BROOKS PATENT Concrete Stave Silo

THE BEST—BECAUSE—

It is a permanent, air-tight, water-tight structure. It is Wind, Fire, Acid, Rot, Vermin and Disease-proof. Its walls are rigid, perfectly smooth, and form a true circle as staves are curved to fit the circumference. Expansion and contraction of steel and concrete are the same—it does not shrink, swell or warp. No tightening of hoops, painting or rebuilding as with wood silos.

FIRST COST—ONLY COST

See our Sample Silo at Hunt's Feed Stable Main Street, Princeton. A postal will bring us to see you personally. If you intend building a Silo, give our proposition a thorough investigation.

SAMPLES ALSO AT FOLEY, MILACA, MORA and CAMBRIDGE.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Bankrupt stocks are no go in Princeton. That game has been played too often.

Our citizens should subscribe liberally to the building fund of the German church.

A. B. Chadbourne has returned from his western trip and will resume his duties at the depot this week.

Plenty of moisture. A little too much to suit the farmers at this season of the year. Little or no seeding has been done in this vicinity yet.

G. I. Nickerson was around here with a box of cigars, Monday, asking all his friends to smoke to the health of his baby boy. Long life to the boy. Married, at the residence of the bride's father in Greenbush, by Rev. W. J. Warner, Mr. George Vance to Miss Dora Carter. Bless you, my children.

Lemuel Proctor and his ponies bid good-bye to Princeton today. Mr. Proctor will ship his horses to Chicago, then he will make an overland trip through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Professor Schmidt of the German Lutheran college at Afton was in Princeton Monday. He was very favorably impressed with the town and may conclude to move the college to this place.

We are pleased to note that Mr. T. H. Caley is considerably better this week, but he is still confined to his room. Tom has had a hard seige and the injury he sustained on his groin will trouble him for some time to come.

Although Mr. Jesmer will be absent from Princeton for a couple of months, business will be conducted at his store as usual, and customers will be treated as courteously as if he were present in person. Messrs. Thomas Scheen and Dan Spaulding and Miss Maggie Scanlan will be on hand to promptly serve all callers.

Postmaster Head has been bothered of late owing to a shortage of postage stamps. He has, after a months delay, a fresh supply from Washington, and hereafter he will take good care to order three months in advance.

A number of settlers from the north end of the county left on Tuesday evening for Taylors Falls to prove up on their claims. Register Gottry will have his hands full for a few days, as there are a good many contests and there will be considerable tall swearing.

Milaca correspondence: A meeting was called last Thursday evening to take some definite action in regard to incorporation. About 150 voters were present and it was unanimously decided to incorporate. A census of the town is now being taken, and in a few days the county commissioners will be asked to name a day upon which the voters of our town may take action upon the subject. Our town has now about 800 inhabitants and it is high time we incorporated.

Mille Lacs Lake correspondence: There is a man coming around here and no one knows even his name, but from the great interest he takes in the settlers and their improvements he is supposed to be a government agent.

"Mike, ye're drunk."
"Ye lie, Casey! Ye wouldn't dare to spake that way if Oi war sober."
"If ye war sober, ye'd have sinse enough to know ye war drunk."—Boston Transcript.
