Literal.

A London wholesale provision house, which prides itself on filling all orders correctly, received a letter from a provincial customer recently, complaining bitterly of the very poor quality of the last two lots of eggs supplied.
 The reputation of the house for never making an error seemed to be at stake, but the bright mind of the junior partner found a way out of it. He wrote:
 "Gentlemen: We are sorry to hear that our consignment did not suit you; there was, however, no mistake on our part. We have looked up your original order, and find that it reads as follows: 'Rush fifty boxes eggs. We want them bad.'"—Tit-Bits.

Difference in Locality.

"Pa, what's the difference between a patriot and a jingo?"
 "A patriot, my son, is one whose bosom swells with pride of his country, while in a jingo the swelling appears in his head."

What They Are There For.

General James Parker, commander of the military zone in which the Minnesota boys are located, gives three reasons for the mobilization of the militia—protection of the border, necessity of exercising diplomatic pressure and preparedness.

Here is General Parker's statement as published in a little paper issued by the Minnesota troops at Llano Grande:
 "The question is now being asked by many men of the state troops here in camp, 'What are we here for?' It is well that an answer be made to this question, and that it be kept in mind by all. The government and the people of the United States certainly appreciate the sacrifices that are being made by officers and men of the state troops in performing this service. They have left homes and families. They have left important positions. They have come to a hot and sometimes disagreeable climate.
 "But they should feel that what they are doing is not being done in vain, that they are rendering to this country a wonderful service, that they should be thanked and are being thanked by the people of the United States for patriotic service done the country.
 "What is this service? In the first place, this country was and is still threatened by war. The conditions on the other side of the Rio Grande are worse than they have ever been before. Villa is still at large. He is likely to make another raid. The temper of the American people becomes more and more impatient. The people are realizing that the prestige of the country is suffering. Unforeseen situations are constantly occurring and some of these situations may demand action.
 "It is therefore apparent that this army may be of service as a fighting force. It is therefore apparent that it should become prepared. That the officers and men should be fully trained. This can only be accomplished by long hours of drill each day and by enthusiastic work.
 "Secondly, if it is desired to exercise diplomatic pressure, the existence of a large armed force is necessary.
 "It goes without saying that this armed force should be well trained in drills, because these bring about discipline and prompt obedience to commands. It should be drilled in target practice in order that when it goes into battle its fire would be formidable. A soldier who cannot shoot is not half a soldier.
 "It should be drilled in marching, in order that troops may be concentrated quickly at important points, that our army may be able to pursue the enemy and defeat it. It should be trained in camping and all the various duties of the soldier in camp, sanitation, cooking and the care of arms, equipment, etc., in order that it may always be ready for duty, and in order that it may move in campaigns without confusion.
 "The fact that the weather is hot or wet, that the camps are dusty or muddy, prepares the troops for the inevitable conditions of a campaign, and for the hardships that the troops may have to undergo. It is well, therefore, that troops should become hardened and accustomed to undesirable conditions such as these.
 "Thirdly, we are here because this is the greatest step toward preparedness the United States has ever taken. We are training men, and especially officers, for future wars. In case of any great war we will need an immense army of millions of fighting men, and to train them we will need tens of thousands of officers and non-commissioned officers as drill masters.
 "The national guard is a school for officers of volunteers or of our conscript army. It is to the national guard largely that we must look for the men with military training who are to whip our millions of conscripts into shape."

THE BEST PROOF

Princeton Citizens Cannot Doubt It. Doan's Kidney Pills were used—They brought benefit.
 The story was told to Princeton residents.
 Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is from this locality. The Proof convincing.
 Mart Dunning, Cambridge, Minn., says: "I had an extreme lameness in my back and I used Doan's Kidney Pills. I soon knew that I had at last found something that would remove the lameness. I got a great deal of relief, too, from dizziness and my kidneys were fixed up in good shape."
 A Permanent Cure.
 More than two years later Mr. Dunning said: The cure Doan's Kidney Pills gave me has been permanent. I still highly endorse them.
 Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dunning has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO!

Small grain will be mostly all harvested in this vicinity by the latter part of this week.
 Another case of diphtheria is reported in Mr. Schilling's family in the eastern end of Princeton township.
 The corn crop and late potatoes will be everlastingly ruined if the present hot dry weather continues much longer.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Goss and family are up from Anoka on a visit to Mrs. Goss' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goulding.
 The Pine City boys downed the Anokas at Pine City Sunday by a score of 9 to 6. The Pine City chaps must have a strong nine.
 Prof. Rafferty, the gentleman who has been engaged to take charge of the village schools for the ensuing year, came up from St. Paul yesterday afternoon.
 We venture the assertion that if ever the county seat of Mille Lacs county is moved from Princeton it will be removed to Mille Lacs lake and not to Milaca.
 Mr. George McFarland of Greenbush, this county, has forwarded to the Union office samples of oats and wheat raised on his farm that cannot be expelled. Wheat and oats will yield big in Mille Lacs county this year.
 A woman at Ground House attempted to commit suicide last Tuesday evening by the "rough-on-rats" route. She swallowed so much of the stuff that it acted as an antidote and she will recover.
 Walt Dibblee and others are interested in a new road to be laid out on the section lines between sections 24 and 25 in Princeton, and sections 19 and 30 in Wyannett. The towns boards of Princeton and Wyannett will have to act jointly in the matter. The road is needed and the prayer of the petitioners should be granted.
 This vicinity is in luck this year. To be sure we have had long-continued dry spells, but the hail storms and big winds have given us the go-by. Portions of the neighboring counties of Sherburne, Benton and Stearns were devastated by severe hail storms last week. In places in Benton county hailstones as big as hen's eggs were piled 12 inches deep. Every growing crop in the path of the storm was literally pounded into the earth, and the grain in shocks was damaged beyond measure. This is the second destructive hailstorm in the vicinity of St. Cloud within the past two weeks.

A Protest.

I have been informed that a movement is being made to remove the hitching posts from our Main street. The same complaints were made several years ago and it was decided to allow no hitching of teams on the street. So vigorous a protest was made by the farmers that the posts were soon replaced. Within a month I have talked with a number of farmers regarding the matter and one and all object strongly to such a move. Princeton is strictly a farmers' town and if it will make it more convenient for those who trade in our town to have such hitching posts, let us by all means not remove them.

Will Sloan's Liniment Relieve Pain?

Try it and see—one application will prove more than a column claims. James S. Ferguson, Phila, Pa., writes: "I have had wonderful relief since I used Sloan's Liniment on my knees. To think after all these years of pain one application gave me relief. Many thanks for what your remedy has done for me." Don't keep on suffering, apply Sloan's Liniment where your pain is and notice how quick you get relief. Penetrates without rubbing. Buy it at any Drug Store. 25c. —adv.
