At the end of the busy year, full of effort and struggle, comes the season when we forget the trials and welcome opportunities; when we count our friends and find them many; when we choose for them remembrances, not hastily and because of their cost, but because of the pleasure they will bring. Then we realize to the full that life is worth living, because for once it is unselfish.

This store is ready to play its part during the days that lie between now and Christmas eve. Gifts are here for your choosing.
