CHASED BY A BOX CAR.

An Exciting Episode of Railroading in the Colorado Mountains.

"I was chased once by a box car," said an expert mountain man in a Kansas City Journal representative. "It was out in Colorado, the land of steep grades and sharp curves. We were sliding down the mountains one day with a baggage car and two coaches. I was on the rear platform looking at the road when I descried a box car coming down the grade at a rate of speed that was appalling. If it struck us we were gone for good. It was a matter of seconds before it was upon us. Our only hope was to either outrun or wreck it. The engineer caught sight of it at the same instant that I did, and put the lever down among the tallow pots.

CHANGEABLE ROSES.

One of the Horticultural Achievements of the Oriental Peoples.

The Chinese, the Japanese and the Siamese know a thing or two about botany and floriculture that would be of much value to the German, English and American botanists. One of their achievements—the one on which they pride themselves above all others, unless it is the art of raising nails in thimbles—is the "changeable rose," a real rose in everything except that it is white when in the shade and blood-red as soon as the sun strikes it. The rose is so named in the last sentence above, do not literally mean instantaneously, but one thing is sure, the transformation is rapid enough for the wondering eyes that are allowed the rare pleasure of beholding such a wonderful sight.

New York, April 4.—The following cable was received here today:

IT HAS NO POWER

The Barkworth Mandamus Case Before the Supreme Court

MR. COOLEY'S GREAT SPEECH

He Declares That the Plaintiff Has No Standing and the Court is Without Jurisdiction.

LANSING, Mich., April 4.—The mandamus proceedings instituted by Representative Barkworth against Speaker Tatum and Clerk Miller to compel them to print his protest against the adoption of the Ferguson resolution condemning southern lynching, were before the supreme court this afternoon. Judge Cooley appeared for the respondents and made a most able and exhaustive argument, in which he held that the plaintiff had no standing in court, for the reason that the court was absolutely without jurisdiction in the premises, the legislature being a co-ordinate branch of the government over which it had no control. He maintained that if the court could compel the house to change its record in regard to this protest, it could with equal ease compel it to change the record relative to the defeat or passage of any bill. If the legislature may be coerced into performing a plain constitutional duty, the judge insisted that the governor may, on precisely the same ground, be disciplined by the court.

Attorney General Ellis made the principal argument for the relators. He based his case on the constitutional provision that "any member of either house may desert from and protest against any act, proceeding or resolution which he may deem injurious to any person or to the public and have the same referred to the committee on the journal." He argued that the court had ample jurisdiction and that it was not in the power of any man or set of men to deny to any person any right or privilege granted by the constitution, and then he based a claim that the very constitution which granted the privilege denied the aggrieved party any remedy to secure his rights.

SHE IS A VERY WICKED WOMAN

A Police Officer Was Shot in the Back House a Week Ago—Kiz Reed Files.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 4.—About a week ago Police Officer John Chandler of Bluefield, Mercer county, was shot and killed in a disorderly house kept by the notorious Kiz Reed, who has the reputation of being the wickedest woman in West Virginia. About midnight last night a row was started at Kiz Reed's joint in Graham, a suburb of Bluefield, where a crowd of tough blacks and whites had congregated. During the melee, Charles Chandler, a police officer, emptied a revolver into the crowd, killing John Lewis, a colored boy, who had taken no part in the disturbance. Morgan was caught by a mob of citizens, who lynched him from a limb of a tree almost in front of the house and rifled his body with bullets. Kiz Reed fled with a portion of the mob in pursuit of her, and tonight she is reported to have been caught and lynched on the Virginia side of the state line.

SWEPT BY FIRES.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 4.—A few minutes after 6 o'clock this evening fire, which was supposed to be of incendiary origin, was discovered in a stable in the alley in the rear of the McKim block, on Baltimore street, in the very heart of the city. There were a number of wooden structures in this alley way, and as the wind was blowing half a gale, the rear of the block was soon a seething mass of flames. In quick succession the buildings on Baltimore street occupied by the New York Clothing company, by Charles White, dry goods, Thomas Coulson, groceries, and Stearns clothing store were gutted. Meanwhile the fire was spreading rapidly up Mechanic street and with the wind showering sparks to remote parts of the city, a major conflagration seemed certain. Mayor Hebb telegraphed for assistance to Washington, Pittsburg, Martinsburg, Frederick, Frostburg, Parkersburg, Myrtle and Bedford.

After a six hours' hard struggle the fire was finally gotten under control, having consumed six buildings on Mechanic street and seven buildings on Baltimore street. In all, fifteen places of business, a boarding house and restaurant, and seven dwelling houses, were completely destroyed.

While the fire was at its height up town, another fire was started by the careless dropping of a lighted match in a frame structure in the southern portion of the city. Twelve buildings were completely destroyed before this second fire was subdued.

Mr. McIntyre, the physician who attended Mrs. Buchanan in her final illness, described the manner of her death and exposed his treatment. Witness said the doctor agreed on cerebral apoplexy as the cause of death. The prosecution at this point rested its examination. Dr. McIntyre created an excellent impression, but his testimony seemed favorable to the defense, and Dr. Buchanan left the court-room smiling.
