Tuesday evening a number of friends assembled at the home of Mrs. Jake Ellenbaum to celebrate Lind Ellenbaum's birthday. Everyone reported that the party was a most enjoyable affair.

Gus Hofflander is in Princeton today. He is conducting a grocery store in Minneapolis and doing well. Gus came up to have some dental work done by Dr. McRae. He says that the doctor is the only man he permits to regulate his masticating machinery when it fails to operate right.

Mike Kenely is here from Los Angeles and will remain indefinitely. He formerly lived in Greenbush but left there 15 years ago for the west. Mr. Kenely was surprised to see so many improvements in Princeton and spoke in high praise of the roads radiating from the village into the rural districts.

Aaron McFadden was observed driving his fiver up one of the braces of the west branch bridge on Tuesday. We have read of timelizes climbing telephone poles and apple trees but never before heard of one ascending the steel braces of a bridge, although, we presume, it is just as easy for a Henry to perform this feat.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Foltz and Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Berggren drove up into Aitkin county on Sunday and spent the day. They went into the fastnesses of the forest, where big trees and tangled underbrush gave refuge to myriads of birds, said Syd, and he wished he could remain there for a week or two and enjoy the beauties of nature.

The storm which swept over Sherburne, Isanti and Anoka counties on Monday afternoon incapacitated the Elk River power plant and, as a consequence, for a couple of hours Princeton was without electrical conveniences. Power machinery could not be operated and lights were shut off. At the Princeton Co-operative creamery a vat of cream which had been pasteurized could not be cooled off and caused a loss, and the Union's linotype machine and presses were at a standstill.

A Recommendation.
"I saw the doctor you told me to see."
"Did you tell him I sent you?"
"Yes, I did."
"What did he say?"
"He asked me to pay in advance."
—Medical Journal.

Clippings From Atlantic Year Book.
"Blessed are they whose furniture is so inexpensive or so shabby that children and dogs are not excluded from its sacred precincts."

"The way to make a man repent is to forgive him before he repents, as we ourselves would wish to be forgiven, and to forgive him, not as a surprising act of virtue, but in good humor, because we are all absurd and all need forgiveness."

"The deaths of sons and daughters is not the worst calamity that can befall their parents. Perhaps in the crowd at Golgotha the mother of Judas envied Mary, as she stood below her crucified son."

"As I crossed the country, and saw the school house standing out in every tiniest hamlet, as the village church does in England, I learned that America stood by education; and a year later, when I saw what manner of men answered the call of the draft, I learned that education stood by America."

"By faith you can move mountains; but the important thing, is not to move the mountains, but to have the faith."

Swedish Lutheran.
In Zimmerman, Sunday school at 10 a. m.; morning service in Swedish at 11 a. m.

In Princeton, no Sunday school. The Princeton congregation will visit the county home and hold services there in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Members and friends of the Greenbush church are also invited to come. There will be no other services at Greenbush next Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid of Zimmerman meets on Thursday afternoon, September 29, with Mrs. Orlando Bastian. N. A. Almer, Pastor.

"The Old Swimmin' Hole."
"Oh, the old swimmin' hole! In the long, lazy days. When the hum-drum of school made so many run-aways." Ever fragrant memories are recalled by these lilting lines from James Whitcomb Riley's poem, and when next week you see Charles Ray in the character of Ezra, the carefree barefoot boy in "The Old Swimmin' Hole," you will live again your childhood days. While Ray has made a reputation in many juvenile roles, he is at his very best in this idyll. The laughs chase the lumps up and down your throat as you watch his love affair with the school flirt, how she jilts him and how the ever-faithful Esther fixes up so prettily that he succumbs to her charms. How he gets into a dozen scrapes and the amusing way he tumbles out of them are all depicted with a freshness and charm that captivate.

Once a Sucker Always a Sucker.
"Let's see," said the peddler. "Yes, this must be the house where my friend said he sold the lightning rods. So I guess I better offer my new-fangled butterless churn. I believe firmly in the old adage, 'Whom man has done man can do.'"—Philadelphia Ledger

A Big Job on Hand.
"Well, my boy, is your father at home?" asked the Sabbath-day caller.
"Yes, sir," was the boy's reply.
"Is he busy?"
"Is he? I'll say he is! He's up stairs wrestling with the Sunday paper!"—Yonkers Statesman.
