HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Princeton Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are weak. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Weak kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, suggest weak kidneys and warn you of the danger of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. In that case Doan's Kidney Pills have been endorsed by thousands. Here is a statement of a nearby resident:

A. V. Axtell, carpenter, Foley, Minn., says: "I suffered from a dull back-ache and pains through my hips. It hurt me to bend, stoop or lift and my back got lame and sore. The trouble was worse when I caught cold or did any hard work. Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right and gave me freedom from all the pains and aches."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Dr. Axtell had. Foster-Milburne Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

Dog Feeds Unfortunate Brother.
In all our experience with dogs—animals we have studied for a long period of time—the writer failed until recently to discover one which would feed an unfortunate brother. We have now found that very dog—Calvin Olson's "Curly"—and know from personal observation that the following story is beyond refutation:

"Curly," being a butcher's dog, lives on the fat of the land. All he has to do when hungry is to go to the scrap box and eat to his heart's content. This box usually contains more meat than half a dozen dogs could devour in so many meals.

Recently "Curly" became acquainted with an unfortunate touse-haired tramp—a despised yellow dog—a timid, quivering little fellow which had obviously been kicked around and otherwise ill-treated. It appeared to be afraid even of its shadow.

Our attention was first attracted to this poor dejected looking outcast as it stood outside Calvin Olson's meat market sniffing the atmosphere seemingly in expectation that some good Samaritan would cast it a bone.

Suddenly from the butcher shop emerged "Curly" with a big bone in his mouth. This he deposited in front of his friend on the edge of the sidewalk. But this was not all. From his cavernous mouth he disgorged pieces of beef, liver and other delicacies. Then he sat down and seemed to enjoy watching his destitute brother ravenously devour the meal he had furnished.

His hunger appeased, the tramp licked the face of his benefactor, and the two then enjoyed a little game of rolling one another in the street.

Mr. Olson's butcher, Dengil Oakes, tells us that this was merely one of "Curly's" stunts—that not a day passes when he fails to feed his particular friend, the tramp, but also provides other dogs with bones. And yet long-faced pietists will tell you that a dog possesses no soul.

Many a human being would do well to ponder over and follow the example set forth by this little black, curly-haired dog.

A German Professor on Peace.
The Stuttgart Neus Tageblatt prints a specimen announcement by a German democrat, described, "an eminent professor, a famous historian, and one of the foremost thinkers of Germany." This thinker addresses Germany's peace party thus:

"To hell with all of you! Are we at war or are we not? If you knew, you grunting swine, male and female, you twaddlers and whiners, you crowing cocks and cackling, moulting hens, if you knew what the army thinks of you, you would straightway ring each other's necks rather than face the wrath of the soldiers when they come home.

"Do you know what the soldier says about you? I will tell you. The men are out yonder, says the soldier, that is why the driedup mummies at home are allowed to wag their silly tongues and chatter of peace before we have beaten the dirty carcass of the enemy into pulp.

"Only wait, you brainless cattle, until the soldiers return from the slaughter of the foe. Then you will wish that you had been struck dumb, all of you, rather than to have talked your reasonable peace drive."

"As for your precious 'reforms,' they can wait, and so can you, until the soldiers come back. Who are you, after all? You are not the German people. The real German people are the soldiers who will whack you as they are whacking the enemy if you do not soon hold your tongues."—Boston Transcript.

Marriage Licenses.
The following marriage licenses have been issued by Clerk of Court Garrison:

November 23—Fred Earl Judkins of Baldwin and Willa Bell Brown of Princeton; Frank M. Stelmach and Mabel Strom, both of Onamia.

OPSTEAD

F. M. Grimm drove to Isle on Tuesday.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Lutheran church met at Aug. Haglund's home on Thursday afternoon.

Olof Wasenius visited the west school house, district 4, on Wednesday.

DISTRICT NO. 50

Mrs. Al Heath, son and daughter, and Mr. Wallace were callers at the Campbell home on Sunday.

The clover huller has been operating in this vicinity lately. Harry Craft got several bushels of clover and alfalfa. The seed crop is very light this year on account of the early frost.

There is now a new prospect of getting a county ditch through Cartwheel marsh into Battle brook, and it is thought by county officials that it will take most of the water off and be a great benefit to the county road.

That good buckwheat flour is all gone. We sold 1,000 pounds and there is still calls for more. A good product always finds a good market.

Walter Johnson came up from the cities Saturday for a few days visit at his home.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of Andrew Mattson. The family has our sincere sympathy.

The Willing Workers held a basket party in the brick school house on the Milaca road on Saturday evening.

Forty-one tubs of butter were shipped this week.

Women Are Stayers.

The conservation army is now being mobilized. And it is not one of the least important of the actual fighting forces of the war. The fact that it is largely composed of women does not detract from the value of its active energies in helping to win the war. On the contrary women, once heart and soul enlisted in a cause, never quit till the goal is won.—Baltimore American.

Sometimes women's complaints are imaginary; again they are a form of dreadful disease. In any event, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea has helped thousands of women. It has relieved their constipation. Women swear by it. 35c. C. A. Jack Drug Co. Adv.

Didn't Want His Sympathy.
A Jersey man of a benevolent turn of mind encountered a small boy in his neighborhood who gave evidence of having emerged but lately from a severe battle.

"I am sorry," said the man, "to see that you have a black eye, Sammy."

Whereupon Sammy retorted:
"You go home and be sorry for your own little boy—he's got two!"—Everybody's Magazine.
