Fred C. Beard's Residence Burglarized Sunday Night ENTERED THROUGH A WINDOW

The Thieves Took $70 Worth of Valuables and Missed Papers Worth $15,000—Another Burglary.

The residence of Fred C. Beard, secretary of the Grand Rapids Woolper, Grader & Parfiter company, at No. 12 Morrison street, was burglarized early Sunday evening in the absence of Mr. Beard and wife, who were at Big Rapids, they having been called there Friday afternoon to attend the funeral of a brother.

The fact of the burglary was first discovered yesterday morning by William Eastock, who lives next door. Noticing that the back door was open and knowing of the absence of Mr. Beard's family, he went over to the house. Upon entering he found the gas burning in one of the jets. This excited his suspicious mind more and he began to investigate the premises. He found the carpet in the parlor strewn with papers and envelopes and the secretary was open and had been relieved of its contents, and the desk contained a pile of papers thrown about in a promiscuous manner. Mr. Beard's young son, who was sleeping in the room, had been awakened by the noise and he arrived home after the burglary had been discovered, to get ready for school. He immediately telegraphed the occurrence to his parents and they returned at 5 o'clock last evening.

West Through the House. It was found that the burglars had made a thorough search of the house, leaving nothing unturned. They went upstairs and opened the drawers of three dressers. The contents were scattered over the floor and the bed clothing and mattresses were turned back in their search for valuables. Mr. Beard was considerably frightened when he received the message, as he had notes, certificates of deposit and other valuable papers to the amount of $15,000 in the secretary. The thieves overlooked them all, however, and Mr. Beard found them in the pile of scattered papers. The valuable papers were in several small unsealed envelopes which had been put into a larger one. The large envelope was torn open and its contents thrown on the floor, apparently without having been examined. A box containing a coin collection to the amount of $3, two revolvers, a quantity of jewelry, consisting of bracelets, neck chains and rings and a coat and vest, aggregating in value about $70, comprised the plunder of the thieves so far as discovered. A large quantity of silverware was in the house at the time, but it was not disturbed.

It was found that the burglars gained entrance to the house through a back window by having pried the window up with some implement, breaking the spring lock. They evidently lit the gas after entering the house and forgot to turn it off, and when they left they unlocked a back door with the key which was left in it on the inside.

Another Burglary. The residence of Cornelius Verburg at No. 212 Jefferson avenue was also entered Sunday night between the hours of 7 and 8 while the family was absent at church. A young man who is known by the family stepped out for an hour, and when he returned found that some one had been in the house. A large heavy chest lay on the floor, and everything was in a disordered condition. Nothing was missed at Verburg's but a pair of pants belonging to the boarder.

The matter was referred to the police department and detectives were put at work on the case. It is suspected that the work of both burglaries was done by the same persons, and that the chest found in Verburg's house is the one used to effect an entrance into Beard's. The work is thought to be the adventure of unskilled burglars, and the perpetrators will probably be caught by the detectives, as the officers took possession of the chest found in Verburg's house.

GAMBLERS IN SLOVER. The jury disagreed on the trial of Charters.

The gang of men arrested in Ed Chinick's gambling room on Monroe street were arraigned in police court yesterday. They all pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. It was decided to take one case and make a test case of it. A. G. Charters was chosen as the prisoner who should be tried and a jury struck to try him at 2 o'clock. It was nearly 4 o'clock before the jury was secured, owing to the large number of challenges made.

Sergeant McCarthy swore he was at Chinick's place three times on the night of the arrest. He visited the place at 8:30 in company with Officer Duggs. At 9:30 he went back alone and saw A. G. Charters enter the room. He heard voices in the rooms and heard poker chips rattling on the tables. At 10:30 he returned with officers and demanded admission. As he spoke he heard the persons within raise the shutters over the doors and pushing down two or three doors to get to the gambling room. He there found Ed Chinick and the gambling layout. Chinick was in the room alone. The respondent was in a room further to the north where the others who were arrested. He had never been in the back room before, but he had been in the front room facing Monroe street about three months ago, and was acquainted with the premises. He did not see Charters gambling. He did not see him at the tables. The lights were extinguished when they demanded admission. There was a button concealed beneath a rug in the hall which rang a bell in the gambling room to warn the gamblers when anyone approached it. The gambling paraphernalia was brought into the court room and were identified as the goods found in the rooms. The other officers sworn on the part of the prosecution were Duggs, Mosby, Malley and Peck. They all corroborated the testimony of Sergeant McCarthy. Charters made no attempt to prove his innocence. He depended on the fact that he was not seen gambling and that he was not found in the room with Chinick and the poker layout. The officers swore that the whole gang tried to escape, and that when the lights were turned on they were crouched in corners, and one Bob Fitchell had crawled under an ice chest or some other piece of furniture and his feet were sticking out so that the officers had no trouble in hauling him out. Judge Haggerty made a very careful charge to the jury, which retired at 6 o'clock, and after being out till 7:30 announced a disagreement. Charters has been in the city about three years, and during that time he has done nothing but deal at faro tables in the gambling houses of the city.

Minor Court Notes. Charzetta Bradford, who has sued for a divorce from Jonathan Bradford, asked the privilege of substituting attorneys in the circuit court yesterday and was refused.

The will of Jennie M. Larimer was admitted to probate yesterday. John Larimer and C. B. Chapman were appointed executors.

The will of Julia A. Lilly was admitted to probate and Julius A. Lilly was appointed executor.

The will of Abraham Hershberger was admitted to probate yesterday. Arthur Kromer and Charles F. Root filed their bonds in probate court yesterday as the administrators of the estate of David Manby. Mr. Manby died suddenly in January in a flag-house on the D., G. H. & M. railroad.

John Scott and Alin Scott were appointed administrators of the estate of Sally Ann Dibble.

The will of Catherine Walsh was admitted to probate yesterday.

L. L. Chapman, arrested by A. M. Maris for disposing of rented goods, was allowed to go in police court on paying for the goods and paying the costs.

Ralph Vanlyke, a boy, charged with distributing a rioting, was fined $5 in police court yesterday.

William Bellendridge, charged with simple larceny, was let off on suspended sentence yesterday.

In the matter of the estate of William Walker, Benton W. Lewis was appointed administrator in probate court yesterday.

Police Court. JUDGE HAGGERTY. Ed Chinick, keeping a gambling place; and John Hall, G. Edwin Ellis, Dungan, L. Butterworth, Robert Fitchell, P. Dalrymple, A. G. Dykehouse, L. Tetford, A. G. Charters, P. B. Brown, and F. A. Horcall, resorting to gambling rooms; pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury. William Bellendridge, larceny; sentence suspended. Ralph Van Dyke, disturbing a meeting; paid $5. L. L. Chapman, disposing of leased goods; dismissed on paying claim and costs. P. S. Griffin, embezzlement; adjourned to February 16.

Might Be Less Slippery. The serious fall on a Monroe street sidewalk sustained by Mrs. James Campbell of Plainfield avenue, last Saturday night, has given rise to considerable talk as to how sidewalks may be rendered less slippery. It is suggested that the surface of the concrete walks might be roughed in some way so that a tolerably firm foothold may be assured.

Contagious Diseases. Reve Walker, No. 314 Jefferson avenue, diphtheria; Lillian Manner, No. 239 Sheldon street, scarlet fever; Ale Dykstra, Jennette street, typhoid fever; Anna Dykstra, same.
