

TO HER LAST ABODE

The Funeral of Mrs. Harrison to be Held Thursday

IN THE CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS

Extreme Simplicity Will Mark Both Services—Messages of Condolence from all Parts of the World.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—No flag floats over the White House today for the wife of the president is dead. By its absence were the lowly who cannot read and who since childhood have, through every day, through sunshine and storm, through Sundays, holidays, death days and all, seen the nation's emblem spread to the breeze, told that the end had come. Neither on any of the public buildings is the emblem to be seen today; such is the president's wish. The big gates of the grounds are guarded by the police and none but the immediate friends of the family and the correspondents may pass. A quietness most unusual breathes over all. The footfalls of the officers on the stone flagging can scarcely be heard. They talk in subdued tones and in whispers, bid the street gamins who gather at the gate to move. The big black-coated cicerone at the door opens it quietly and bows. There is no smile of welcome on his face today, and his assistants, with bowed heads, move about on tiptoe as if fearful of disturbing the dead. When the door closes on the low hum of the outside world, upon the inside finds himself in the silence of a tomb. Occasionally a carriage rolls up the broad asphalt drive and its low rumble penetrates the thick walls of the house. Generally the carriage carries some friend to hand a bent card to the attendant and then drives away. If the friend be intimate he comes into the house and is shown into the bedroom.

Crape on the Door.

At 11 o'clock a broad ribbon and crape, with tucked ends, was tied in a bow on the bell pull of the front door of the mansion. The folds fell to the stone doorstep. This was the only sign, aside from the absence of the flag emblem, of the presence of the great mystery within. The body will not be removed to the east room until late this afternoon.

Mrs. Harrison's body lay undisturbed until 10 o'clock this morning, when Undertaker W. E. Spence and assistants took charge and prepared it for examination by Dr. Gardner. The casket selected for Mrs. Harrison's interment is of cedar covered with black cloth, with oxidized silver bars along the sides and across the ends. On its top will be a silver plate bearing the inscription:

CAROLINE SCOTT HARRISON, Wife of Benjamin Harrison.

and the date of Mrs. Harrison's death. The services will be private and very simple. No invitations have been issued. In the presence of the president, but provision will be made as far as possible to enable the relatives and personal friends of the president and Mrs. Harrison to be present.

Shows the Aerial Strain.

The president shows more vividly than all the rest the effects of the long strain. His face is much thinner and his eyes are pale, and this morning was almost haggard. He feels his loss most keenly and his appearance shows how great it is. He has the sympathy of the world in this, his hour of trial. From all quarters messages of sympathy and condolence have been coming since early morning over the little telegraph instrument in Assistant Private Secretary Pruden's office. A few are shown to the president, but he knows of them all and the knowledge of the warm and generous feeling of his fellow men strengthens him.

Such members of the cabinet as are in Washington and those who will be able to reach here before Thursday will act as honorary pall bearers at the funeral. Chief Justice Fuller will also be an honorary pallbearer. The pallbearers who will officiate at Indianapolis have been selected. They are Dr. E. K. Allen, General Lee Wallace of Crawfordville, John R. Elam, Hugh Hanna, W. E. Niblack, John R. Elam and T. F. Haughey.

The active pall bearers in this city will be the attendants at the White House, whose sorrow over the death of Mrs. Harrison is sincere and deep. They have lost a friend who took an active personal interest in the welfare of each.

Expressions of Sympathy.

A great number of telegrams conveying messages of sympathy and sorrow have been received at the White house from all parts of the country. Few have yet been brought to the notice of the president. One of the first came from Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland. Cardinal Gibbons sent this message from Chicago: To President Harrison, Washington, D. C.: The Pope, through Cardinal Rampolla, sends you heartfelt condolence in your present affliction.

Queen Victoria.

Queen Victoria, always among the first to extend sympathy to the bereaved, sent from her Highland castle the following cable message:

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—General Harrison, President of the United States, Washington, D. C. I have heard with the deepest regret of your sad loss and sincerely sympathize with you in your grief. Victoria R. I.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

Simple Services in Accordance With the Wishes of Mrs. Harrison.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—At the request of Dr. Hagan the Rev. Dr. Barstow of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church will assist in the services at the White House Thursday morning. Dr. Barstow was pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, Indianapolis, previous to coming to Washington and neighbor of the president's family.

At the funeral of the wife and daughter of Secretary Tracy in the White House, Mrs. Harrison was much impressed by the singing of Cardinal Newman's hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," by the choir of St. John's church and often spoke of it. The choir will be present at the services and repeat the hymn. Though, as already stated, it is the president's wish that there shall be no public or official display in connection with the death of Mrs. Harrison and the funeral services both here and at Indianapolis will be as simple as the rites of the Presbyterian church will permit. There are certain ceremonial observances inseparable from the event.

All the ministers of foreign powers in this city will call personally on the secretary of state to express condolences, and will subsequently file their wreaths with the personation for the testimony of their regret. The foreign secretary of friendly powers will in like manner convey their sympathies to our ministers and representatives abroad.

Official Families in Mourning.

The vice president and Mrs. Morton, and the members of the cabinet and their wives being the official family of the president will, it is understood, go into mourning and will therefore keep from all participation in social events for one month. Following the precedent established in the death of Mrs. Tyler, the executive departments in Washington will probably be closed on the day of the funeral ceremonies here.

President Harrison's brother, John Scott Harrison of Kansas City will reach Washington on Thursday morning and accompany the train to Indianapolis after the services here. Carter E. Harrison of Tennessee and brother will join the party at Indianapolis. Vice President Morton will be present at the services in this city.

In the course of the afternoon the cards of Anabel Criss, Chinese charge to the legation, Arthur Bruce, Miss Pennington, R. Man Major, secretary of the Nicaragua legation; Jose E. M. Yngvesson of the Peruvian legation, Mr. Griff, the Norwegian minister, and Assistant Attorney General Tyler of the justice department, were left at the door.

John McLean sent a large bunch of magnificent chrysanthemums (Mrs. Harrison's flower) and the students of Woodward Institute, with whose principal, Mr. Gabel, Mrs. Harrison was connected in several historical and social organizations, sent a beautiful wreath of roses. Some unknown friend sent an urn of purple flowers.

HILL HAS HIS SAY

Dave B. in His Great Act of Jollying the Tammany Tiger.

MAKING THE BEAST PURR

Pure Politics and Tammany are Synonyms, so the Country Thinks—Uses Taffy With a Brush.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Senator Dave B. Hill addressed the Tammany Braves tonight and received an ovation. Following is a synopsis of his speech.

"This occasion is the first time I have had the honor of addressing the democracy of New York in this honored temple of democracy. I feel as though I am among friends tonight, friends, many of them personal as well as political, the friends of good government, the friends of civil liberty, the friends of equal rights, of equal taxation, of liberal laws, in a word the friends of true, unadulterated and aggressive democracy.

"I am not unmindful of the fact that during my entire service of chief executive of the state, any official relations with the democrats of Tammany hall were of the most pleasant character and cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact that they were among my staunchest supporters during all that period from the memorable campaign of 1885 to the last occasion, when the democracy of the Empire state honored me with their confidence at Albany and Chicago. Today the great reliance of intelligent political observers for the success of our national candidates in this state, is upon the immense majority which is expected to be rolled up in this election by the democrats of the magnificent organization of Tammany hall, which in recent years has known no such word as defeat, and to which all eyes are now turned, and upon which all hopes are centered. It is clear that the way to win local and state elections, in politics as in everything else. Nothing succeeds like success.

David's Great Act.

"Those who, because of personal disappointment or because candidates of their choice have not been nominated, would encourage the temporary defeat of their party usually live to regret their action and to realize how difficult it is for that party to regain the ground that has been unwisely and foolishly lost. I would endeavor by every honorable means to encourage the democratic party and make it invincible in the city, state and nation. I would not build up a personal party, but the democratic party. I would seek victory not for a day, but for a decade. I would make it possible to elect the most democratic candidates who represent the democratic ideas. The methods of party management have made your organization effective, vigorous, enthusiastic and invincible; in short, they have made New York city the very Gibraltar of the party in the country.

The issues between the two parties upon the tariff question was never more sharply defined. No one ought to be deceived as to the attitude which they respectively assume. Both believe in tariff sufficient to raise the national revenues necessary for the support for the government."

The Voice of the Street.

The democratic party there stops, and declares that no other or larger tariff should be imposed than may be required for such purpose, while the republican party, on the other hand, states that it is the right and duty of the government to impose such duties as may be deemed necessary to prevent competition with domestic industries, even to the extent of desired, of absolute prohibition to protect the country against the methods or means, by which they use the power of taxation for private purposes, the system of protection of the constitution that Congress has added to the tariff, if not the letter, of the federal legislation.

The fact that there is nowhere to be found in the legislation any express provision giving congress power to protect private industries by taxation at the expense of the whole people, cannot be lightly dismissed. In my opinion, its omission is a matter of the greatest significance.

In the convention of 1877, which framed the federal constitution, a proposition was made that congress be given the power to protect manufacturers by commercial regulations, and it was rejected. This is evidence from which it may be fairly argued that it was not the intention of the framers of the constitution that congress should be vested with the power to add private industries at the expense of the people.

Juggles With History.

It should not be forgotten that there had been a formidable opposition to the adoption of original legislation and that a majority of states, in concurring in their ratification, series of amendments intended to circumscribe the power granted to the federal government and designed as safeguards against the dangers apprehended from the power granted in the original legislation, which were regarded as too extensive or not safely defined. The amendment in question was one of the most important of these and all the amendments taken together constitute the most valuable portion of the legislation.

"It is true that tariff bills—called and designed as 'protective measures'—have since been passed at various periods of our history, but in none of them have their authors dared to insert any preamble, proposition or statement from which might appear that protection was the sole object and direct purpose of them. There has always been a studied effort by our opponents to avoid the precise question at issue. There can be little doubt that a protective measure, pure and simple, could not stand the test of judicial review, even with the supreme court of the United States as it is at present constituted.

"The democratic party believes, and has always believed, that republican protection is not to be expounded by its advocates and exemplified in the details of its measures although artfully concealed from their face, to be in violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the legislation just now enacted."

McKinley at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Major William

McKinley, accompanied by R. C. Kerns, Col. W. F. Scourie and Chairman J. H. Botwell and party arrived early this evening on a Missouri Pacific special train from Sedalia. At the depot the Commercial Men's Republican club and the members of the state committee were in waiting and escorted the party to the Lindell hotel.

After supper there was a procession through the illuminated streets and then the great exponent of a high protective tariff addressed a large and enthusiastic crowd in Music hall. A number of prominent republicans from different parts of the state attended the meeting.

Spain Will Not Allow the Pope to Gain Temporal Sway.

MADRID, Oct. 25.—The Marquis of Boglio, Italian ambassador, protested a short time ago against the speeches made at the recent congress of Spanish Catholics, in favor of restoring the temporal power of the pope, and against the projected organization in Spain of a society to that end. The society he said would be a direct affront to the Italian government. To this protest the Duke of Tetan, minister of foreign affairs, replied that the government could not act in the matter of the discussion in the Catholic congress of the law of Spain permitted freedom of speech. The society in question, however, would not be tolerated as it would be illegal.

Mexican Soldiers Unable to Cope With the Yaqui Indians.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., Oct. 25.—A courier arrived here this morning from Saltilva, a small village in the heart of the Sierra Madre mountains, bringing a message from General Sixto Marquez, who left here ten days ago with 500 infantry to quell a disturbance among the Yaqui Indians near Saltilva. The message called for reinforcements, stating that several hundred Indians are on the warpath and are massacring the unprotected settlers. He found his 500 men insufficient to cope with the savages, and it is an engagement with a band of them last Thursday the government troops were repulsed with a loss of ten men. The Yaqui Indians have been restless and discontented ever since their patron saint, Teresa Urrea, was exiled by order of a joint session and make a final digest of all the work that comes before the convention will begin Friday morning. BRITAIN, Oct. 25.—The switchmen of the country are preparing for a monster strike next May, expecting to cripple the world's fair business of the railroads and force them to concede the demands of employes. It will be a strike the like of which has never been seen, and which will extend all over the country.

"The railroad will be making enormous profits. The people will not let the world's fair injured, and a clamor will arise which will force the roads to a settlement. The plans are all made for a giant uprising, and the demands this fall are to test the attitude of the railroads towards us.
