

purpose to maintain the dual character of the government in that regard and that this is a provision for state action, and that it was done on purpose; that it was done on purpose; that it was done on purpose...

State Action Shows in All Cases. It is state action, not only in the original provision of the constitution, but the same provision is carried into the twelfth amendment, showing that the convention had provided in the original constitution for state action...

ADRIAN COLLEGE REMOVAL. Zanesville, O., Will Probably Secure This Prosperous Institution.

ADRIAN, Oct. 11.—The trustees of Adrian College will be called in meeting October 18, to decide upon the removal of the college from this city. The board of trustees at the June meeting appointed a committee to go to Zanesville, O., and look into an offer made by the people of that city to secure the removal of the college...

BAY CITY GETS IT. State Sunday School Convention Will Be Held There. BAY CITY, Oct. 11.—At a meeting last night of the committee appointed by the several churches of the Bay City as an organization for the entertainment of the state Sunday school convention, it was decided to hold a meeting to be held in the First Baptist church, and all applications for hospitalities must be filed with A. E. Konec, general secretary, by Thursday, November 10...

WORLD'S FAIR DISCUSSED. Congregational Institute Meeting at Lansing—Officers Elected. LANSING, Oct. 11.—The annual meeting of the Central Michigan Congregational Institute was held at the Plymouth church today. Many clergymen were present from various parts of the state. President C. H. Beise of the forenoon gave a talk on the relation of the church to the Columbian Exposition, which was followed by a discussion. Officers were elected as follows: President, the Rev. J. R. Reitzel of Owosso; vice president, the Rev. Hendrik van Ommeren of Lansing; secretary, the Rev. C. W. Baird of Portland.

Tom by a Belt. St. Joseph, Oct. 11.—This morning about 8:30 o'clock Ferdinand Keskake, an employe at Preston & Collins planing mill, was caught in the line belt and carried some distance. Another employe seeing him sprang to his assistance and immediately threw him from the belt. As he left the belt he caught on a set screw in a revolving shaft, and before help could reach him his clothes were all torn from him and the floor from his elbow to the shoulder torn off to the bone. He was taken to the office of Dr. E. F. Orser where his injuries were attended to. It took twenty stitches to bring the wound together.

Instantly Killed. Big Rapids, Oct. 11.—Grant township was the scene of a terrible and fatal accident last evening. The ten year old daughter of ex-supervisor A. B. Knapp being almost instantly killed by a traction engine. It seems that the grandfather had just returned from a drive, when a big dog rushed by and frightened the horse, who proceeded to kick and plunge about the premises, the old gentleman keeping hold of the lines. The little girl in some way got tangled up, and received a kick on the edge, which fairly scattered the little one's brains about the premises. Death occurred in a few minutes.

Regents Controlled by Legislature. ASS ASSOCI. Oct. 11.—Judge Kinna

The first annual meeting of the Adrian Land Purchasing & Improvement company was held last evening. The old board of directors were re-elected and a fine showing made of the year. Three contracts have been made and there is sufficient money to purchase the securing of another. The warrant for the securing of lots will take place October 17. Mine Inspector Hall's annual report to the board of supervisors at Houghton, filed today, shows twenty-one fatalities during the year, six of these were due to the carelessness of miners. The total number of men employed in copper mines of Houghton county is 7,640. The fifty-eighth annual session of the synod of Michigan commenced last night at Hilldale with a sermon by the Rev. Thomas Middlemiss of Alpena, followed by the celebration of the Lord's supper and election of officers. The meetings will continue until Friday night. The soldiers' relief commission at Jackson last evening recommended the spreading of a tax of one-twentieth of a mill on the tax roll for the relief of indigent soldiers of the city. The recommendation was embodied in a resolution which was passed by the council. The county of Isle Royal has no school within its borders and is one of the counties from which no contribution was received for the world's fair. The other counties were Gogebic, Manistowick, Montmorency and Roscommon. The fruit season is rapidly drawing to a close, but so much is still being shipped as to make it impossible for the regular express train to handle the shipments and make time or connections.—Shelby Herald. The eighth annual convention of the Tenth district W. C. T. U. will be held in the Congregational church at Standish Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. James M. Darrach and George P. Cornell have closed a contract to cut and float 15,000,000 feet of pine on lands five or six miles from Howard City. A party of capitalists from Chicago and some local business men are preparing plans for a large sanitarium to be built at Muskegon this fall. Van Buren county will raise about 40,000 bushels of beans this year, and I. B. Connor of Paw Paw expects to buy and ship most of them. Fourteen Adrian students are registered at the State university. Yesterday's Base Ball. At Pittsburgh: Pittsburgh 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 3-4 9 0 Cleveland 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 2-4 5 4 Game called at end of ninth account darkness. Batteries—Terry and Mack, Carson and Zimmer. At New York: New York 1 0 7 0 1 0 0-9 2 2 Baltimore 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4-4 2 1 Game called on account of darkness. Batteries—Rusie and Hoyt, Schmidt and Johnson. At Brooklyn: Brooklyn 9 1 0 0 0 0 2-2 3 2 Boston 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0-4 7 1 Batteries—Stein and Daley, Nichols and Gazda. Boston game—Boston 4 2 2 1 0-9 7 0 Boston 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 2-4 3 3 Game called on account of darkness. Batteries—Kennedy and Dales, Strivits and Lewis. At St. Louis: St. Louis 3 0 4 1 0 0 0 0-7 17 6 Louisville 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-6 5 2 Batteries—Biology and Heinlein, Merritt and Gausen. At Cincinnati: Cincinnati 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-4 1 2 Batteries—Chamberlain, Murphy and Yagor, Luby and Kittredge. Philadelphia: Philadelphia 1 2 3 1 2 0-7 10 6 Washington 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-4 7 6 Batteries—Weyhing and Clements, Kilien and Metzger. Appreciated Afterward. Some years ago an Englishman was ascending a small and easy peak of the Alps in company with a famous Oberland guide. Part of their course lay over a snow field sinking gradually on one side, and ended sharply by a precipice on the other. The two men were walking along not far from the edge of this precipice when the Englishman, thinking that an easier path might be made by going nearer the edge, diverged a little from his companion's track. To his surprise the guide immediately caught hold of him and pulled him back with more vigor than ceremony, nearly throwing him down in the process. "Mindful and half inclined to return the compliment, the Englishman remonstrated. The guide's only answer was to point to a small crack, apparently like scores of other cracks in the icy snow, which ran for some distance parallel to the edge of the precipice and about fifteen feet from it. The traveler was not satisfied, but was too wise to spend time in dispute while a desired summit was still some distance above him. They went on their way, gained the top, and the traveler's squint was restored by a splendid view. When on the descent the scene of the morning's unpleasantness was reached, the guide pointed to the little crack in the snow, which had grown perceptibly wider. "This," he said, "marks the place where the true snow field ends. I feel certain that the ice from here to the edge is nothing but an unsupported cornice hanging over the tremendous precipice beneath. It might possibly have borne your weight in the early morning, though I don't think it would. As to what it will bear now that a powerful sun has been on it for some time—why, let us see!" With that he struck the snow on the farther side of the crack with his ax. A huge mass, twenty or thirty feet long, at once broke away and went roaring down the cliff. The Englishman shivered to think how near he had come, even on an easy mountain and in smiling weather, to going down the precipice in just such an avalanche.—Youth's Companion. Too Much of a Good Thing. A resident of Belfast, Me., went into a grocery store a short time ago, ordered ten dollars' worth of goods and laid down a silver dollar in payment thereof. The shopkeeper yelled "That isn't right" as the customer started to leave. "Oh, yes, that's all right," replied the man. "I've got permission from the judge to pay off ten cents on the dollar." He had lately settled an insolvency upon the 10 per cent. basis, and expected to continue that method indefinitely.—Exchange.

NOT A DEADLY SIN

The Requests Sent Out to Postmasters BY THE STATE COMMITTEE

Are Held to Be Not in Violation of Any Rules, But Postmasters Are Free to Act. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—The following was furnished to the press today by the secretary of the United States civil service commission: Washington, Oct. 10, 1892.—A black book purporting to have been sent by W. R. Bates, secretary at Detroit, Mich., on behalf of the republican state committee to G. B. Daniels, the postmaster at Withey, Mich., has been laid before this commission. The request is for information as to the names of the patrons of his office and present politics and as to the papers they take, together with recommendations as to what papers should be sent to them, etc. The postmaster further informed that he is expected to consult with a prominent republican of his locality as far as possible to keep his labors from becoming public. The signature is printed; the address is in writing. The committee also has been furnished with information from various sources to the effect that requests of this kind have been made by political committees, not only in Michigan but elsewhere. Services of the kind requested in the book submitted to the commission are clearly political services, and to render them is contrary to the postal regulations. With this, however, the commission has nothing to do, but it feels in duty bound to inform this postmaster and all postmasters and other public employes in Michigan of the fact that the civil service law expressly provides that no person in the public service is for that reason under any obligation to render any political service, and that he will not be removed or otherwise prejudiced for refusing to render it, while the general rules of the civil service law provides for the dismissal of any public servant, removing him or causing him to be removed on account of such refusal.

(Signed,) CHARLES LYMAN, THEO. ROBERTS, GEORGE JOHNSON, Commissioners. YOUNG REPUBLICANS. They Hold an Enthusiastic Meeting and Elect Officers. There was a large number of enthusiastic young republicans present at last night's meeting to complete the organization of a young men's republican club. The meeting was called to order by Charles W. McGill, and R. J. Cleland the temporary secretary read the minutes of the previous meetings. The report of the committee appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws was read by John S. McDonald. All persons over eighteen years of age were declared eligible to membership. The club was constituted according to the constitution as a permanent organization to belong to the state league of republican clubs. It was decided to hold the annual meeting of the club one month prior to the annual meeting of the state league. The committee on permanent organization and order of business made its report through Henry E. Chase. Messrs. Dayton, Swarthout, and Keeler were appointed tellers, and the club proceeded to the election of its officers. C. W. McGill was elected president, R. J. Cleland was elected secretary, and James M. Crosby was selected as treasurer. The president, secretary and treasurer were appointed a committee to nominate twelve vice presidents and submit the list to the club at the next meeting. Mr. McGill was called upon for a speech, and among other things said: "I am a republican, and as such I am ever ready and willing to exercise my abilities in the interest of the republican party. I believe with General Grant that the republic is a party, and I demand the continued defeat of the democratic party at every national election. The democrats claim that they must win because the young men are with them. I think the coming election will decide such a claim to be false. I want to belong to a party that is not ashamed of its past. We are marching on to victory in behalf of protected industries, an honest dollar and a free ballot. In 1860 the young men went forth to battle against the republic, state rights. Today the democratic party is fighting on the same old plank. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder and in November we will go forth to the triumphant election of Benjamin Harrison and Whitlow Reid." Elvin Swarthout, secretary, made a speech which was received with enthusiasm. The chairman and secretary were appointed a committee to prepare a program for next Tuesday's meeting, which will be held in the Lincoln club rooms at 7 p. m.

The following new members joined the club: Herbert Chapman, George Surpin, A. M. Robinson, Frank E. Bierow, Clyde J. Holmes, Glenn W. Holmes, Max Miller, E. H. Ames, Joseph Quimby, J. E. Edwards, Edgar Koeler, Benjamin F. Brinkham, W. T. Wilson, J. F. Baker, William W. Eaton, F. M. Heyman, Lewis D. Cutcheon, A. L. Boutuse, W. Frank Gitchell, Claude Irish, T. C. Burney, Harry S. Davis, E. L. Rand, Homer Northrup, Elvin Swarthout, David E. Burns, F. H. Travis. U. R. A. ELECTION. The Old Officers Re-elected to Serve for the ensuing year. The U. R. A. elected its managers and officers to transact its business. A meeting of the Union Republican association was held yesterday afternoon in the U. R. A. home and the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: Board of Managers—Messrs. Cal. Board, John Dampney, Elton Wilson, Enos Fainman, M. S. Crosby, J. M. Dunlop, A. D. Doherty, L. M. Studley, Max Gertrude Gay, Messrs. George McLain, Thomas G. Smith, Edwin Cole, D. H. Waters, E. E. Knuttila, P. W. Thomas, McKean, O. A. Parsall, Alfred Rich, James Forman, M. J. Beckey, E. J. Stimler, John Widdicombe, Constantine Merion, Dr. Hilyer, Edward Lowe, William Robinson, J. H. McKee, Jacob Kleinbank, A. Coffinbury, Dr. Shepard, E. K. Smith, William Allen Smith, E. F. Applegate, J. Hunt, J. Rosenthal, E. T. Applegate, J. Park, J. E. Hensley, Dr. Barth, H. A. Gray, J. A. S. Verrier, Mary C. Wood, Mary A. Clark, M. L. Street, M. McQueen, J. J. Fuller, D. D.

COY AND DR. RUTHERFORD AND MISS ALVORD, HONORARY MEMBERS, MEASURES G. DEANE, ESTHER POTTER AND A. B. WALTON.

The list is not yet completed as members from the Second Street M. E. church, East Street M. E. church, Trinity Episcopal church and Deiple church will be elected later. First Director—Mrs. Enos Putnam; second director Mrs. M. McQueen. Employment Committee—Mrs. Enos Putnam, Mrs. M. S. Crosby, Mrs. K. C. Luce. Committee on Tuesday work at the home—Messames McKean, John Kemp, S. H. Sherman, C. K. Gibson. Auditing Committee—Mrs. E. M. Kendall and Mrs. Wilson. Sunday Services—Messames S. F. Aspinwall, J. A. S. Verrier, George McLain, Mary Clark.

CONGREGATIONALISTS.

The Grand River Association Holds Its Semi-Annual Conference. The forty-ninth semi-annual meeting of the Grand River Association of Congregational Churches convened in the Smith Memorial church Monday evening, when the Rev. Dan F. Bradley preached the opening sermon. Yesterday's session was called to order at 8:30 a. m. by the Rev. J. T. Husted, and devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. John B. Massey of Wayland. The Rev. John Fajlor of Ada was elected moderator and John T. Miller scribe. The Rev. A. M. Hill, state evangelist, discussed the "Necessity of Evangelistic Work." The Rev. Ewing spoke of the improvement of Sunday school methods, and the Rev. James Proven of Lowell spoke of the "Need and Authority of Systematic Giving." At noon dinner was served in the parlors by the women of the church. In the afternoon the Rev. W. H. Underhill read the services, and the Women's Missionary society occupied the time of the conference for an hour, after which the Rev. Frank Moore and the Rev. T. R. McRoberts delivered addresses on the "Christian Endeavor society" and the "Social Life of the Church." Communion services closed the afternoon session. In the evening Van Wallen led a one-half hour song service, and the conference closed with talks by several prominent divines.

POSTMASTERS IN TROUBLE.

They Exchange Postage Stamps for Produce and Groceries. Catherine L. White, the postmistress at a Muskegon county rural town placed the equipments of her office in the general store of E. A. Glasford and appointed him her deputy. Complaints were made to the United States officials that the postmistress and her deputy were exchanging postage stamps for goods and in making their returns to the department counted them as sold. In the meantime the postmistress and her deputy married, but she alleged that the same disposition of stamps was continued. At the recent sitting of the grand jury an indictment was found against E. A. Glasford and Catherine L. White for making false returns as postmistress, and against Catherine L. Glasford for aiding and abetting. The grand jury returned an indictment against E. A. Glasford and his wife for aiding and abetting. The grand jury returned an indictment against E. A. Glasford and his wife for aiding and abetting. The grand jury returned an indictment against E. A. Glasford and his wife for aiding and abetting.

UNITED STATES COURT.

JUDGE SEVERENS. The United States vs. Dennis McDonald; indictment for retailing liquor; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. Lafayette Moore; indictment for mailing unlawful postal; arraigned and pleaded guilty, fined $25 and execution of sentence deferred. The United States vs. George Beninger; indictment for attempt to pass counterfeit money; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. Gustave Meeske; indictment for wholesaling malt liquor; arraigned and pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100. The United States vs. E. A. Glasford and Catherine L. White; indictment for false returns as postmistress; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. Earnest Prescott; indictment for retailing malt liquor; arraigned and pleaded guilty; sentence deferred. The United States vs. Benjamin Sears; indictment for mailing defamatory postal; arraigned and pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $30. The United States vs. Catherine L. Glasford; indictment for unlawful use of postage stamps; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. Luther J. Bennett; indictment for withholding pension money; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. John Rose; indictment for retailing liquor; arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The United States vs. Mather Murphy; indictment for wholesaling malt liquor; arraigned and pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100. The Marguerite Social Club. The Marguerite social club will give its first informal hop at Custer guard armory, on Front street, Wednesday evening, October 19. Braun's orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music. The club is one of the newly organized ones in the city, and is composed of popular young society persons. The committees for the evening are as follows: Reception—Misses J. Myrtle Barclay, Nellie Hines, Grace A. Lynch, Josephine Stevens, May S. Cum, Hattie Bixby, Edith Hawkins, Louise Schneider, Gertrude Neesh, Alice Gardner. Messrs. John Duff, Douglas Sinclair, Harry Leihar, Will Sinclair, Frank Idema, Ed Zimmerman, Ben Schneider, Will Hopkins, and Will Mathieson. The club is one of the newly organized ones in the city, and is composed of popular young society persons. The committees for the evening are as follows: Reception—Misses J. Myrtle Barclay, Nellie Hines, Grace A. Lynch, Josephine Stevens, May S. Cum, Hattie Bixby, Edith Hawkins, Louise Schneider, Gertrude Neesh, Alice Gardner. Messrs. John Duff, Douglas Sinclair, Harry Leihar, Will Sinclair, Frank Idema, Ed Zimmerman, Ben Schneider, Will Hopkins, and Will Mathieson.

GAVE A GRAND POTLATCH.

The Singular Method a Swath Indian Took of Spending $1,400. Speaking with a prominent canner a few days ago a representative of the Westminister (R. C.) Columbian inquired how the Indians were facing this year in the salmon fishing, and whether they would be rich enough to indulge in the potlatch. "They won't have much money to throw away in that direction this season," replied the canner. "Last year a great many Swathes made good wages, and potlatches were all the rage for some time afterward. They are a canny people, and it is astonishing how they do it. They are in appearance liberal and in reality in the eyes of their friends. Last year I had an Indian working for me who earned $1,400. He drew the whole of this in a jump and and laid it out in eight muskets, a dozen boxes of crackers and the balance—about $1,300—in blankets. Then the noble red man called all the Indians within reach together and announced his intention of giving a grand potlatch. The blankets were spread out in a 2-acre field, with the crackers on the outside for his friends to munch on and the muskets in the center. When the appointed time arrived to begin the ceremonies the Indian waded through the sea of blankets to where the muskets lay. Here he climbed on a box and began a long oration which lasted over an hour, at the end of which time he picked up the blankets one by one and smashed them over the box, signifying that all enmity between the tribes would no longer be needed. Then he gave the signal that the potlatch had commenced, and the Indian women sailed in and packed away not only one pair of blankets, but as many as they could carry, and in a few minutes there was not even a single blanket left for the use of the generous contributor. This grand give away of course made the Swath very popular, and a few days after he was made sachief of his tribe. A few weeks later this same Indian came to me and broke and got a sack of flour on credit. "Is the potlatch common among the ordinary run of Indians?" asked the newspaper man. "As a rule the head men of the tribe do this sort of thing," replied the salmon packer, "but once in a while an ambitious young Swath tries to make a name for himself. Last fall a young fellow who had made a little money fishing for me came into the office and got $150 in silver. With this he climbed on the top of a shack, and after addressing the multitude for an hour and a half scattered every cent of the money among the people below. This young Indian is looked upon as a coming man, and by the time he has squandered the earnings of half a dozen seasons' fishing he will be made a chief. But fish are few and there won't be many potlatches this year," concluded the canner man.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE ARGENTINE.

The constitution of the Argentine Republic is in its principal features identical with that of the United States. Nevertheless there are some differences worthy of note. The president is elected in precisely the same manner as in the United States, but cannot be re-elected, and his term of office is six years. He has more power than the president of the United States, as far as making appointments is concerned, since he only asks the advice and consent of the senate to appoint diplomatic ministers, judges and officers of the army and navy above the rank of colonel. He fills all other offices at his own discretion, but all his decrees, proclamations, etc., must be countersigned by a cabinet minister or else are valueless. Thus the constitution makes the cabinet ministers responsible for all the acts of the president. The members of the cabinet can answer questions and take part in the debates of the house and the senate, although they are not members of either body, nor does an adverse vote on any measure of the government carry with it a change in the cabinet, as is the case in France and England and is becoming the custom in China. The powers of the Argentine congress are similar to those vested in the congress of the United States, though somewhat greater. The congress has the power to legislate for all the provinces, dictating codes to be applied in all of them, thus securing uniformity of legislation. The provinces reserve the right to elect their own judges, as well as the other officials that their local constitution demands. All federal and provincial judges are appointed for life, and cannot be removed unless they are impeached and condemned.—New England Magazine.

A POOR AUTHORITY.

Little Boy (writing a letter)—Is trolley spelled with an e or without. Father (anxious to inculcate a good habit)—Look in Webster. Little Boy—Huh! What does Webster know about it? He died before trolleys were invented.—Good News.

SPECIAL MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the members of the Grand Rapids board of trade will be held at the office of the board Thursday, November 10, next, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon for the purpose of amending the constitution so that it will read as follows: The object of this association shall be to promote integrity and good faith, just and equitable principles of business, to discover and correct abuses; to establish and maintain uniformity in commercial usages; to prevent or adjust controversies and misunderstandings which may arise between persons engaged in trade; to encourage immigration; to secure the location of all kinds of manufacturing interests; to solicit the investment of local and foreign capital, and generally to foster, protect and advance the commercial, mercantile, manufacturing, real estate and municipal interests of the city and its surroundings, especially through the establishment of a permanent bureau or office, and use all legitimate means to make known in various ways the advantages of Grand Rapids as a manufacturing center and a place of residence. The affairs of this association shall be managed by a board of forty-five (45) directors, to be chosen for each period of service and in such manner as the by-laws shall provide. GEORGE G. BRINGS, President. H. D. C. VAN ASSKE, Secretary.

A DOBING THOMAS

He Went to Headquarters and Had a Plain Statement. AN INTERESTING CONVERSATION I. Others May Feel the Same Doubt, Hence the Interview Is Published—Why the Thing Can Be Done.

A gentleman entered the Copeland Medical Institute, corner of Sheldon and East Fulton streets, a few days ago and, addressing Dr. Graham, said: "Doctor, do I understand your advertisement right when I am to believe from what you say that you charge only $5 a month for treating all diseases?" "You do." "And furnish all medicines free?" "Yes, sir." "Well, that is rather a small fee, isn't it?" "We think it is." "What do you mean by a month's treatment?" "We mean just what we say. If you take a month's treatment with us for any complaint, you will be entitled to consultation, examination, treatment and medicines on the payment of $5." "Do I come more than once a month?" "You come as often as your case will require attention. All of our patients visit us twice a week, many of them often more than that, and some come every day, as the exigencies of their case require." "Now, that's what I want to get at. Do you mean to say that if I place myself under your treatment I can come to you as often as I like?" "I do." "And there is absolutely no charge for medicines?" "None." "Well,—and here the gentleman paused for a moment, then smiled. "Are your medicines costly?" "Our drugs are the purest and best that we can buy. The visitor sat down for a moment and after some reflection, said: "You will pardon me, doctor, if I observe that I don't understand how you can pay for advertising in the papers, pay the rent of a large building like this, furnish so much medicine and get any pay for your services when you charge only $5 a month for each patient and furnish medicines free?" "This was a very natural doubt and it is possible that many who contemplate a similar treatment at the Copeland Medical Institute find themselves entertaining this same doubt. Dr. Copeland and Graham operate on the principle that governs the transactions of business men on a large scale. There is a mercantile expression which covers the point exactly. It is this: "Large sales and small profits." Many people suspect that there is something wrong about a medical practice which is conducted on a basis of a $5 fee per month from each patient. Is there anything wrong about it? There is not. THE WRONG LIES IN CHARGING MORE THAN THAT AMOUNT FOR MEDICAL SERVICE. Dr. Copeland and Graham are the only physicians in this city whose rate of treatment is so low as to be within the reach of everybody. There are physicians in this city who treat advertising, in there anything fairer or more reasonable than this offer?"

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVE.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVE. But Five Dollars for all Diseases. Now, putting aside your prejudices about advertising, is there anything fairer or more reasonable than this offer? A VETERAN'S STORY. Interesting Narrative Related by an Old Veteran. Two old soldiers, clad in the handsome uniform of the U. S. A., were sitting in a fountain "kiosk" near the Copeland Medical Institute on Sunday. One of them had lost an arm, and as he spoke he pointed to the stump. They had just returned from the Spanish campaign, and beneath the arched figure of the handsome monument, which is such a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, were inscribed in reminiscence of the War of the Rebellion: "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figures beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He has a distinctive piece of decoration in Grand Rapids, and it is a pleasure to see him." "I never see a veteran of the late war," said a gentleman who was standing with a friend, as the latter called his attention to the figure beneath the monument, "that I do not feel it is a privilege to meet him. He