

HE ROBBED A BANK

Downfall of Thomas Edwards of Kansas City.

ONCE TRUSTED, NOW IN JAIL

He Was at One Time a Millionaire and Was Held in High Regard by Friends.

HARRISBURG, Mo., Nov. 3.—Thomas Edwards, once a prominent Republican politician of Kansas City, Missouri, once assessor of that city by appointment and twice assessor of the county by election, was in the county jail at this place charged with attempted bank robbery. At about noon today a stranger entered the First National bank of this city, said his name was Thomas H. Edwards and asked Cashier Houston, who was alone at the time, to cash a draft for him. Houston told Edwards that it would be necessary for him to be identified. Edwards denounced a moment and then said something about being cold. Houston invited him back to the stove, and accompanying him bent over the fire to stoke. Instantly Edwards dealt the cashier a heavy blow on the head with his fist, knocking him down and then springing upon the teller, man kicked and beat him fearfully. Houston struggled desperately and finally freeing himself rushed for his revolver, which was in a drawer in the front of the bank.

Edwards, who was unarmed, dashed out the front door only to run into the arms of two citizens who were passing. He was taken to the county jail. There he told who he was and readily answered all questions. He said he had a wife and two children living near Carthage, Mo. He sought had made a great deal of money in Kansas City real estate, but he had lost it. The bank people think that he had intended the cashier above, hoped to knock him senseless and rob the bank; others that his mind is unbalanced. He is about 40 years of age and has a good face.

Thomas H. Edwards, until a short time ago, lived in Kansas City, and was at one time reputed to be worth a quarter of a million dollars. He was successful in politics and in real estate speculation. When the boom burst a few years ago, however, he turned and came to Grand Rapids following another boom in real estate in Kansas City a year or more ago. He was about one month ago he went to Joplin, Missouri, and engaged in a modest way in mining. Still he had only hard luck.

AFRAID OF A LAW SUIT.

Guarantee Investment Company Settled Claims Against It.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—People who gathered in Justice Prindiville's court today expecting to hear an exposure of the methods pursued by the Guarantee Investment company were disappointed. The officers of the company, who were indicted Oct. 15 by the federal grand jury for using the mails to promote a lottery enterprise, were today in the court by settling at the last minute the cases begun by Frank Whalen and Henry Burns, and nothing could be done but dismiss the suits. President MacDonell settled both claims by paying Whalen $10,000, Burns $25,000 and the court costs amounting to $11,000.

One of the most disappointed persons at court was James Ford, who represented Attorney General Moloney. Mr. Ford was present to hear the evidence offered by the plaintiffs relating to the peculiar methods of the company, at the request of the attorney general, who has considered the advisability of proceeding against the concern under the laws of Illinois to drive it from the state. The intention of Attorney General Moloney is to investigate the transactions of the Guarantee Investment company, and if he finds grounds to justify the prosecution it will be begun. The timely settlement of the cases by President MacDonell terminated the proceedings in the justice court very abruptly today, and the attorney general must seek other means of ascertaining the character of the concern and its methods of doing business.

"I have received many complaints during my term of office regarding the Guarantee Investment company," said the attorney general today. "I have resolved to look into its methods. Time and again I have received a letter from some poor person who has purchased a multiple bond from the company, only to find that the concern is now of a lottery enterprise. This is an investment company. The bonds are not multiple bonds, but are simply shares in the company. TRAIN ROBBERS FOILED.

One Was Mortally Wounded and the Other Captured.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3.—An attempt was made to rob the through night express train, leaving here at 8:15 p. m. for Louisville over the Knoxville & Ohio railroad. The train stopped at a water tank near Coal Creek, thirty miles north of here, and two men boarded the train. They had no money entered the car than several men opened fire on them. One of them, who has been since identified as James Smith of this city, was shot through the body and mortally wounded. The other, whose name was not learned, was captured without injury. There was less than a hundred dollars in the express car safe.

WEEKS IN THE TOMBS.

Embezzler Will Be Arraigned Next Week.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Francis H. Weeks, the embezzling lawyer and forger, arrived in this city shortly before 1 o'clock and was immediately taken to police headquarters, where he passed some time in giving his pedigree and other interesting details to Superintendent

BYRONS. Later in the afternoon he was taken to the court of general sessions to stand trial for the indictment found against him before Judge Martine. Weeks was captured in Coles Rice, whither he fled after misappropriating more than $1,000,000 of his clients' money. A large crowd gathered at Jersey City to witness the arrival of the embezzler. The lawyers had changed his appearance a great deal since he left this city. His face was white and sunken and an ill kept, straggling beard covered his face. Weeks bore the ordeal of being stared at with great composure, but he flinched when an Irish yeoman who lost some money when Weeks fled stopped up to him on the ferryboat crossing the North river and ferreted out his history for his discomfiture. The detective accompanying Weeks compelled the man to go to the police station, where he was arraigned with a week.

PRENDERGAST TO STAND TRIAL.

His Case Will Come Before Judge Dunne Monday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Judge Dunne will preside in branch No. 1 of the criminal court at the November 5 trial, beginning next Monday, and Patrick Eugene Prendergast, the assassin of Mayor Harrison, will be arraigned before him for trial. Prendergast has not secured an attorney yet. He has no money, and no lawyer appears anxious to represent him. Mrs. Curtis testified yesterday that she did not know the whereabouts of her husband, but supposed he was hunting in the mountains.

Actor Curtis Missing.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—It was stated this morning that M. E. Curtis, the actor who was wanted as a witness in the case of McMillan and Dunn, charged with embezzling in connection with the Curtis trial, left this city last Wednesday on an east-bound train and is now out of the jurisdiction of the state courts.

Girl's Horrible Suicide.

London, Ky., Nov. 3.—Joseph Longfellow, a 16-year-old girl, committed suicide last night in a most horrible manner. She fastened a meat ax between two blocks of wood in the floor, so that the edge was up, evidently fearing that the sight of blood would weaken her purpose, she tied a handkerchief round her neck, and with the point of her wrist over the dull edge of the ax until the hand was almost severed.

Noted Hotel Barred.

Woodsport, Ohio, Nov. 3.—The old hotel in Apple Creek, made famous as the home of the noted gambler, was barred to the ground last night. The tenants, Shank Bros., lost nearly all their effects. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, as the place was conducted as a "hop tea joint," and threats to rid the town of the place had been made.

Pythian Embezzler Wanted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 3.—Governor Altgeld today issued a requisition for Charles Becknell, wanted in Chicago for embezzling $500 and under arrest at Lexington, Ky., by the Pythian lodge No. 2 of the Knights of Pythias of North America, South America, Europe, Asia and Africa, and succeeded in making away with large money.

Harrison's Remains Guarded.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—A special detail of police detectives guard the vault which contains Mayor Harrison's remains day and night to provide against any act of desecration that might be attempted. There is no fear of any violation of the tomb, but the police authorities thought best to leave no loophole for ghosts to steal the body or commit any act of desecration.

Bank Wreckers May Escape.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 3.—The cases of the indicted Plankinton officers will come up tomorrow before Judge Waller. There is some doubt as to whether or not the cases will ever come to trial, it being alleged that Judge Waller has lost jurisdiction because of the delay in serving subpoenas and in bringing the first indictments to trial.

PLOT IS DEEP LAID

Sensations Promised in the Contest Over Bohn's Will.

SON'S PARENTAGE DENIED

By His Mother, Influenced to Do so by an Adopted Daughter's Scheming Husband.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 3.—Wealth and honor are involved in a case to be tried at this month's term of court in Carroll county. This disposition of a $100,000 estate and the parentage of a 10-year-old boy are to be settled under most extraordinary circumstances and what promises to be a decidedly conflicting evidence. An adopted daughter and her husband will also figure in the case, a badly rattled administrator will be a feature and an outsider who claims that he is trying to right a wrong will add to the confusion.

The case involved, according to the story, is one left by Samuel Bohn, a wealthy Carroll county farmer, who died in 1891. It is valued at something over $100,000, and for some time after his death it looked as if it would be settled in the usual way and without any conflict in the courts. Leonetta Bohn, the widow, applied for the letters of administration on the estate, supplementing the application with an affidavit to the effect that Samuel Bohn left surviving him, in addition to the widow, an adopted daughter, Leonetta Bohn, now married to Samuel Matheny. No mention was made of a young son and there was no suspicion that there was one in existence. Letters were issued to Conrad Lamp, and he proceeded with the work of settling up the estate with a view of turning all except the widow's share over to the adopted daughter.

Son Turned Up.

Then the sensation came. Edward Glattfey of Lanark, Illinois, it is claimed, heard some rumors of another heir, and he began an investigation, the result of which are said to have been startling. He found a boy, said to be Charles D. Bohn, son of Samuel and Lucinda Bohn, who was born February 23, 1883. He put the boy's case in the hands of a law firm, proceedings were quietly begun to secure for the boy his alleged rights, and the complications began to enter into the case.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Daniel Coughlin was placed on trial today in Judge N. S. Tuthill's court for alleged complicity in the conspiracy to suppress the principal issue of the election on May 8, 1892, and the work of securing a jury was begun. This is Coughlin's second trial for the same offense. On the former hearing it will be remembered, he was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life, but was granted a writ of habeas corpus on the ground of incompetency, because of prostration of several of the jurors. The day was spent in trying to get a jury.

SIX MEN SHOT DEAD

Gen d'Armes Fire Upon Villagers Who Resist a Bailiff

SERVING AN EVICTION WRIT

They Retain the Fire and Kill Two Officers and Wound Five—Military May Be Called Out.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 3.—Father Sullivan of St. Columba church was assaulted in his study tonight by Nick Trainor, a worthless crank. Father Sullivan was writing when the man entered his study and asked him for the address of Father McCullon in New York. The priest promised to furnish the information desired in a few moments, when the man began swearing. On being ordered out he assaulted the priest and threw him to the floor. John Carter, a watchman at a factory near by heard the cries of a servant and ran in the study. He pulled the crank off the priest and held him until a patrol wagon arrived. On examination it was found that Father Sullivan's nose was broken and there was a long cut on the back of his head. Trainor told the police that he assaulted the priest because he had refused to give him a cloak sent him from New York.

RAILROAD CAR HEATERS.

Commissioner Billings Looking After the Matter.

LANSING, Nov. 3.—Railroad Commissioner Billings believes that the chief duty incumbent upon him just now lies in the direction of requiring the railroad companies of the state to heat their passenger coaches by some method which, in case of accident, will not cause the cars to take fire and thus destroy valuable lives. He is now preparing a circular on this subject which will be sent to the managers of all Michigan railroad companies. The public action of 1887 require railways to equip their cars with hand grenades or some other system of extinguishing fires.

Police Battle With Socialists and Many Are Wounded.

END CAME AT LAST

Congress in Extraordinary Session Adjourned Yesterday

AFTER MONTHS OF TALK

Closing Session in the Senate Proceeded After the Wreathing of the Silver Repeal Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The senate met at noon and the reading of the journal was interrupted and the further continuance dispensed with while Mr. Cockerill reported back from the committee on appropriations the house resolution for final allotment of $3 p. m. today. Mr. Coker protested against the adjournment. The greatest way, he said, for the democrat party to serve the country was for congress to adjourn, go home and leave the public business, Congress, he argued, should not adjourn, but should continue in session and proceed in the transaction of the public business. The federal elections bill had been passed by the house and might be before the senate in a few days. There was quite a number of bills awaiting action, some of them important. Terrific reduction of taxes to the vice and to the treasury by the democrat party and if that party was not to be broken, as any promise of equal importance had already been, it was time that the decks were being cleared and made ready for the contest to be made over it. The democrat party had everything to lose and nothing to gain by an adjournment, and the republican party had everything to gain and nothing to lose by it.

Messrs. Dulp, Harris, Call, Allen, Peffer and Berry opposed the resolution and Messrs. Mills and Blackburn favored it.

The final adjournment resolution was then agreed to without a division.
