There is little enthusiasm for the presidential candidates of either of the old parties in Mille Lacs county. It will require the best efforts of silver-tongued orators to evoke even a faint ripple of applause for either Harrison or Cleveland.

Lawyer John C. Judge, of Minneapolis, was a caller at the UNION office, Tuesday. Mr. Judge is considered one of the best real estate attorneys of that city. He expects to grind out another grist of Mille Lacs reservation probate notices in a few days.

Fred McClellan labored unceasingly to make the Fourth of July celebration a success. He was untiring in his efforts, and is justly entitled to the major share of the praise. Mrs. Lucinda Crawford died at the residence of Hon. J. T. D. Sadley on Tuesday morning, and the remains were taken to Becker for interment yesterday. Deceased was born at Red Bank, Monmouth county, N. J. She was the daughter of Daniel Smith, who together with his wife were among the first settlers of Monmouth county. The record of the family can be traced back for 200 years. She was married to John C. Wagner, of New York city, in 1832, and afterwards to Noble R. Crawford. She came with her husband to Sherburne county in 1856, and resided at Becker until the death of her husband four years ago, since which time she has resided with her daughter, Mrs. J. T. D. Sadley, in Princeton. She was the mother of eight children, three of whom survive her. For 70 years she was an active and consistent member of the Baptist church. Her illness was of only four days duration, and the immediate cause of her death was heart failure. Her life's work done she was eager to lay down the burden.

STATE SUMMER SCHOOL. Sixty Teachers from Mille Lacs, Sherburne, Isanti, Kanabec, Pine, Chisago and Carlton Counties Present. The summer training school for teachers held its first session yesterday forenoon with Prof. Edgar George, of St. Peter, as principal, assisted by Miss E. Patterson, of St. Paul, and Miss Mary Gilman, of Minneapolis. There are about sixty teachers enrolled, but before the close of the week it is expected that twenty or thirty more names will be added to the list. Instructors and pupils express themselves as being highly pleased with the ample accommodations provided. In honor of the first summer training school ever held in Princeton the school board ordered a bran new 12 feet flag to be hung to the breeze, and it proudly floats over our splendid school building. A list of the teachers present will appear in the next issue of THE UNION.

Chicago and St. Louis. Two prominent cities of the West are those whose names head this paragraph. Chicago the chief marvel of city growth in America, fifty years ago only a small fort on the frontier—an Indian trading post in a swamp—now known all over the world as the place where is to be held the Worlds Fair of 1893, whence more than a million workers send out their products to be used of all nations. St. Louis, founded in the historic "early days" when the lilies of France claimed dominion over the Mississippi Valley—now setting a commercial queen, the centre of a vast river commerce, at the gateway of the great and growing Southwest, a city of wealth, intelligence and solid worth, much talked of as a future location of the National Capital. These are worth a pilgrimage—they draw thousands of visitors, and the Burlington Route has its own line into both of them, so buy your tickets by that line, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

PRINCETON'S FOURTH.

Over Four Thousand People Spent the Day Pleasantly at the Fair Grounds.

Creditable Street Parade, Fine Racing Program and Good Display of Fireworks.

No Disorder, and no Accidents Occurred to Mar the Festivities of the Day.

It is safe to say that at least four thousand people celebrated the one hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the declaration of independence on the Princeton Fair Grounds last Monday, of that number not more than one-twentieth of them were strangers; the other nineteen-twentieths were Princetonians and their neighbors from the surrounding country. Long before sunrise the usual Fourth of July racket on the streets effectually banished sleep from the eyes of the denizens of the village, and the patriotic small boy was roundly cursed in more than one household. At an early hour people from the country attired in holiday apparel began to flock into town, and by 8 A. M. the streets presented a lively appearance. Promptly at 9 A. M. the parade, headed by the Princeton brass band and Ross Jones' fire and drum corps, started from Fair's barn. There were several nice floats in the procession and some outlandish ones gotten up specially for the occasion. The costumes of the mounted ragamuffins were decidedly unique. The exercises at the Fair Grounds, which consisted mainly of vocal and instrumental music, were brief but were enjoyed by all within hearing distance. The base ball game was called at 11 o'clock, and the proud Crescents, of Minneapolis, were downed by the home team for the third time by a score of 11 to 18. It was too easy a victory for the Princetonians. The refreshment stands, the merry-go-round and the dancing pavilion were all liberally patronized. The display of fireworks in the evening under the management of C. T. Johnson was good, much better than most people had reason to expect. Dancing was kept up at the pavilion until daylight on Tuesday morning. There was no drunkenness, no disorder, and not a single accident occurred to mar the festivities of the day. There was little grumbling over the small admission fee charged at the gate. Counting the $77 shortage on the special train, the receipts about balanced the expenditures. The special train was arranged for too late to properly advertise that it would run between Anoka and Milaca. Such a mistake will be guarded against in the future. All purses were promptly paid. Take it all in all it was the most successful Fourth of July celebration ever held in Princeton.

THE RACES. The feature of the day was the races. Horses from Minneapolis, Anoka and Elk River as well as feet-footed Princeton nags competed for the liberal purses offered. The starters and judges—C. H. Rines, J. T. D. Sadley and Wm. Cordiner—performed their duties in a satisfactory manner and there was no fault-finding. Subjoined is the report in detail.

PAINTS! PAINTS!

The Painting season is at hand, and every one has a House, Barn, Floor, Buggy, or some article of Household Furniture that either requires a Coat of Paint, or else would be Beautified by it.

The use of Paint is Economy in the Truest Sense of the Word. Now, Painting, like any other Business Proposition, resolves itself, in a great measure, into a question of dollars and cents.

Ready-Mixed Paints are yearly gaining in favor, excepting in places where inferior and worthless articles have been sold and used, but it should be borne in mind that these goods are not all alike, for good Mixed Paints are made. Special Machinery, Pure Ingredients, and many years Experience will produce a better Paint than can be made hand-mixed by any one.

We justly claim to Sell a Grade of Ready-Mixed Paints, of a very High Standard. Combining the Purest of Materials by the use of the Latest Improved Machinery, and Skilled Workmen, we offer to the Public an article that cannot but prove absolutely satisfactory to the Consumer in Point of Durability and Fine Finish. It requires no skill to apply them, merely ordinary care and intelligence.

The first coat of paint is a minor-consideration; a cheap mixture will not possess more than about two-thirds the covering qualities of a good one, and the fact of its being Adulterated to that degree is Conclusive Proof that it cannot withstand the action of the Elements upon it. Do not be misled by offers made you of a Paint at a Price which is often as Low as a Manufacturer can afford to sell a Reliable article at wholesale. Competition is now so keen in every branch of business, that excessive profits are no longer possible, therefore bear in mind that the merchant selling at a seemingly low figure, is undoubtedly making as much profit as the one handling a Good Paint, and that the Difference in Price is Represented in the Difference in Quality.
