

THEY BELONG TO ALL

Children Who Are Orphans Or Often Worse.

HOW THEY ARE CARED FOR

The Committee on Poor Visits the Children's Home—An Appreciation for Past Recommendations.

If any persons who attended church yesterday left with a feeling that the services did not suit them and that the services had not made them better it would not be out of place to tell them where to go next Sunday morning to receive a sermon which will touch the tenderest feelings of the heart and make them feel there is a practical as well as a theoretical way of expressing the religious feelings of the human soul.

In this place no prayers are said but prayers of thankfulness. No songs are sung but songs of human kindness. At the breakfast table thirty-three pairs of little hands are folded and thirty-three little mouths say "We are thankful for all we have." That is all. There is no asking for other blessings than those set before them, but a spirit of thankfulness for what they have is engendered.

History of One of Them.

The histories of some of the little inmates is sad enough to bring tears to the eyes of anybody that hears it. One little boy who was secured a home in the country, has this story. A workman was carrying down stockings when a faint cry attracted his attention. He followed the sound and found a little boy in rags and dirt lying in the corner of a yard stiff with cold and nearly unconscious. The child was carried to a drug store near by, and when he had recovered enough to talk, said his father had come home drunk the night before and whipped him and threw him out the door. He was taken to the Children's home and, under the kind influence of the matron and attendants, he developed into a perfect little gentleman within a very few weeks. He had never received a kind word in his life and the parents cared so little for him that no inquiry was made by them as to what had become of him. It was months before they knew where he was. Left with his parents and supported by the city poor department, the boy would have doubtless developed into a vicious character.

A little girl not more than a month old was left by her mother with a woman in the city. The mother never returned for her child and it was taken to the home. A kind family has now adopted the little girl and she will be reared under good influences.

In the home are thirty-three children who would all be city charges were it not for it. Left to be cared for in the usual way it would cost the city $1 per week to support them, if there, and those who would be left among the most vicious surroundings. If fed, if clothed, if washed, if clean, trained in the kindergarten, sent to school and given the best training.

Should Be Hopeful.

Last Monday the board of managers asked the city council to give $40 per month toward buying fuel for the home. It was referred to the committee on poor and yesterday morning Alderman Dunbar and Alderman Gibson visited the home to see what is needed. They found the place very economically conducted. There is a matron in charge; a man to attend to the boilers and to do the heavy work; an attendant who sees to dressing and undressing the children at night and in the morning, and cleans their rooms during the day; a laundry woman who does all the washing and ironing for the children and the help. Certainly as far as help is concerned the management is economical. The committee was favorably impressed and will report tonight, setting forth in full what they found and recommending that the city pay what is asked. The home is supported entirely by charity and differs from many so-called charitable concerns in the fact that nobody has to go away for costs before the little ones are taken in. It certainly has taken a burden from the city poor department and is caring for the children much better than they could be cared for in any other way.

CAUTION TO HORSES.

Messrs. Gill and Bragg Are Not Absentely in It.

It now appears that Frank Gill will not have a highway for reclamation by the democrats for a place on the board of review after all. It will be remembered that Gill and City Marshal Bragg were the chief pushers in the movement but fell by which the democratic representative convention endorsed Tea and Burrows, the people's party candidates. Middle of the road democrats now, more than ever, denounce the effects of that class of politicians who were and are so anxious to belong to both parties for personal reasons. The question of religious differences, which resulted in making the defeat of Tea and Burrows certain, have not been forgotten either and Gill and Bragg are held largely responsible for having nominated fusion candidates with alliances attached to their necks.

Personal.

Anna D. Greene of No. 109 Charles street, is recovering from a long and serious illness. He is now able to walk about his room.

Charles J. Van Haltern, a clerk in the secretary of state's office at Lansing, spent Sunday with his friends in this city.

C. E. Hudson left Saturday for Colorado Springs to meet his wife, who is there for her health.

Miss Doley Putnam will leave this morning for Chicago for a six weeks visit with friends.

C. E. Anderson has gone to Colorado Springs to make that city his home.

Mrs. Fred H. Hall was reported as very much better and recovering.

Mrs. James Pennington is visiting in Chicago.

Mr. Carr's Former Work.

Harvey O. Carr, the now well-known editor of the Michigan Journal, American, is a partner by trade and has worked at the case for many years. He was foreman of the composing room of the Democrat for a long time and later was foreman of the job department of the Democrat. He served a long time as president of the Central Labor union. One year ago he was appointed by Mayor Uhl as a member of the board of public works, a position he now holds.

Explosion of the Inconceivable.

Messrs. Post and Campbell, who gave the musicians on Saturday night, wish to explain how it occurred that many invited guests, who were not the first to arrive, were unable to obtain seats, and in many instances went away without hearing any of the music. A limited number of invitations programs were issued, but as the music program usually given at Friedrich's hall are free to those who inquire for programs, there were a great many unsuspected visitors. Further, the press notices were incorrect in stating that the concert was open to the public. While no one is really blameable, the gentlemen regret deeply that their friends and invited guests should have been the victims of an awkward situation.

CITY MISSION.

One Opened Last Night on Waterloo Street.

An undenominational city mission was opened last night in the vacant store at No. 13 North Waterloo street, by the Rev. T. A. McMillan. Only a small number of persons were present, but the attendance will increase. It was equal to the expectations of Mr. McMillan last night as the regular Sunday opening services in several denominational churches were held. Ministers of the city churches have promised their services for this mission and will alternate in conducting the meetings when convenient for them to do so. The mission has been opened for the benefit of that class of persons that can not be reached by the regular denominational churches and it is intended to hold services every night throughout the year. Its maintenance will depend upon the generosity of churches and private citizens, many of whom have already contributed liberally to the cause. The seats used in the building were given by the Rev. Dr. Campbell Fair and the Rev. W. Hall Williamson. Chase Bros. have donated an organ and two electric lamps, and the Edison Light company, who supply four incandescent lights free of charge. The mission now appeals to the public for work and as soon as this is received every night will be by starting at 7:30. Services will begin each evening at 7:30.

SAYS IT WILL BE SHORIT.

Speaker Tateum Prognostics Short Legislative Session.

Speaker Tateum of the state legislature spent Sunday at his home in this city. He said that the session of the legislature of 1923, as long as business has been done that was done up to a corresponding date in 1891. He said the committee were doing excellent work and that all the bills were in good shape. He said he was very thankful to the members for the manner in which they have supported him in the position as speaker. He has received nothing but the most courteous treatment, and has enjoyed his work very much. The session has moved smoothly enough, except on one or two occasions where some political fights have taken place.

Worth of Young Men.

The Rev. Dr. Jackson talked to an immense congregation last evening on the comparisons between the worth of a man and a sheep. He said the subject was suggested by the remark of a local bank director, who, contrary to the policy of other directors on his board, believed in giving more financial encouragement to worthy young men as being in the long run a better policy than shutting them out from essential activities. The worth of strong character as an asset, even in the case of a city or a nation was brought out, and the special province of young men as assistants to each other in moral and religious lines was dwelt upon.

What They Will Cost.

The following estimates for improving streets and building sewers have been submitted to the board of public works: South Front street, from Shawmut avenue to Allen street, $10,000; Grand Rapids, $10,000; Cedar blocks, $2,000; Street improvements, from Front to West Division streets, $10,000; Grand Rapids, $10,000; Cedar blocks, $10,000; sewer in Third street, $10,000; sidewalk improvement with gravel, $13,750.

Willie Byers Is Caught.

Willie Byers, a fugitive from the state reform school, was arrested at the home of his parents on the west side yesterday morning by Detective J. K. Sawyer, and will be taken back to the reform school today. Byers was sentenced to the reform school June 4, and on the evening of October 4 he, with Thomas Brown of Grand Haven and Frank Curtis of Jackson, started on a long wandering about the state until last week, when he returned to his home. A reward of $10 was offered for his arrest.

Remembered by His Staff.

William J. Spratt, severed his connection with the Evening Press yesterday. At high noon the members of the staff went to bid him God speed in whatever enterprise he may undertake and to present to him a handsome silver inkstand, the gift of members of the staff. John Finn made the presentation speech in a manner which indicated frequent recollections and a great amount of study. The present will be highly prized by Mr. Spratt.

Wanted a Professional Diagnosis.

Joseph Lovendowski was arrested by Officer Finney at the corner of Fifth and State streets yesterday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct, using insulting language to the officer. Joseph insisted he was not drunk and when taken to police headquarters demanded an examination by a physician to substantiate his view of the case, but the officers did not deem a professional diagnosis necessary.

Church Musical Service.

A special musical service was substituted for the regular service in the Division street M. E. church last night. It consisted of vocal and instrumental music and addresses on the subject of music. Scriptural passages referring to music were read and commented upon and singing was done by the choir. A large audience was present.

George Hayes, a refractory prisoner in the county jail, who refused to work on the stone pile ten days ago, was locked in his cell and put on a diet of bread and water. The Truthful Test

It requires no learned experts or scientific experiments to establish the fact that Dr. Price's DELICIOUS FLAVORING EXTRACTS are not only the strongest, but positively the sweetest and most delicate fruit flavors. If housewives will favor a cake, pudding, custard or cream with Dr. Price's Extract of Vanilla, Lemon or Orange, and a smaller quantity gives a more natural and grateful taste than can be imparted by any other Extracts, is it not an incontestable proof of their greater excellence? In every case where Dr. Price's Flavors are used they give perfect satisfaction.
