TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Farmers are all busy haying and harvesting and the streets of our village present a deserted appearance this week.

Editorial: No more secret ballots in republican state conventions. The man who is afraid to vote openly and above board is out of place in any convention.

How much of a bonus could be raised in Princeton for a first-class modern flour mill? If anything is to be done this year it is high time that those who are interested were about it.

J. H. Townsend and L. W. Pierson went to St. Paul Tuesday to select a stock of merchandise for their new cash store. They expect to be ready to serve customers by the latter part of next week.

Joseph Hickman bid adieu to his many Princeton friends last Saturday and departed for the west. Mr. Hickman is an enterprising young man and had established a good paying business here.

Campbell & Woodcock's brickyard north of town is bound to be a paying venture. The quality of brick manufactured is A. No. 1, and the supply of clay is practically inexhaustible. The Union will give its readers a detailed account of this valuable enterprise at an early date.

Manager Chadbourne informs us that he shipped 4,600 pounds of butter from the creamery last night to Boston, New York and Helena. Perhaps the croakers will sneer, but it is a fact all the same, Princeton creamery butter takes the cake everywhere. A Boston man writes: "Ship our firm every pound of butter you make. We will guarantee to pay you a cent a pound above highest market quotations." A New York firm telegraphs: "The butter market is glutted but we want every pound you make."

Foreston Correspondence: A war cloud trembles upon the horizon. The village council and the supervisors of the town of Milo glare at each other and hurl defiance from their respective fortifications. Soon we may expect to be in the midst of strife and it behooves everyone to go armed to the teeth. The old trouble about road work has about broken out afresh. The town of Milo supervisors evidently do not understand their business and are ripe to cause trouble. Some steps should be taken to compel them to do their duty and straighten this matter out.

Spencer Brook Correspondence: Walker Bros. will send to the state of Washington for a pack of hounds to protect their flock of sheep. Wolves are increasing at a fearful rate in this county and unless something is done to drive them out or destroy them, sheep and poultry raising will be something of the past. All flocks of sheep have to be corralled nights and in some cases guarded in the pastures during the day. The next legislature should not fail to raise the bounty on wolves so as to make it profitable to hunt them and thereby do something to help the farmers or those who desire to devote their time to sheep raising.

Hon. D. M. Clough of Minneapolis came up Tuesday to look over his blooded stock at Spencer Brook, and returned again this morning. Mr. Clough has purchased 120 acres of land adjoining the old homestead in Spencer Brook, he has also employed George Patten and a large force of men to clear up and fence the whole 500 acres. It is Mr. Clough's ambition to have one of the best herds of blooded stock in Minnesota, and he has the means to gratify the ambition. Isanti county is to be congratulated on having such a man as D. M. Clough identified with its interests—in a few years he will pay more taxes than half a dozen men in that county. Is it any wonder that whole-souled Dave Clough is popular in this section of the state?
