INTERESTING. To Sufferers From Dyspepsia and Indigestion. There is little doubt but that nine-tenths of the American people are afflicted more or less with dyspepsia, or its milder form, indigestion, and so common has it become that its serious nature is often overlooked and proper treatment neglected. Also there are few remedies which have such effect on the stomach, or that can be considered as specific for stomach troubles. We are so happy to say, however, that there is one remedy, a new preparation called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which in a few months has made its way so rapidly into public favor that it has already achieved an enviable reputation among physicians as well as sufferers from dyspepsia as a lasting relief cure. The success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in curing all forms of stomach troubles is largely owing to the fact that it is especially prepared for such trouble and no other. It is not a cure-all but a relief, and it is only intended to cure dyspepsia, and in all cases of stomach troubles its usefulness and prompt effects are surprising, especially when it is remembered that the remedy is very cheap, costing but 50 cents per package, and that complete cures have been made by the use of one or two packages. We aim to make no extravagant claims for these Tablets, and in such an obstinate disease as dyspepsia it is always known to be, we would simply advise every man or woman having any derangement of digestion to buy a package of this remedy, the best being a trial, you can well afford to give it a fair trial and judge for yourself. Ask your druggist for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. 50 cents per package of sixty to seventy-five doses.
