FIRST TO JOIN THE SERVICE

Stockholm's Oldest Messenger Boy Has Recently Celebrated His 80th Birthday.

SWEDEN.

Stockholm.

Stockholm's oldest "messenger boy" celebrated his 80th birthday Sept. 20. His name is Magnusson and his headquarters have been on the corner of Mastersamuel street for forty-four years. When the so-called statsbud service—rather the messenger service—was introduced in the city in 1863, he was the first one to join and he has remained faithfully in the service ever since. He is the nestor among Stockholm messengers and the wonder of it is that he is still in active service and able to attend to his duties. A Stockholm "statsbud" carries all manner of packages, trunks, etc., to the destination ordered and the old man can still take a heavy trunk on his back and carry it up a flight of stairs. He is the father of eight children and has one son 45 years old, who also follows the same vocation.

The rumor that the Grand Duchess Maria Pavlovna's marriage to Prince Wilhelm will take place this year has been given a fresh impetus by the report that the duchess has employed a Swedish instructor and is now studying the Swedish language and Swedish history. It is believed that the wedding will take place during the Russian Easter, which is celebrated in May, and that the Russian ceremony will be held in St. Petersburg and the Swedish one in Stockholm. The duchess will be accompanied to Stockholm by her brother, the Grand Duke Dimitri.

Age is beginning to tell very plainly on King Oscar, although he has gained his health temporarily. He resumed the reins of government last June, when he celebrated his fiftieth wedding anniversary. Therefore the cabinet meetings at the royal palace are comparatively tame affairs. The old king becomes easily tired nowadays and his memory has failed him somewhat. Crownprince Gustaf is taking more part in government affairs every day. The latter has just returned from Germany, where he attended his father-in-law's funeral.

Rear Admiral Otto Lagerberg, commander of the armored cruiser Karlskrona, died a week ago last Friday in Stockholm. He was born June 22, 1827, and was commander of the Vanadis, which made a trip around the world in 1886-87 with Prince Oscar Bernadotte aboard.

Foreign Minister Trolle and the Russian foreign minister, Iswolsky, had a long conference in Karlstad last Friday. Just what the conference involved is not known, but it is thought that the boundary dispute between Finland and Sweden was the matter discussed.

In Copenhagen it is declared that the Swedish yachtsmen who desire to challenge for the America's cup are ready to accept the conditions under which Shamrock III sailed off Sandy Hook. It has been decided to build the Swedish challenger entirely of wood.

Electric bells have been placed in the Johannes church in Stockholm. They were manufactured in Essen, Germany, are made of pure steel and are three in number. Such church bells have also been placed in the church tower of the Storkyrkan.

Carnegie & Co.'s sugar refineries in Gothenburg have been sold to the sugar trust, which assumed complete control of its affairs Oct. 1. Carnegie & Co. were incorporated in Gothenburg with a capital stock of 10,000,000 crowns.

The "Blue Book," August Strindberg's latest book, which was placed on the market Sept. 12, is a huge success, both from a literary standpoint and financially speaking. The first edition has already been sold out.

Hotels Germania and Bellevue, near Gustaf Adolf Square, were consolidated Oct. 1 and will be known from now on as the Germania hotel. Plans are under way for erecting a new building next summer.

Professor J. Borjesson has tendered his resignation as professor of figure drawing at the academy of Liberal Arts in Stockholm. Professor Borjesson contemplates spending the winter in Paris.

Sweden will send a large delegation of athletes, runners, swimmers and wrestlers to the Olympic games, which will be held in London next year.

A. Karigren has been chosen president of the Upsala Students' Male Chorus. The chorus has now 108 members.

NORWAY.

Christiana.

It is not at all unlikely that the Social Democrats of Scandinavia are destined to exert considerable influence upon the solution of the military questions discussed by The Hague conference. About 400 representative Social Democrats from Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland, have just closed a conference at Kristiania which was closely watched by the public men of Scandinavia, those 400 men representing an army of 500,000 Social Democrats. A full report of the convention has not reached us at this writing. But a very important movement has been reported by wire. Those members of the convention who are also members of the legislative assemblies of the Scandinavian countries resolved to act in unison against military motives in the legislatures, to urge their governments to establish reliable treaties with all powers and to have all international controversies settled by arbitration. The Social Democrats of the different Scandinavian countries will no doubt be in closer touch with each other after this convention than they have been in the past.

Norwegian government officials like those of Sweden, are at present considerably worried about agents who come from America to induce Norwegians to settle in the far west of the United States. Their presence in Norway has occasioned much bitter comment and the Norwegian government is doing all in its power to contravert their operations. The government furnishes retaliatory methods in sending Colonel Magnus to the United States and a noteworthy feature about this entire procedure is the ruling of Attorney General Bonaparte in the case of the state of Louisiana, which has been soliciting emigrants. The question of one country soliciting emigrants from the other is becoming pertinent and will soon be an international question which must be settled by a court of arbitration at no distant date.

For a long time there has been much agitation in church circles in Norway regarding the establishment of a private theological seminary and it now seems to be only a question of time. The prospects are that the necessary means will be forthcoming without any extraordinary efforts. The church people are becoming enthusiastic over the proposition. Several persons have subscribed from $25 to $250 a year for running expenses. In a short while an appeal will be published by bishops, preachers and laymen. The new faculty is to consist of Professor Odland, Rev. Hognest and a third man, whose name cannot yet be announced. Rev. Dahle has been suggested as the third man, but he does not want to give up his work as secretary of the foreign missions.

The South Varanger company, which bought the Anker iron ore fields on the Pasvig peninsula, in northern Norway, has secured a loan from the Norddeutsche bank of Hamburg and the Disconto bank of Berlin of 12,000,000 crowns ($3,000,000). The capital is to be increased from 5,000,000 crowns ($1,250,000) to 10,000,000 crowns ($2,500,000). The mines will be fully worked and by 1910 it is calculated that the annual production will be between 600,000 and 900,000 tons of concentrate and briquets containing 65 per cent. of iron of high quality. Special steamers of 8,000 tons each will be built by the Norwegian owners.

A new strike, involving about 4,000 workmen, threatens to break out in Christiania at any minute at the sawmills at Fredriksstad. At last reports an attempt at arbitration between the conflicting parties was strongly pressed and a prolonged labor conflict may thus be averted.

Mrs. Adeline Hagerup, mother of Mrs. Edvard Grieg, died at Bergen a few days ago aged 94 years. Mrs. Grieg is the wife of the late composer, whose funeral was held in Christiania about three weeks ago. Mrs. Grieg's mother died only a few days afterward.

Hotel Skandinavia in Christiania and five adjoining houses were destroyed by fire a week ago Tuesday. The loss entailed is estimated at $100,000.

Norway's envoy in Havana, M. J. Brunchorst, has been appointed minister of agriculture to succeed R. D. Lehmkuhl, who has resigned.

DENMARK.

Copenhagen.

A few months ago, just before the Dowager Empress Dagmar and Queen Alexandra arrived at the new summer palace of Hvidovre, a young German named Niesigh, who for half a year had been employed in a bakery close to the palace, was arrested as a dangerous anarchist. He was sent to Germany and told not to return. Oct. 4 the police received a telegram announcing that Niesigh was on his way to Copenhagen on the continental express. At the station Niesigh was arrested by four detectives and taken to prison. The police are sure that the man intended to return to Hvidovre to utilize his acquaintance there. The royal military guard and the secret service have been strengthened in consequence.

The fuel problem has become so important that the authorities have collected materials for ascertaining the volume of peat in the bogs of Denmark. A general estimate puts the area of the bogs at 500,000 acres, and the peat that may be used for fuel at 300,000,000 tons. This is equal to about 150,000,000 tons of coal. If Denmark reduces her coal import to one-half, and uses peat in place of the other half, her peat bogs will last fifty years. More exact investigations will soon be made.

The czar of Russia has personally cabled to the Danish builders of his yacht his compliments and thanks for the excellent and solid construction of the Standart. He said in his message that if the royal yacht had been less strongly built it would certainly have sunk when it struck the rocks in the Gulf of Finland.
