National Repair Week

April 4 to 9

Save Delays and Expense for Telephones, Telegraph and Transportation Charges by Placing Your Repair Orders Early

The movement started during the war to induce early ordering of repairs so that machinery may be put in shape for use when needed has the endorsement of Farm Bureaus, County Agents, Agricultural Colleges and the Farm Press.

LOOK OVER MACHINERY NOW AND PLACE YOUR ORDERS DURING REPAIR WEEK FOR SUCH PARTS AS ARE SURE TO BE NEEDED.

We want to give you 100 per cent repair service, but to do so must have farmers' co-operation.

Mrs. Mose Brooks was in Elk River several days last week caring for her mother, Mrs. Parker. Mrs. Parker's many friends here will be glad to learn that she is improving and has been taken to Anoka to remain with her daughter, Mrs. Whitcomb.

The Easter services on Sunday were well attended considering the condition of the roads. A program was rendered by the Sunday school pupils which was very pleasing. Mrs. Rust and Mrs. Hanson sang a duet at the evening service. The church had been beautifully decorated in observance of the day.

The young people of the M. E. church will give a minstrel play in the corner store on Friday night, April 8. This promises to be exceptionally entertaining. There will be singing and music in which all the coons will take part. The play is being given for the benefit of the church. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend this pleasing production.

The many friends of Ruth Johnson of Minneapolis, who was married recently to Arthur Peterson of Meadowdale, extend their sincere good wishes for their happiness. Ruth Johnson lived in the vicinity of Zimmerman almost her entire life and is held in the highest esteem by all her friends. Her husband is an enterprising young farmer in Meadowdale, where the young people have started to keep house. They are worthy of the very best a happy wedded life affords.

Ethel Nash and Winton Peterson entertained the Social club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Nash last Wednesday evening. The rooms were tastefully decorated in yellow and white streamers, with pretty Easter favors and potted plants, including some beautiful Easter lilies. The business meeting was called to order by Rev. Clark, the new president. Ed. Hanson, the retiring treasurer, read the report for the year, while Miss Bishop read the by-laws according to the recent amendment. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pratt will entertain next time. Mr. Mose and Mrs. Kettleson being appointed a program committee. Mrs. Hurtt and Forest Brown then took charge and the following program was enjoyed: Instrumental selection, Miss Moss; reading, Mr. Mose; piano solo, Herman Bargobos; reading, Mrs. Berglund; recitation, Stella Schumacher; shadow picture, Henry Rust and Lew Stendahl; recitation, Miss Bishop. Numerous games and contests were entered into with considerable activity. A side show also formed a goodly part of the evening's performance, the chief attraction being the anteater, which became so nervous it had to be retired to its cage. The usual amount of good things that each time seem better than the time before were served the guests, and as has been the case a larger variety than the rules of the order allow, but every one heaped their plates regardless of rules, and the empty plates returned told their own tale of appreciation for the delicious lunch.

Zimmerman School Notes. The weather the first of the week made us study harder to forget the cold. The pupils are all looking forward to next week's vacation. The teachers need a rest, too. Lawrence Johnson has the largest number of stars for good department in the upper grades. The older pupils are carrying frowns around with them. Must be the state examinations that are bothering them.

Autos and Income Tax. That the possession of an automobile is no indication of the income of the owner is shown from a comparison of the number of automobile licenses with the number of income tax payers in the state as told by news items recently. Only one-third as many persons give income tax returns as own automobiles in Minnesota. If true and complete returns could be obtained the discrepancy would not be so great.—Hutchinson Leader.

CREAMERY MEETING.

Stockholders in Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Meet in Odd Fellows Hall—100 Present.

A hundred farmers in the vicinity of Zimmerman, who are members of the co-operative creamery company, met in the Odd Fellows hall on Tuesday afternoon. This company with 102 stockholders was organized on February 14. At that time the officers were elected and plans for the erection of the creamery were discussed.

Tuesday the by-laws were read and approved. The members voted to give the executive board the authority to incorporate the company, select a site and proceed with the erection of the building.

Henry is Not "Busted" Yet. Total assets of $384,554,941.68 on December 31, 1920, are shown in the annual report of the Ford Motor company filed with the Michigan secretary of state. Cash on hand including deposits in banks, is given as $13,557,244.51. Liabilities of the company on unsecured indebtedness are shown as $143,025,300.61.

The report shows that 95,321 shares of the company's stock are owned by Henry Ford; 71,911 by Edsel B. Ford, and 5,413 by Mrs. Henry Ford.

Taking Chances. "Take a chance," urges the fellow who is selling blue sky stock, "That's the way the men of wealth got theirs." It sounds reasonable, maybe. It may sound especially plausible to a farmer. All the money he has ever made was when he took chances. He staked his seed against the hail and the drouth, the grasshoppers and the blight.

But make no mistake, the man whose investments have made him wealthy has not made his investment by "taking a chance." On the contrary, he has taken no chances. When he has invested it has been in something that was absolutely certain.

The farmer takes more chances than any other man in getting his money. There is no use of his taking any chances of losing it.—Northwest Farmstead.

Gone to Foreign Lands. Millions have gone. Millions are on the way while we are writing. Millions are being assembled for the same voyage across the sea. It's dollars we have in mind. Dollars to heal the woes suffered by little children smitten down by the grim specters of war, famine and disease. We wish we could give to every one of these dollars some magic power by which it would burst into a thousand multiples of itself the moment it touched the hand of the needy ones abroad.

But are any of us forgetting the manifold causes here at home that are dependent upon our generosity? Does our foreign giving mean so much additional personal sacrifice, or merely the turning of the stream of our generosity into other channels, which means the leaving of the old ones dry? Children's hospitals founded here, homes for the aged and poor, as well as institutions pledged to care for those who can never speak for themselves, have marked this ebbing tide of home-ward gifts. Let us hope that the bread cast upon the waters and feeding the hungry far away may come back after many days so multiplied to those who have flung it forth that the charities here at home, for awhile neglected, shall have at last a double portion.—Our Dumb Animals.
