Cardinal Manning Borne to His Long Home

AMID THE TEARS OF HUNDREDS

Impressive Funeral Services Over the Remains of the Dead Priest.

A Great Procession.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The funeral of Henry Edward Manning, cardinal priest of the holy Roman church and archbishop of Westminster, who died last Thursday, took place from the oratory at Brompton. At the archiepiscopal residence at Westminster and at the oratory the body of the venerable and well-beloved prelate has lain in state since Saturday and tens of thousands of people, Catholics and Protestants, have thus been enabled to take a last look at the worn, pinched features of the distinguished priest, who had done so much for the working classes of England and whose name was respected by rich and poor, by the highest and by the lowest, irrespective of creed, from one end of England to the other.

The Service.

At 5 o'clock a. m. masses and other services for the dead were said in the oratory, where the body had been lying in state, having been removed from Westminster on Tuesday night. When the solemn mass of requiem was commenced the oratory was filled with notable personages representing the church, the state and all political parties. The queen and the prince and princess of Wales were represented by high members of their households. All the ambassadors of foreign powers were present also. The coffin reposed in front of the altar. It was enveloped in a black pall, ornamented with gold crosses, crimson cords and a fringe of bullion. Surmounting the coffin was the hat of the cardinal. The altar was draped with black, the only ornament visible being a gold cross.

The Sermon.

St. Rev. John Cuthbert Hedley, bishop of Newport and Menevia, preached the funeral sermon. He opened his remarks with a touching tribute to the late duke of Clarence and Avondale. He said that an era had closed in the history of Catholicism in England with the death of Cardinal Manning and a new one had opened. He made special reference to the cardinal's efforts to secure the Catholic education of children, and declared that the struggle was not yet over. He said that perhaps the hottest and deadliest hour of the educational battle which is raging throughout the world would soon be fought.

Horse to the Tomb.

At the conclusion of the service the clergy preceded the body to the hearse in waiting. The first coach was occupied by the cross bearer and acolytes. Then followed the clergy who preceded the hearse and following came carriages the relatives of the cardinal, the members of his household, diplomats, members of the nobility, knights of Malta, a deputation of members of the house of commons and a deputation from the Irish parliamentary party. Following these came 300 carriages containing private citizens, and after them marched a large number of workmen's societies. The dock laborers and the stevedores were represented by large delegations of the men employed in these occupations. The body was interred in Kensal Green cemetery.
