Isle Harbor has a farmers' club and once a month the members meet and discuss questions pertaining to their calling. It is a good idea. There should be more of such clubs.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wheat has advanced a couple of cents—No. 1 hard is quoted at 67 cents today.

The streets of Princeton are lively these days—and the roads are in splendid shape for sleighing.

Farmers continue to haul wheat to Princeton from far and near. Some of them come a distance of 28 miles.

Talking about hogs, A. C. Smith of Greenbush killed one the other day that weighed, when dressed, 624 pounds.

The familiar forms of Dan Rollins and Nelse Allen, the two well-known Minneapolis lumbermen, were here this week.

Mrs. Plummer is clerking at the Brick store and Andrew Umbehooker and Hazen Cravens are behind the counter at Byers'.

A force of eight carpenters arrived here on last evening's train to work on the new elevator and are quartered at the North Star hotel.

Princeton people can now ride out to civilization on the cars and are happy.—Star-News.

They will have to go beyond the confines of Elk River to get there.

Both the hotels have been crowded to their utmost capacity for several months past. If the Princeton hotel keepers have not made some money this year it is their own fault.

Hen Webster was in town last Saturday. He was the first lumberman to commence hauling logs on Rum river this season and had 200,000 feet banked last Friday evening.

George Taylor had the misfortune to get kicked by an ox the other day, and although he is quite lame he manages to be around without the aid of crutches. George is a gritty old fellow.

Two confidence men swindled seven greenies out of five dollars each in less than 20 minutes on Main street Monday afternoon. The greenies thought they could get ten dollars by investing five, but they didn't. Never bet on another man's game.

State News.

Seven were killed and several injured in this state during the hunting season which closed on November 30.

Dr. Judd Goodrich, connected since 1896 with the surgical staff of St. Luke's hospital, St. Paul, died suddenly at his home, 748 Linwood place, shortly after 7 a. m. on December 1. The cause of his death was heart failure.

Francis Marion Snyder, 61 years old, first secretary of the Minneapolis paid fire department, died on Sunday night at his residence, 600 Eleventh avenue S. E., and on Monday the flags on all fire stations were placed at half mast.

The hunting season in Minnesota for the year 1911 is closed. With the exception of rabbits, bear and other dangerous wild animals, everything is protected by state law, and the only amusement left for the sportsman is fishing through the ice.

The St. Cloud Typographical union is one of the few unions in the country which, when called upon to contribute toward the McNamara defense fund, refused. In speaking of the action one of the officers said: "Whether it was due to intuition I am at a loss to say. At all events, a sufficient number of members were not convinced of the sincerity of the McNamara brothers and they fought the apportionment for them with spirit."

Fix Up the Roads.

Dalbo, December 4, 1911.

Editor Union: You would greatly oblige by publishing the following letter:

It is almost impossible to go to town on account of the bad roads. They are so high, uneven and slanting that one team can scarcely pass another without tipping. I therefore suggest to my farmer friends that they disk and harrow the roads alongside their property. Make the road at least one rod wide. Most of you can fix the road alongside of your property by working three hours. Try it, brother farmers. It will greatly improve travel.

The Arabian Nights.

The genii sat in his rocky chair,
And he winked his upper eye,
While Aladdin rubbed the lamp so rare

For another wish to try.
"What would you have, celestial son?"

Quoth the genii, "Shall it be
A castle on the snowy Alps,
A palace o'er the sea?"

"No if you please," Aladdin cried,
"A thing I've wished for years—

A hammock by a cool lake side,
And golden grain belt beers."
