

SHOT IN THE BRAIN

Sad Accident to a Thirteen-Year-Old Boy.

HE PLAYED WITH A REVOLVER

It Was Loaded and the Usual Disastrous Results Followed—He Now Lingers Near Death's Door.

Leonard Van Blosis, a 13-year-old boy residing at No. 31 Kellogg street, accidentally shot himself in the head yesterday afternoon, and now lies dying at the U. S. A. hospital.

Yesterday afternoon the injured boy and George Hodges were playing on the street and finally went into the residence of Hodges father, No. 13 Holbrook street. Young Hodges left Van Blosis in the house and went out on the street, where he began playing with Mac Rutherford and the two Ford boys. The last time the boys saw Van Blosis he was looking through the window at them.

Hearing a pistol report some time later the boys went to the house, where they found Leonard lying in a pool of blood on the floor of the sitting room. They immediately informed police headquarters, and Dr. Prossy and Dr. De Vore and Coroner Penwarden were notified.

On advice of the physicians and by the consent of the boy's mother, he was taken to the U. S. A. home in the ambulance, where the doctors searched for the ball. It was found to have entered the left temple, and passing directly through the skull between the occipital and parietal bones and was lodged in a clot of blood under the scalp.

It is supposed that on being left alone young Van Blosis looked about the house, and finding a revolver in a bureau drawer, proceeded to examine it and in doing so shot himself.

Furniture Changes.

There seems to be a general shaking up of the local furniture commission houses. Murray & Sammons dissolved some time ago, J. N. Murray continuing the business. Knapp & Shattuck have dissolved. Now it is announced that Klingman, Lambert & Brower will break up after January 1. Klingman & Lambert will continue the business. John Brower, who is recognized as one of the most brilliant and original furniture designers in the country, will devote his time especially to that branch of work after New Year's.

Snow in the North.

"One inch at Petoskey, four inches at Boyne Falls, eight inches at Elmira, six inches at Aiba, three inches at Manacelon and still snowing," was the chilly message that Superintendent Stimpson of the G. R. & I. received yesterday. Then Mr. Stimpson went out and greased the snow plow and instructed the office boy to obtain a complete list of all employees of the road heard to ask if this is "cold enough for you."

Yesterday Morning's Fire.

The alarm of fire from box No. 224 at 10:42 yesterday morning was caused by the burning of a dwelling house at No. 375 Jefferson avenue, owned and occupied by Jacob Haan as a dwelling house and carpet weaving establishment. The fire, which was caused by a defective flue, damaged the house about $75 worth and the furniture to the extent of $150. The insurance amounts to $100.

Fond Memory's Tribute.

The local lodge of Elks is preparing for memorial day exercises wherein the memories of departed brothers are freshened and their virtues inscribed upon the tablets of loving memory. Last year the ceremonies were held in Powers' opera house. This year the day will be observed the second Sunday in December at the Elks' hall on Ionia street.

Light Campaign Expense.

William F. Tea, in compliance with the law, yesterday filed with the county clerk his statement of expense connected with his canvass as a candidate for representative in the state legislature. He states that the amount of money expended by him was $2.88.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

In the Coming Legislature of Michigan.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATORS TALK

Of Matters Likely to Come Before Them This Winter—At S. White's Idea of the Liquor Men's Claims.

"I'm not in a position to take any coming legislation," said Arthur S. White yesterday. "As Phil Wachel says all we democrats can do is to advise our feet on the desks and vote for extra-ordinary appropriations so as to put the majority in a hole. You perhaps know that Edward Taggart headed an organized movement to curtail the jurisdiction of the superior court. They tried to work it two years ago but failed. They will no doubt try it again now that the legislature is republican. If you would see Mr. Taggart he would be able to tell you all about what they will ask for. I presume all local measures will be entrusted to Tatum and Anderson, as they have been in the council and will be with the majority. Mayor Stuart will recommend to the council some measures that he thinks should be enacted. There is a committee on charter amendments to which, I suppose all such suggestions will be referred.

I presume the liquor men will ask for more favorable legislation, but what can they hope from a republican legislature? The last time they tackled a republican legislature they spent $10,000 and got the most rigid restriction bill ever enacted. It was knocked out by a democratic supreme court. The liquor men doubt in so many ways that they can do, but they will probably get left."

The liquor men will ask for uniform licenses for liquor and beer. The saloon men think the men who take out nothing but a beer license sell as much whiskey as the men who pay $200 extra for a whiskey license. They will also ask that druggists take out a whiskey license, as they believe the druggists sell as much whiskey as the saloonists.

They wish a uniform closing law for the whole state, in some towns the saloons close at 9 o'clock. In Detroit they pull down the blinds and run all night. They wish to keep open on Christmas, New Year, Fourth of July and on all holidays except Thanksgiving and on Sundays.

Senator E. C. Howard was seen in his office and was asked what would be done with some of the political bills passed by the last legislature. "We will have a good majority in both houses," said Mr. Barnard, "and we will kill some of those acts inside the first two weeks, and have our own acts go into immediate effect. I see the supreme court has knocked out my gravel road act. One of the first matters to receive attention will be a bill to knock out these toll roads. There will be no Senator Wisner to fix up some of the bills which are invalid. I submitted my bill to some of the best lawyers in this city, and they pronounced it perfectly constitutional. The bill went to the senate judiciary committee, of which Wisner was chairman, and he caused to be tacked to the bill the very clause which the court pronounced unconstitutional."

"What about the superior court bill? Do you know what that bill was? Well, it was a bill providing that when a non-resident of Grand Rapids sues the city or a city officer he should have the right to make it transferred to the circuit court. That was just and all right. What show has an outsider in that court with the jury made up of residents of the city. Of course, Burlington and Pyle were scared, supposing it was just a starter to do away with the superior court and they hustled around and stirred up a big fuss. If I had known how much feeling would be stirred up I would not have had anything to do with it, though I think it was a just measure. Aside from these points I do not know what I shall be most interested in this winter."

Mayor Stuart was asked what he would recommend in the way of local legislation and said: "I have not yet formulated anything, but in my term as mayor I have seen a number of things which might be improved. I think I shall soon get my committee together and get things in shape, so that our bills may get to the house before the day of adjournment. There are many little things on which we need legislation. One thing occurs to me now. I would favor some compulsory checks on the treasurer of this city. The treasurer handles too much money to submit his books to a committee of the council for examination.

There should be an expert to look over his books. Under the present system I think the treasurer might take many thousand dollars and not be detected. That is but one thing, but there are many which should and will receive attention."
