these Customhouse people pretend to believe that Warmoth and his friends were

Interviewer—When did he say this? Mr. Pinchback—Before the convention and since. Interviewer—The rebels look a little cross-eyed at him, don't they?

Mr. Pinchback—Yes. But they look cross-eyed at every body who don't do what they want them to do. Is Longstreet popular with colored people in Louisiana?

Mr. Pinchback—As popular as any man in the State. Interviewer—If these disturbances should result in the overthrow of Warmoth, would the Warmoth Republicans and the supporters of the State Administration be turned against the re-election of Grant to the Presidency?

Mr. Pinchback—Unquestionably they would. Interviewer—Is anybody going on to Washington to see about this matter?