

The Farm Fireside.

Gleanings by Our Country Correspondents.

SPENCER BROOK.

There is a good opening at the Brook for a physician.

Mrs. W. A. Smith and grand daughter left on Tuesday for Farmington, Minn., for a short visit.

J. A. Smith has accepted a position with the Northwestern Harvesting company for the season.

The crop condition looks favorable at this time—hay excellent, grass a good average, potatoes looking well, and with good weather until the fifteenth of September will likely mature.

What has the game law done for the protection of the prairie chicken? At the time the law was enacted Isanti county was the home of the prairie hen and now it is practically annihilated. So much for a protection that does not protect.

A Memorable Day.

One of the days we remember with pleasure, as well as with profit to our health, is the one on which we became acquainted with Dr. King's New Life Pills, the painless purifiers that cure headache and biliousness, and keep the bowels right. 25c. at Jack's drug store.

COVE.

The dance at Cove Friday was well attended.

Mr. Allison is having his five-acre tract cleared.

Mrs. Woodcock spent Saturday and Sunday at Milaca.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson visited at Onamia last Friday.

Rev. Mr. Woodcock held services at Granite on Sunday.

The children's day exercises were well attended on Sunday.

Nils B. Berg of Isle was in town Monday showing parties his lots.

Several people of Cove attended the lot sale at Wahkon and Onamia.

H. R. Mallette and Banker Allison of Milaca spent Saturday and Sunday at Bay View.

The ladies at Cove will give a social on Friday evening. All are invited to come.

Rev. Father Levings of Princeton, accompanied by Fathers Brender and Zilla were in Cove last week.

Grace and Ester Miller arrived home last week from West Concord, where they have been attending school the past two years.

The hotels at Cove were crowded with guests during the lot sale at Wahkon and Onamia and they were greatly taken up with the beauties of the bay at Cove.

Dr. Armitage, Ledger Armitage, E. L. McMillan and C. A. Dickey passed through Cove in the doctor's automobile for the sale at Wahkon. Also Mr. Petterson, Mr. Caley and Mr. Keith came in on an automobile from Princeton.

GREENBUSH.

S. E. Tilley was in Milaca a few days last week.

Mr. Greenwood unfortunately had a cow killed by lightning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rocheford spent Sunday at Princeton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Shiermann entertained a few of their friends on Sunday.

Chas. Solberg and wife made a trip to Minneapolis to spend a week with relatives and friends.

The rain and thunder storm on Saturday evening interfered with the farmers holding their meeting at school house No. 5. It is hoped that another meeting will soon be called.

The Only One.

The world is burdened with so many cheap and wearisome witticisms based on the theory that lawyers are a mendacious and generally rascally crew, that one cannot but learn with joy that in at least one case a member of the noble profession found due recognition. On a tablet in the Church of St. Dunstan, Fleet street, London, this inscription is to be found: "Hobson Judkins, Esq., late of Clifford's Inn, the honorable solicitor, who departed this life June 30, 1812. This tablet was erected by his clients as a token of gratitude and respect for his honest, faithful and friendly conduct to them throughout life. Go, reader, and imitate Hobson Judkins." To be sure, that was a good long time ago.—Law Notes.

Worth Knowing.

That open air exercise, preferably some definite work or play is an excellent beautifier and that exercise in a room is better than none at all. That fatty foods are heat producers and should be used sparingly during warm weather if one would keep cool. That golden grain belt beer is unequalled as a food- tonic and a preventive of nervousness and indigestion, makes rich red blood and rebuilds wasted tissues. State News.

R. M. Hoagland, electrical engineer, of the class of '07 at the university of Minnesota, was drowned Friday at Canyon Ferry, Mont. He was a resident of Minneapolis.

Hail stones measuring ten and a half inches in circumference killed a number of sheep, hogs and chickens in the vicinity of New Prague last week.

All money spent from the state road and bridge fund must be used for permanent work, and not for repairs. A resolution to this effect was passed Thursday at the regular meeting of the state highway commission.

The grand jury reported to Judge Brown that the Hennepin county jail "is unsafe, unsanitary and a disgrace to the county. We believe that the proper authorities should condemn it as an unfit place to confine human beings."

Emily Diegle, the former St. Paul girl whose parents kidnapped her from St. Clement's school in Duluth, where she was preparing for the sisterhood, and who escaped from her home in St. Paul shortly afterward, has taken the veil at the Duluth cathedral. She has become Sister Barroema of the Benedictine sisterhood. With Miss Diegle fifteen other girls took the veil.

Loans from the state school fund amounting to $150,000 have been authorized by the state board of investment. The following were for school buildings and municipal purposes: St. Charles, $21,000; Carver, $15,000; Madison, $41,000; Granite Falls, $14,000; Henning, $12,000. Three counties got loans for drainage purposes. Kittson county took $15,000. Lincoln county $12,000 and Isanti county $5,050.

Excavation for the foundation of the new Catholic pro-cathedral to be located in Minneapolis will commence in a few days. The plans for the building have been completed. They call for an expenditure of $750,000. The building committee, however, is of the opinion that the structure will cost a million and a quarter before it is finished. The foundation will cost $100,000. It will probably be the most costly church in the northwest.

After deliberating about twelve hours, the jury in the case of the State against Keaton Willis, tried for killing his father at Grand Rapids, returned a verdict of not guilty, and the boy was discharged from custody. The verdict did not surprise those who have been following the trial, the evidence going to show there was justification, the defendant having acted to protect his mother and sisters when he shed his parent's blood. Young Willis expected a verdict of acquittal, and was not surprised at the outcome of the case.

Union Soldiers of German Birth.

A press dispatch from Washington gives this information:

Since the end of the civil war many of the veteran union soldiers of German birth have drifted back to the mother country, where they are spending the declining days of their life in comparative comfort maintained on the pensions allowed them by the American congress. Most of the men were naturalized as American citizens before they returned to Germany. They are greatly perturbed over the enactment of the last session of congress of the new citizenship law, fearing the loss of their acquired naturalization.

Inquiry at the state department developed a statement from Gaillard Hunt, chief of the citizenship bureau, one time called the passport bureau. Mr. Hunt declared that no genuine American citizen—that is to say, no person of native birth and no one who acquired American citizenship with legitimate purposes, need have any apprehension that he will suffer under the new law. Said he:

"It will separate the sheep from the goats and the sheep will have better protection. The man that will have cause to fear the law is he who became naturalized in this country with the deliberate purpose of returning to the country of his origin to live and to engage in business permanently and to secure thereby exemption from military service and other liabilities of native citizenship."

Frustrated in Her Purpose.

When the lady from next door called to complain of Tommy for the persecution to her pet cat she found the youthful offender sitting on the front steps.

"I want to see your father!" she exclaimed.

"You can't see father now," the boy replied.

"I shall see him instantly," the lady insisted, advancing.

"All right," the little fellow agreed, opening the door and slipping out of arm's length. "Walk right upstairs. You'll find pa in the bath."—Lippincott's.

Disastrous Explosion on the Georgia.
Eight officers and seamen of the new battleship Georgia are dead as a result of the explosion of two 100-pound cases of powder on the vessel at 10 a. m. Monday, while at target practice in Massachusetts bay, off Providence.

Fourteen other men—one of them a line officer—were terribly injured in the disaster, and several of them are dying.

The explosion took place in a superimposed turret and the damage to the ship was confined to that inclosure. It is not serious.

The injured men are at the naval hospital at Chelsea.

The explosion occurred in the after superimposed turret, where the men, under command of Lieutenant Casper Goodrich, son of Rear Admiral Goodrich, commandant of the New York navy yard, and Midshipmen Faulkner Goldthwaite and John Thomas Cruise, were operating the eight-inch guns.

The guns in the forward turrets had finished eight rounds of practice and the guns of the after turret had fired one round. Two cases, as the big 100-pound bags of powder are called, had just been sent up through the ammunition hoist, and were in the arms of the loader, whose name is withheld. The loader stood at the breach of one of the eight-inch guns ready to insert the charge.

At this moment the turret was seen to be smoky, and two men who stood near the loader saw a black spot on the bag, indicating that the charge had ignited and was smouldering.

The loader discovered the spot at the same instant and threw himself forward on his face, at the same time shouting a warning to his turret mates. The other men who had seen the spot were Eich and Hansell, and they also threw themselves on the floor of the turret.

Before the other men in the turret could understand what caused the loader's cry of warning, there was a blinding flash as the burning powder exploded. Flames, smoke and nauseous gasses filled the little superstructure, in which more than a score of men were confined. Inasmuch as the powder was not confined, there was no deafening report, but every nook and cranny of the turret was filled with flame.

Out of Work.

One of the senators from Georgia tells of a darky in that state who sought work at the hands of a white man. The latter inquired whether the negro had a boat. Upon being answered in the affirmative, he said:

"You see that drift wood down the stream?"

"Yassah."

"Then," continued the other, "row out into the river and catch it. I'll give you half of what you bring in."

The darky immediately proceeded to do as instructed and for a while worked hard. Then, of a sudden, he ceased to labor and pulled for the shore.

"What's the trouble?" asked the employer.

"Look hyar, boss," said the darky indignantly, "dat wood is jest as much mine as yours. I ain't gwine to give yo' any. So I's outer work again!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

To My Farmer Friends.

I have accepted the agency for the Acme Harvesting Machine Company. This Company is NOT in the TRUST. The Acme machines have several superior points which no other machines have and they are fully as durable as any machine made and very easy running. No side draft.

If you contemplate buying a rake, mower, binder or stacker be sure to see these excellent machines before you buy. They are fully guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or no sale. I will pay your mileage to my place at Long Siding to examine the machine if they are not as I represent them. I can save you quite a little money. Cash or will sell on time. Repairs always on hand. Call and see me. Yours very truly,

The Flea Pest of California.

Will Mirick, who recently returned from California, where he had been employed, says that unless a man has a hide like a pachyderm it is impossible for him to live in peace on the coast in consequence of the myriads of fleas which there abide. Will avows that these fleas make life a burden, that the sand is alive with them, the beds full of them, and that every man, woman and child carries around more of them than Louis Larson's spaniel. "There is no remedy," says Will. "Insect powder has no effect on them and an application of asafetida to a person's epidermis increases their biting propensities. Fleas! I fancy I feel them now!"
