

WAR IN A CHURCH

Lively Skirmish in a German Evangelical Church.

BOUNCED A CHICAGO PREACHER

He Follows Bishop Dubbs and Belongs to the Minority—President of the Trustees Holds the Fort.

The troubles which divide the German Evangelical church brought in a lively racket in the Zion church, located at the corner of West Bridge and Straight streets last evening. The Rev. Johannes Schneider of Chicago attempted to preach to the flock that worships in the little church but he and his friends were ejected by the president of the board of trustees and several other members of the church who believe in living up to the strict law of the church. The German Evangelical church of the United States is divided into what are known as the majority and minority schools headed by Bishop W. Eeher and Bishop Dubbs respectively. The Zion church belongs to the majority crowd under Bishop Eeher and to the Michigan conference. There are, however, a number of Bishop Dubbs' followers in the congregation and it was through them that the trouble last night arose. The pastor of the Zion church is the Rev. D. L. Hill, who was called to Saginaw last week on account of the illness of his daughter. The Rev. Mr. Huestler preached to the congregation last Sunday, and at the close of his sermon announced that the Rev. Johannes Schneider would preach to them Tuesday night. It was known that Schneider was a Dubbs man and there was opposition to allowing him to enter the church. When he arrived last night he found Frederick Hutt, president of the board of trustees, on hand to forbid him using the church. A large number of those who wished to hear him speak had already entered the church when the Hutt family arrived, and a lively skirmish ensued, which resulted in the Chicago preacher and his flock being forced to take a position on the sidewalk, while Mr. Hutt and his sons barricaded the doors. Frederick Hutt was seen at his home, No. 262 First street, after the trouble was over. He said that Schneider had, under the laws of the church, no right to preach there. He said the Dubbs members had been taken into the Zion church on a promise that they would make no trouble, but no sooner had the pastor, Mr. Hill, turned his back on the city than they attempted to play a trick on him and on his church. Mr. Hutt says somebody stole a key to the church Monday and unlocked the rear doors, but he saw it and had them closed. Last night in order to get in one man crawled through a basement door and then unlocked the front door bolts so that the people could go in. Mr. Hutt says it was very lively for a short time after he arrived at the church, and at the close Mr. Schneider was addressing the crowd on the sidewalk and he was in possession of the church. He says he knows Mr. Hill will approve of all he did when he returns to the city.

Bear in John Ball Park Creates Great Excitement.

BROKE HIS TETHER CHAIN

Ugly Brute Fed on Meat and Morphine Until He Was Stupefied and Recaptured.

From Sunday afternoon until yesterday the black bear in John Ball park created more excitement in the park than the attendants and residents in that vicinity have experienced for some time. By almost constant walking around the post to which he was tied with a large chain the snap hooking into the collar around his neck became so badly worn that it became unhooked Sunday evening. This left old bruiser with nothing between him and liberty, but the low fence forming the enclosure around his apartments. As the resort season has nearly closed and the visitors at the park are becoming fewer every day, bruiser could see but little to entice him to stay in the park this winter and made up his mind that he would scale the fence, a la county jail prisoners and standing upon his haunches peered over into the wilds of the park. Just as he was about to bid the raccoon and opossum a last farewell, Keeper Gardner Van Dusen appeared on the scene and delayed his departure by a sharp blow around the head with a huge club. Bruiser stepped back with a look of surprise mingled with sad disappointment. He showed his disappointment by giving vent to ugly growls and cast wicked glances at the keeper. His rage continued to increase until the park attendants were afraid to go inside the enclosure to tie him up. They stood guard over him all night to keep him within the enclosure and Monday he appeared to be more assertive in his actions. The keeper began to feed him meat sprinkled with morphine in order to quiet his nerves, but the fierce animal took it with little effect. Monday night he was guarded again and yesterday he was again gorged with meat and morphine until the drug began to have the desired effect. He gradually grew stupid and finally lay down to sleep. The keeper walked into the pen and fastened the chain around the animal's neck. He was then again firmly secured and the prospects are that old bruiser will spend another winter in the park. He recovered from the stupor later in the day and began his accustomed tread around his well beaten path.

May Sue for Damages. Mrs. Charles Gould of Indiana is in the city looking up the evidence surrounding the death of her husband in the south yards two years ago. Mr. Gould was a switchman and was killed while coupling cars the first night he worked for the company. Mrs. Gould has employed an attorney, and if there is any chance of securing damages she will begin suit.

Contagious Diseases. Dina Ver Burgt, No. 55 Langdon street typhoid fever. Mrs. Rose Stone, No. 402 West street, typhoid fever. Arthur Clark, No. 771 Roadhouse avenue, diphtheria.
