Have to Draw the Line Somewhere.
The speeches of Judge Lyon in this county were effectual in settling one thing, and that was a lingering doubt in the minds of a number of Independents as to whether there was enough Congressional timber in his make-up to warrant them in taking him as a dernier resort "on probation." The verdict was against him however—the majority of those who oppose the Democratic party regardless of its nominees, are not as a general thing very choicely in the selection of a goal for their ballots, but then they had to draw the line somewhere, and so they are drawing it on the ex-Chancellor.

The Oregon Legislature on the 21st inst. after forty ineffectual ballots, succeeded in electing a United States Senator. Joseph N. Dolph was the lucky man, receiving fifty votes. We are not as yet informed as to the character or calibre of the man or the combination that elected him, but there is a world of consolation to be derived from the fact that "Hibble" Mitchell was defeated.

When Judge Lyon next starts out to entertain the voters of the First District with autobiographical sketches, he can add a fresh chapter: He can tell the good people about his canvass for Congress as "nobody's child," political, and how a sympathetic public let him down easy, and bade him retire to those shades of oblivion into which neither the blindest lightning nor man or the book agent dare intrude.

The farmers with one accord claim Col. Muldrow as essentially their candidate and the representative of their interests in the pending campaign—this being the case they should see to it that he does not lack the vote of a single farmer in the county, but should return him to the seat he has filled so well with such a majority as will enable him to strike out boldly and defiantly on all occasions in their behalf.

Arthur in a late interview conceded Indiana to be a Democratic State, and admitted that it was carried by money and fraud in the October election that preceded the Presidential contest of 1880. Fortunately Indiana has ceased to be an "October State," and may be counted upon as reliably Democratic in all future battles.

The young Bogardus, the son of the celebrated mark-man, and even a much better shot than his father, was terribly injured by a fall from a rail road car a few days ago. We are glad to learn from the Selma papers that there is a chance of his recovery.

The great New York sugar refinery company, Havemeyer Bros, have purchased two squares of ground in New Orleans for which they paid four hundred thousand dollars, and will at once erect upon it the largest sugar refinery in the world.

The New York Herald regards it as among the possibilities that the Republicans will open with a reverse in that State than in Ohio.

How would McDonald of Indiana and Patton of Pennsylvania do for a Presidential ticket in 1884? Wouldn't it rally the boys.

The distinguished Mississippi journalist Col. Wm. H. McCordie, is now connected with the Memphis Daily Appeal.

SEVERAL of our exchanges contain congratulatory articles upon the fact that the sentiment in Pennsylvania and other Middle and Eastern States is strongly in favor of abolishing the Internal Revenue taxes upon every thing but whisky and tobacco. They must not be deluded by this mirage—it simply means such a reduction of the revenue as will make any attack upon the protective tariff system abortive and enicidal.

When Pennsylvania proposes to abolish the Internal Revenue taxes, you can always rely upon there being a good sized rat in the meat tub, somewhere.

Mr. Rufus M. Choate, of Indianapolis, Indiana, informs the public through the Raymond Gazette that he wants to purchase fifty thousand acres of land in Mississippi, and requests correspondence. Mississippi has over forty seven thousand square miles of territory, yet she will not be able to near supply the demand for land that will be made upon her people within the next five years.

Mississippi will not be left behind in the great revolution against Federal misrule that is sweeping like a tidal wave over the whole country. She will register her earnest and emphatic protest on the Seventh of November by electing a solid Democratic delegation to the 48th Congress.

Post Master General Howe will go so far in his annual report as to adopt so much of Hon. H. D. Money's postal bill as to recommend that newspapers be mailed free, but will not consent to the other provision that reduces letter postage to two cents.

The Mason Sun speaking of Dr. J. N. Holman of Noxubee county, says that in addition to splendid crops of cotton and corn, he makes 4,000 bushels of oats this season, and his clover fields are all that could be desired.

Hancock, the Washington correspondent of the Times Democrat, says that at a Cabinet meeting last Saturday "the President gave it as his opinion that New York would go Democratic."

The yellow fever still rages fearfully at Pensacola, Florida, though the type is of a comparatively mild character, and the sick are reported doing well.

B. K. Bruce left Vicksburg on the 22nd, after making 18 speeches in Mississippi, for New York.

We had the pleasure of a call on Tuesday from Mr. J. B. Corey, the advance agent of that popular and brilliant combination Huntley's Dramatic Company, Aberdeen's Favorite, which will be with us through Fair week.

In regard to the combination as at present organized, the Corinth Democrat and Subeditor had this to say in its last issue:

Huntley's splendid Dramatic Company give two performances here, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. On Tuesday night they rendered "Woman's Devotion," which is a fine play. The company so fairly captured the audience that on Wednesday night knowing that it had been raining all day and the night was a very disagreeable one, a good audience turned out to witness the performance of "Destiny." Of the performance we dare not attempt any description knowing that in a short notice like this we could not do them justice. The company is an excellent one and deserving of all the praise imaginable, and we regret our inability to speak in a more dictatorial manner of them, for merit should be commended at all times.

Mr. James R. Randall, associate editor of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Constitutionalist, and author of "Maryland," is favorably mentioned as a candidate for Congress, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. H. Stephens. Mr. Randall, who is a native of Baltimore, and for many years a resident of New Orleans, is a well equipped journalist, and would make an excellent Congressman.—N. O. Times Democrat.

Mr. Randall is at present connected with the Sergeant at Arms Department of the U. S. Senate, and would wear Congressional honors as gracefully as any man we know of.

Our New Rail Road.
As everything in connection with the building of our new road is of interest, we have obtained permission to publish the following letter:
Office of C. S. L. & N. O. R. R. Co.,
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19, 1882.
MESSRS. HURSTON & REYNOLDS.
DEAR SIRS:—You will notice in New Orleans morning papers advertisements for Contractors for whole line or any part thereof from Kosciusko to Aberdeen.

I trust that Judge Houston, who has labored for so many years to secure a road to Aberdeen, will feel that his hopes are about to be realized.

I feel very happy at having succeeded with the Illinois Central Board in getting authority to advertise for letting the whole road to Aberdeen, thus redeeming all my pledges to Reynolds and other legislators. The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad is already let out and work begun.

Yours truly,
JAMES FENTRESS,
President

A convict says he was sent to prison for being dishonest, and yet he is compelled every day to cut pieces of paste board which are put between the soles of cheap shoes made there, and padded off on the innocent public as leather.

A young man in Goshen has been entirely cured of nervous prostration by playing on a fiddle. The disease went to the family next door.

Three of the Republican candidates who claim to be elected to Congress in Ohio, have majorities of eight, ten and thirty two, respectively. Of course their seats will be contested, and as the Ohio law in regard to tickets is about the same as ours, the precedent established in the case of Lynch vs. Chalmers will give the seats to the Democratic candidates by large majorities; but we would be willing to bet all of Jay Gould's railroads if we owned them, that not one of the ousted candidates will follow the example of Chalmers by espousing the cause of the party that freezes them out.

When Chalmers is defeated for Congress, as he will be by Manning, two weeks from to-day, "won't he feel lonesome?"—Jackson Mississippi.

No, he will not. Why should he? Will he not be in the same boat with Hill, Carter, Lynch, Gore, Roane, Griffin, Lyon, Jeffords and Clarke of Mississippi, besides a multitude of kindred spirits from other States? He may feel sea sick, nauseated, tired and all that sort of thing, but not lonesome.

J. D. Brady, Chairman of the Reorganizer State Committee of Virginia, and Mahone, were in Washington on the 24th making urgent demands upon Jay Hubbell and the Government Departments for more money. They demand a large sum and say they must have it if they are expected to carry the approaching election.

"Help me Hubbell or I sink!" is the plaintive cry that goes up from despairing Radical candidates from all parts of the country, to the Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee.

The Michigan papers call Col. Charles E. Hooker of Mississippi, "the eloquent stranger."

The Gulf Coast Advertiser says that the bees in that portion of the State are swarming in October. A very unusual occurrence.

The following is said to be a certain cure for chills: One-half an ounce of Peruvian bark, the same of rhubarb, and one pint of pure Holland gin. Mix and take half a wine glassful one hour before each meal, and continue the treatment two days.—Pensola Star.

We submit the above with the suggestion that in every instance the mother, wife, sister or daughter of the patient be entrusted with the preparation of the compound. It won't do to confide so delicate an operation to a sick man—a sick man is so thoughtless you know, he might forget to put in the bark and rhubarb.

According to the Aberdeen Examiner, Monroe county can boast at least 500 sound, reliable, patriotic colored Democrats.—Sardis Star.

Yazoo county can make a similar boast, and could enlarge it by 500 more and still be in the line of safe precedents. The more sensible, patriotic class of our colored population concluded months ago to stand by the white people in the interest of good government, and with their white friends they will go in all future elections with here and there an exception. We are glad that such is the fact and proud to proclaim it to the world.—Yazoo City Herald.

About the only difference between Chalmers and Carter is the difference in the color of their skins. Chalmers, if elected, will support a Republican for Speaker and support Arthur's administration, so will Carter. Chalmers will vote against the repeal or modification of the present iniquitous tariff, so will Carter. Chalmers expects to be elected by Republicans, and so does Carter. Chalmers denounces the Democratic party, and so does Carter. Chalmers is an independent candidate for Congress, and so is Carter. Now what is the difference between these worthies?—Oxford Eagle.

Canton, Aberdeen and Nashville Railroad.
Mr. J. F. McCool who has been engaged in securing the right of way for the C. A. & N. R. R., was present at a meeting of the Directors of the road, which took place last Monday at Jackson, Tenn. He informs us that the contract for the building of the road will be let on that place on the 12th of November, the whole line from Kosciusko to Aberdeen to be let at one time. The engineer's estimates show that the cost of building and equipping it with rolling stock, depots, &c., will be about $1,746,000. The most expensive part of the work will be in northeast Atala and South Choctaw. The deepest cut will be at Blanton's gap, a few miles south of Choctaw, where it crosses the watershed between the tributaries of Big Black and those of Noxubee river. Mr. McCool says that Judge Fentress, president of the road, assured him that work would certainly begin at an early day after the letting of the contract and would be pushed through as rapidly as possible. He thinks it will be completed from Kosciusko to Aberdeen by June 1st 1883.—Kosciusko Messenger.

The effort of certain gentlemen in this State to break into Congress under the false guise of independence in politics is not unknown to our people, though it is rather deceitful in its character, and therefore liable to mislead many honest-minded voters.—Oxford Times.

GEO. A. BRYAN, wishes to inform his numerous friends that they will find him behind the counter at M. V. B. LEDBETTER, on Meridian Street, ready and willing to sell them staple and fancy groceries of all kinds as cheap as any house in Aberdeen. Call and see for yourself.

DUTY.
In the course of his address at New Orleans recently, while speaking of the duty of the citizen, E. John Ellis narrated with much eloquence and feeling the pathetic episode of the war which is epitomized below.

Fellow citizens: I heard a story about "duty" a while ago that gave a new meaning to the term. I was resting under the Blue Ridge. It was evening; there were great banks of clouds in the west, where the golden sun was setting. Then I heard a story that told me how one was faithful unto death.

In 1861 there was a young man in Virginia, unlearned in colleges or schools, who knew nothing of secession, nothing of the causes that led to the war. A time came when he saw tears coursing down the beautiful cheeks of the women he saw dead men borne along; he beheld horses maimed, and heard that Virginia was invaded.

"His not to reason why, His but to do or die," so he went to the front and enrolled himself with the defenders of his native soil.

Right there where I was seated the battery of this young soldier had been hotly engaged with the enemy. Balls were falling around like a storm, and the air stretched him on the plain. Comrades lying to a little knoll. Lynde's boy, he said: "I can do some duty yet. Give me the reins of the horses. I will hold them. You can go back to the guns." So he clasped his cold hands around the bridal reins. The Confederate soldier was on duty still. The dreadful carnage of battle rolled around him. His closing eye saw the smoke that drifted to the sky. The sounds of war grew fainter and fainter, until the booming of the cannon seemed like distant voices whispering in his ear. Far off the spirits of the Valkyries came to waft the soldier's soul to Valhalla. There is a great shudder of the death chill. The fingers close on the bridal reins. The spirit has fled to the realms of the immortal brave, but the Confederate soldier still is on duty still. As I heard that story I realize that it meant to be "faithful unto death."

W. W. Cole's Great Venture.
The St. Paul Pioneer-Press, under date of August 26, pays the following gracious tribute to W. W. Cole's great achievement, which now enjoys the enviable reputation of being the most novel, extensive and highly interesting exhibition before the public:

"Four tented exhibitions have previously entertained St. Paul patrons this season, but it remained for W. W. Cole to play before and please the largest audience of all with his magnificent and mammoth shows. The streets were densely crowded yesterday morning with old and young to witness the princely pageant as it passed by. As parade it cascaded and differed from any preceding one, presenting the sublime, the ridiculous, the grave and the gay, gorgeousness and amiability, magnificence and magnanimity. The show in the tents excelled in novelty and number of all that preceded it. The menagerie was exceptionally presentable. The appearance of animals and vans was the theme of constant comment; sea lions in water, serpents in glass, rhinoceros, and tigers, armadillos, hippopotamuses, specklers, osceolas, yaks, ostriches, emus, kangaroos, leopards, white bear and innumerable other animals, all excellent specimens, were seen. Elephants from Simon, the largest e-southerner, to the baby, the tuxedo. The wax statues of noted men, the circus, all just as advertised. The circus certainly, the creme de la creme, was a most wonderful change from the accepted and stereotyped version of that entertainment. The performing rattles, the most thrilling, the snake charmer, the stage bicyclist on the theater platform, the crack shooting by Bogardus, the champion of the world, and his sons, the double riding, the wonderful long live, double somersaulting over tremendous obstacles and long distances, the pretty lady on horseback jumping horses, that fairly set our gates and bars, the Russian roller skaters, first time ever seen here, the Blondin act of carrying a man on the back while walking high wire, the aerial bicyclist, the most thrilling, hazardous and astonishing performance of all. It was a great show, and was extravagantly patronized. The most perfect order existed everywhere at all times. Trained Antelope Riders, 120 Distinguished Performers, The Man Bird—"Bird," The Female Snake Charmer, French Acrobatic Bicycle Riders, English Equestrians and Athletes, A Circus Troupe of Lady Artists, 11 Acts by Lady Performers, None but Bareback Riders, The World's Champion Leapers, Trained Antelope Riders, The Ring, ALMA, the Phantom Lady, Grand Grant in Wax, 9000 Specimens of the Snake Tribe, 500 Specimens of the Snake Tribe, The Largest Tent ever used, An Amphitheater of Lions, Tattooed Sea Savages, A herd of Performing Elephants, Reindeer, Trick Stallions, Arabian Athletes and Gymnasts, Giant Australian Kangaroos, Reindeer, Trick Stallions, A Mammoth Steam Orchestra, A Snow-White Buffalo, The Mammoth Kangaroo, Grand Equestrian and Athletes, Gutten, the Assassin, in Wax, Blondin, the Australian Rope Walker, Menagerie of Trained Animals, Many Bands of Music, Daylight Japanese Fire-Works, Grotesque Procession Signs, Grand Street Parade, Trains of Elephants in Harness, 9 Titanic Tubular Cars, A Mammoth Steam Orchestra, Many Medicines—Automatic Figures, Groups of Bouncing Dummies.

Including the following Astounding Facts:
A DOUBLE CIRCUS COMPANY, A Theatre with a Portable Stage, All the Presidents in Wax, An Enormous Menagerie, An Amphitheater of Lions, A Museum of Living Wonders, Representatives of all Nations, 120 Distinguished Performers, The Man Bird—"Bird," The Female Snake Charmer, French Acrobatic Bicycle Riders, English Equestrians and Athletes, A Circus Troupe of Lady Artists, 11 Acts by Lady Performers, None but Bareback Riders, The World's Champion Leapers, Trained Antelope Riders, The Ring, ALMA, the Phantom Lady, Grand Grant in Wax, 9000 Specimens of the Snake Tribe, 500 Specimens of the Snake Tribe, The Largest Tent ever used, An Amphitheater of Lions, Tattooed Sea Savages, A herd of Performing Elephants, Reindeer, Trick Stallions, Arabian Athletes and Gymnasts, Giant Australian Kangaroos, Reindeer, Trick Stallions, A Mammoth Steam Orchestra, A Snow-White Buffalo, The Mammoth Kangaroo, Grand Equestrian and Athletes, Gutten, the Assassin, in Wax, Blondin, the Australian Rope Walker, Menagerie of Trained Animals, Many Bands of Music, Daylight Japanese Fire-Works, Grotesque Procession Signs, Grand Street Parade, Trains of Elephants in Harness, 9 Titanic Tubular Cars, A Mammoth Steam Orchestra, Many Medicines—Automatic Figures, Groups of Bouncing Dummies.

From the Antipodes.
W. W. Cole's New Mammoth Circus was a grand parade through the streets yesterday—a more picturesque display than when the establishment visited us at the first. Its colosseum seat its steam music everywhere. Last night it opened at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, with (to quote the words of the advertisement) "a perfect flood of music & marvels." The attendance was a crusher. There is no more popular amusement in the United States than the circus, and a good one is always sure of a crush—and coin. There are a great many new features that Cole has been smart enough to acquire during his visit to the Antipodes, and these have freshened the ordinary programme to such an extent that a second or third viewing has all the charms of novelty.

Among the more notable features is the female acrobat, Miss Aldie d'Atalio, whose performances are marvellous. The menagerie has been reinforced by the addition of a white Buffalo and some Australian kangaroos, rare birds, a troop of South Sea savages and a Moorish dancer, who appear in their primitive costumes, in red Arabian attire and a thousand other new attractions." Cole will pitch his city tents in Aberdeen, November 4th.

From the Antipodes.
W. W. Cole's New Mammoth Circus was a grand parade through the streets yesterday—a more picturesque display than when the establishment visited us at the first. Its colosseum seat its steam music everywhere. Last night it opened at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, with (to quote the words of the advertisement) "a perfect flood of music & marvels." The attendance was a crusher. There is no more popular amusement in the United States than the circus, and a good one is always sure of a crush—and coin. There are a great many new features that Cole has been smart enough to acquire during his visit to the Antipodes, and these have freshened the ordinary programme to such an extent that a second or third viewing has all the charms of novelty.

Among the more notable features is the female acrobat, Miss Aldie d'Atalio, whose performances are marvellous. The menagerie has been reinforced by the addition of a white Buffalo and some Australian kangaroos, rare birds, a troop of South Sea savages and a Moorish dancer, who appear in their primitive costumes, in red Arabian attire and a thousand other new attractions." Cole will pitch his city tents in Aberdeen, November 4th.

Our popular and enterprising Druggist, Geo. A. Bryan, calls the special attention of mothers to Dr. MORRIS' TANNIN (Teething Powders). A perfectly safe and reliable remedy for all ailments of the young, and saves the parents many sleepless nights of care and anxiety.
