TRAPPED BY FIRE.

Driving Elephants to Their Death in the Dry Season in Africa.

In the heart of the African elephant country, from which comes the bulk of the world's ivory supply, I once saw the destruction of these huge beasts performed in a novel yet barbarous manner. It was a process that played upon the fear all animals have for fire.

When the Niam-Niam hunters—whose name, by the way, means "great eaters"—discover a herd of elephants they set out and beat the country for miles around, throwing a cordon about the herd and gradually closing in. Although the hunters are armed with old muzzle loading elephant rifles and carry a plentiful supply of ammunition, they always use the fire trap during the dry season.

As the herd is gradually driven together by the hundreds of hunters torches are passed around by the women and at a shrill blast from the war horns they are lighted. Another blast from the horns is the signal for the torches to be applied to the tall dry grass, and a writhing sea of flame soon encircles the doomed herd. Half a mile in diameter is not an uncommon measure of the fire trap.

Roaring and crackling like volleys of musketry, the flames leap up and tend to burn inward upon the circle, and the poor elephants, who dare not face the flames, die from suffocation.

Then, when the fire has burned itself out, the Niam-Niam enter the trap of death, gorge themselves upon elephant meat and collect the ivory, which they bear to the trading stations. In exchange for their booty they receive the trinkets and gayly colored cloths that delight their hearts and after a time start once more off on the never ending ivory hunt.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

DOES HEREDITY EXIST?

If It Does It Has Never Been Proved. It is Claimed.

Is there such a thing as heredity? A father has blue eyes, and so has his son. Is there a special energy or force that did this? Suppose his son has brown eyes. Did heredity stop acting? Was it, so to speak, turned off? That is absurd. The forces which caused the boy's eyes in one case to be like the father's and in the next case unlike were the same. No one doubts that. No new force or energy had been introduced.

Heredity, therefore, is not a thing in itself. It has no existence, in fact. It denotes no constant actual living force. It is simply a noun derived from the adjective hereditary. Hereditary means handed down from parent to child, simply that and nothing more. An estate is hereditary. The brown eyes were as truly hereditary as the blue, no more, no less. As all life proceeds from life, all life in every detail is hereditary. Try to realize and be certain of this. It will prevent you from falling into errors. It is commonly said, for instance, that certain qualities are hereditary and others not. For instance, a genius suddenly appearing of commonplace progenitors is said not to be hereditary. But a genius is born, so he must be hereditary in the true sense; genius is not acquired.

Thus in common usage the word hereditary is abused and twisted into meaning something it does not mean—namely, a tendency in children to reproduce the more or less unusual qualities of parents. It is assumed that there is such a general tendency, but it has never been proved.—Atlantic.

Describing the Grand Canyon.

As for the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, it affects those who behold it with a kind of literary asthma. They desire to describe it; some try passionately, but they only wheeze and look as though they might explode. Since it is generally admitted that no one who has seen it can describe it the task would manifestly devolve upon some one who has not seen it and that requirement is filled by me. I have not seen it. I am not impressed by it at all. I am able to speak of it with coherence and restraint. But even that I shall not do.—Julian Street in Collier's Weekly.

Fond Recollections.

"Speaking of old times," said a member of the Reminiscence club. "I can remember when a waiter would say 'Thank you' out loud for a twenty-five cent tip."

"That's nothing," replied his companion. "I can remember when I would look at the list of dishes on a menu to see what I wanted instead of looking first at the prices to see what I could afford."—Washington Star.

Electric Currents.

Whether an electric current is alternating or direct may be determined by holding a magnet near an incandescent lamp burning in the circuit. If the current be alternating the filament will vibrate; if direct it will bend toward the magnet without vibrating.—Exchange.

A Timely Warning.

"I am really very much afraid of infection."

"Then you had better not read the book you have just taken."

"Why not?"

"I am told it contains some germs of thought."—Baltimore American

Strategy.

"Now, I'm not going to propose to her. I know she'll reject me."

"Propose by phone, and don't tell her who you are."—Houston Post.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

George Buok, George Young and Wesley Page are wrestling with la grippe this week.

F. C. Stamm has gone into the real estate business at West Superior. We hope Fred will make many ducats in Wisconsin dirt.

School Clerk Caley informs us that a large-sized American flag will soon be flying from the school house in this village. A good idea.

La grippe is raising Cain in the lumber camps. Hardly a crew in the Rum river pinneries has escaped. As far as can be learned no fatalities have occurred.

A. J. Olson, a Sioux Falls, S. D., lumber merchant, was in town yesterday. He was favorably impressed with Princeton and its surroundings and may conclude to go into business here.

Some people imagine that Messrs. McClellan, Patterson, Turner and Cater secured their claims at Mille Lacs lake without any trouble. Those who are perfecting their claims at present know better.

Henry Campbell of Minneapolis was in town a few hours Saturday morning but logging affairs in Morrison county demanded his immediate attention, and he could not spare time to call on his friends.

E. Southard and Dan Spaulding have gone to Maine on a visit to relatives. They are both good boys and the Union wishes them a pleasant sojourn among the Maineites and a safe return to Princeton.

A meeting of all those interested in having a starch factory in Princeton will be held at the village hall, Princeton, on Friday, January 31, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Farmers from the surrounding country are especially invited to be present.

Dell Pierson was badly bruised by a log rolling onto him at Woodman's camp yesterday. He was brought to town last evening, but the attending physician could not discover that any bones had been broken, although the young man was feeling pretty sore all over.

George Fuller, the special agent of the land department of the Manitoba company, is around, and he and the resident agent, Mr. J. T. D. Sadley, are making it hot for the poor devils who accidentally, of course, cut a few trees on a railroad forty. Fuller

OFFICIAL

Proceedings of Board of County Commissioners of Mille Lacs County.

Auditor's Office, Mille Lacs County, Minn. Princeton, January 19, 1915.

Board of county commissioners of Mille Lacs county met in special session pursuant to adjournment with Chairman Eckdall presiding and all members of the board present.

Meeting called to order at 10:45 a. m., by the chairman.

The report of the county attorney relative to the submitted plat of the townsite of Long Sliding was presented to the board, duly read and examined by the board and ordered placed on file with the auditor.

The annual report of fees of the following named county officials was presented to the board, duly examined and approved, to-wit: W. C. Doane, county auditor; John E. Peterson, court commissioner; C. C. Cater, county commissioner; Carl Eckdall, county commissioner; J. F. Warren, county commissioner.

The matter of state road No. 1, job No. 1 was then taken up by the board and was still under discussion by the board when the noon recess was taken.

Board reconvened at 1:30 p. m. with all members of the board present.

The board again took up the discussion of the state road No. 1 job No. 1 contract of the Walton-Corr Contracting company and the matter was thoroughly threshed out from all possible viewpoints. The contractor was represented at the hearing by Mr. Corr, a member of the firm, and their attorney, and the state highway commission was represented by Assistant Engineer R. M. Cooley. Although no official action was taken in the matter it was agreed by all interested parties that at the next meeting of the county board the contractor would present a formal application for an extension of time in which to complete the contract and that the proper arrangements would be made for orduroying the north end of the job so that the contract could be completed this coming summer.

Moved and unanimously carried that pursuant to section 981, G. S. 1913, the compensation of the county surveyor be fixed at $5 per day for any public work.

In the matter of the John G. Grant school petition, in which he asks to have his lands set off from school district 18 and attached to school district 33, the board appointed February 16th, 1915, at the auditor's office in the village of Princeton, as the time and place for a hearing on said petition.

No bills were taken up by the board, owing to lack of time, and on motion the board adjourned until February 16th, 1915.

CARL ECKDALL,
 Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Mille Lacs County, Minnesota.
 Attest:
 W. C. DOANE, County Auditor and Ex-Officio Clerk of Board. (Official Seal)
