Job Printing and Job Printing

THERE are two kinds of Job Printing—that which is neat and artistic and that which possesses neither of these qualities. The Princeton Union makes it a point to turn out none but the former kind, and the Union finds this easy because it has the type, machinery and skilled labor with which to accomplish it.

Nothing Looks Worse Than Botched Job Printing.

It is a drawback to the business of a merchant or anyone else who uses it. Botched Job Printing suggests loose methods. Then why not use the kind printed by the Union? It costs you no more and gives the public a good impression of your business. The Princeton Union is prepared to execute every description of at short notice and nominal prices. If you are in need of letterheads, noteheads, billheads, statements, cards, posters, programs, wedding invitations or any other work in the printing line, an order for the same placed with the Union will insure its being produced in an attractive and up-to-date style.

EXPLORER HEDIN IN THIBET

Tells of Visit to the Holy Lake and the Discovery of a Great Mountain Range.

SWEDEN.

Stockholm.

Dr. Sven Hedin, who will surely come to America to lecture and whose coming is awaited with pleasure by all who are interested in geographical explorations, has not yet been able to give us much of an idea of what he has seen during his last trip into the Asiatic interior, but to a friend in Stockholm he has related the following brief but interesting account of his latest achievement: "Two thousand miles of mountains, a pass 90,000 feet high and a lake of singular beauty, were my recent discoveries in Thibet. It may sound strange when one considers how thoroughly the world has been explored that at this late day it should be possible for any one to practically discover a mountain range 2,000 miles long. Such a discovery cannot be made again, for there is now no unexplored space on the globe big enough to contain another such mountain chain. I have named it after its highest peak, Tin Chen Tangla. I went down and camped by the holy lake Manasawar, the most early and most famous of all the lakes in the world, the goal of thousands of Hindu pilgrims, a lake which has been celebrated in religious hymns since the time of the Vedas. I was often near weeping for joy at the sight of this wonderful landscape of surpassing grandeur, and I cherish a secret hope to be able some day to describe it in words for others, to be able in my insignificance to utter a feeble and faltering word of praise to the Almighty. I have no words in which to describe it. To my dying day I never shall forget it. Shut in between two of the greatest mountain chains of the world, Kalas in the north and Gurla Manochata in the south, stretches the holy lake, almost round in form and nearly twenty-five kilometers in diameter." This is merely giving the reader a faint idea of what will be forthcoming in Dr. Hedin's book, which of course will be published in all the modern languages of the world.

A Dane by the name of Evjolfsson, aged about twenty-two, committed suicide the other day while apparently enjoying an auto ride out on Strandvagen. He stopped his machine and a sudden, drew a revolver and fired a shot into his head, which killed him almost instantly. No one seems to know the cause of the terrible act on the part of this young man, who seemed to have lots of money and was, to judge from his dress, a man of refinement.

According to official reports, the English minister to Sweden, Sir J. Rennell Rodd, has been appointed minister to Rome and will be succeeded by the English minister at Teheran, Sir C. A. Spring-Rice. Mr. Spring-Rice is a descendant from an old English family and was born in 1859. He made his first diplomatic achievements at Washington, D. C., Tokio, Berlin and Constantinople. In 1900 he was appointed charge d'affaires at Teheran, and in 1903 he became secretary of the embassy at St. Petersburg.

The state church of Sweden held its annual convention in Stockholm a short time ago and clergymen from all parts of the country were present at the "church riksdag," which it has been characteristically called for a number of years. The appropriations made for various charity and missionary work, both home and foreign, amounted to about 45,000 crowns in round numbers.

Rents are outrageously high in Stockholm. For a suite of ten rooms a price varying from 2,500 to 6,000 crowns is asked, all according to the neighborhood in which they are located. The result is, of course, that a great many flats are standing empty and even people of means are commencing to register their complaints.

A recent telegram from London states that Dr. Sven Hedin, the explorer, has arrived at Simla, in British India, and that he is already on his way home to Sweden. It goes without saying that he will be accorded a magnificent reception when he arrives in Stockholm.

King Gustaf's moose hunt up around Hunneberg turned out to be very successful and he will continue the hunt there again in the very near future. The king and his party killed four moose and a big lot of small game.

Stockholm's oldest inhabitant, Johanna Berlins, celebrated her birthday Sept. 10. She was then 100 years old and is still enjoying the very best of health and is able to take a long promenade every day.

The city of Stockholm will during the next year spend not less than 3,000,000 for street improvements. This is the greatest sum that the city has ever expended during the course of one year.

A case of Asiatic cholera was found aboard the Finnish steamer "Tornea" when it landed in Stockholm a week from last Tuesday. The vessel was immediately quarantined.

Paul Isberg, governor of Stockholm's "Jan," died Sept. 10. He was a man of much executive ability and was for a number of years a valued member of Stockholm's school board. He was born in Lund in 1848 and graduated from Lund university in 1866.

Count Gustaf Sparre, speaker of the first chamber of the Swedish riksdag has tendered his resignation and will not be a candidate for re-election from the Vesternorrland district.

NORWAY.

Christiania.

Aseheoug & Co. have commenced to publish the history of Norway in six volumes. It commences with Professor Sar's History of the Sverdrup ministry, 1884-89. The period between 1539-1600 will be treated by Yngvar Nielson. Axel Bugge will treat the Viking age, Ebbe Hertzberg the Christian saga times, Professor Taranger the middle age, Dr. Oscar Albert Johnson the monarchical period up to 1814 and Ernst Sares will devote himself to the period beginning 1814 and ending in 1895. This magnificent undertaking has aroused much interest among historians all over the country and is expected to be completed in 1914. It will be illustrated by Konservator Visted, who will make a thorough investigation of all Norwegian libraries and museums for proper material. It is a big undertaking, but every one seems to have faith in the company which has undertaken the work and believe that they can handle the proposition successfully.

The minister of justice has appointed a commission to work out a plan of compulsory arbitration in labor disputes, and at the same time deal with the right of organization. As stated before, Norway has lately been cursed by all manner of strikes and boycotts and a demand for compulsory arbitration to adjust the differences of labor and capital have arisen. One of the members of the commission, which was appointed in accordance with a royal decree, is Dr. Einar Einarson, of the University of Copenhagen, who is expected to take hold of the work in earnest.

Mme. Gyda Christensen, while taking the leading part in the "Merry Widow" at a Bergen theater the other evening, accidentally sprained her ankle, but played her part through just the same. When she had finished her parts she fainted and was taken to a hospital, where the physicians in charge of her case forbid her to make an appearance on the stage until she will be perfectly well.

There have been quite a few cases of smallpox in Christiania lately and the existence there of the dreaded disease has alarmed the health authorities, who have, however, taken every precautionary action possible. At the latest writing they have all the cases under complete control and hope to stamp out the disease entirely.

Up to August 31st, this year, there were 97,600 barrels of Norwegian herring salted and exported to foreign countries. This shows a slight falling off in the herring business as compared with the year of 1906, during which period there were 118,000 barrels salted and shipped.

Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria of England are at present in Christiania, the guests of the royal family. They were later joined by the dowager empress of Russia, who will make an extended visit in Norway and will make a tour among the fjords this fall.

During the first half of the present year the United States sent postal money orders to Norway amounting to 4,500,000 crowns. On the other hand Norway sent in postal money orders to the United States about 425,000 crowns.

Gustav Nielson, the eminent pianist, who has spent the past ten years in Berlin and Edinburgh, has now returned to Norway and settled in Trondhjem, where he will do concert work and give instruction.

The main building of the Trondhjem exposition has been sold to the executive committee of the Bergen exposition, which is already getting busy for the big Bergen fair, which will be held there in 1910.

The late Madame Astrup has presented the National Art Gallery, Tideman's "Sinclair's Landing" and Gude's "Fanestrand." The two paintings are valued at 50,000 crowns.

Mme. Dybwad has received the king's medal in gold for her interpretation of dramatic art.

DENMARK.

Copenhagen.

A dispatch states that the Christensen cabinet has resigned but that the king has requested the members to remain in office until the riksdag convenes. The direct cause of the cabinet crisis is the $2,000,000 embezzlement of which Alberti, a former member, was found guilty.

The Danish East India company has sold its ships to an English concern, which has recently been organized with a capital of $620,000. The English company will maintain a branch office at Copenhagen and will have its main office in London.

The Alberti swindleries continue to be every man's topic and the unfortunate affair is far from settled. Depositors are clamoring for a rigid investigation and all efforts on the part of the government to hush up the whole matter have proven futile.

Gustaf Wied, a Danish playwright, has created a good deal of attention in Germany with a recent play of his and has contracted with German managers to produce six of his dramas during the coming season.

Stock Proof Gates

Hog Tight, Sheep Tight, Chicken Tight.

Iowa Gates can be hung close to the ground but will never drag because the outer end is adjustable. Hog tight mesh and stretchers on every wire. Gate fastened at both the top and bottom, plain strong hinges, no wearing parts. The Rolled Steel Tubing used in the frame instead of gas pipe makes them proof against any stock. "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link." Why not use Iowa gates to match your good fences? You will find them strong but easy to handle—convenient in summer and winter—will swing up hill or down hill as you wish. When you have time drop around and look over a sample gate all hung up.
