Lawyer F. L. McGhee succeeded in procuring a divorce for Mrs. Annie Lockrey Smith, from her husband Joseph Smith, in the District court last Saturday. Mrs. Smith at once invited her counsel to attend her wedding which takes place to-day, Mr. John Smith being the happy man. The parties are white, next in order will be some Afro-Americans.

The soiree by the Oriole Club Monday night proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season despite the unqualified rumors which were noised around the city. Minneapolis had a large representation present and every thing went merry as a marriage bell until early morn. The members may feel just gratified at their success in their inaugural entertainment.

The regular dramatic season at the new Olympic Theatre closes to-morrow. The season has been a profitable one to the proprietor and the public has been highly pleased. This is due in no small measure to the indefatigable exertions and judicious management of the popular Billy Wells, and as a compliment to him, proprietor Conley has tendered him a grand benefit which will take place Sunday evening June 1st. Every body will be there.

Any one interested in the sick-benefit, funeral-aid, and death-beneficiary associations of the United States can help make the statistics of their organizations for the forth-coming census more complete and disseminate the knowledge of the good work they are doing by sending the names of such societies as they may know of, and the address of their principal officers, to Mr. Charles A. Jenney, Special Agent of the Eleventh Census, 58 William street, New York City.

Next week at the Newmarket will be strong in genuine attractions. Beginning tomorrow, Sunday night the "Queen of Comedians" Miss Nellie McHenry will appear for four nights in her new melo drama "Lady Peggy." The plot is strong in comedy and sensation and also affords the sprightly actress an opportunity to display her most excellent singing and dancing. The play will draw crowded houses.

Hallen and Hart begin an engagement Thursday evening presenting the furiously funny farce comedy "Later On." The play is brimful of music, singing, dancing and fun and runs for three nights.

PILGRIM BAPTIST CHURCH.

One said Love those who humble and contradict you, for they are more useful to your perfection than those who flatter you. This is what the truth will do. Clear away the mists and give us the clear shining after rain. The pastor despite his impaired physical condition, gave us two sermons of power, fresh from the spiritual fount. Our present method of singing is meeting with the approbation of all, and we expect to continue it through the summer, solos and duets will be interspersed. Come and hear the report from the state Sunday School convention, by our delegate Mrs. J. W. Smith.

Sunday services as usual, morning subject: "How shall we Harmonize Love, Neighbor and Self?"

Deacons meeting Tuesday night, Wednesday Bible Study, Friday prayer and business meeting. We must come to this last meeting to get ready for the Association and look about for other matters of importance.

Rev. R. Taylor has been granted permission to baptize in our pool Sunday at 3 P. M.

The question has been asked. Does Pilgrim church appreciate the services rendered by its present pastor? We will leave this for its members to answer.

Rev. L. C. Sheafe expects to change his place of residence about the 1st of June, to 503 St. Anthony avenue.

The Association to which we belong meets with the Calvary Baptist church of Minneapolis, June 26. We must get into line for it.

ST. JAMES A. M. E. CHURCH.

Sunday was a glorious day to us all. God was with his people and blessed them. There were a large number who remained to the class-meeting. It is joyous to hear christians say, "I know that I am God's child." To have such an experience to live with is to be happy but better still, as we come down to die it is glorious to be able to say in the face of death, "I know that Jesus is my redeemer." It was with this glad knowledge that the Rev. W. C. Trevan approached the grave, and back from the gathering shadows he called to his weeping friends telling them that all is well with his soul. For over thirty years he has preached salvation through faith in Jesus, and in the hour and article of death he found that he had built his house upon the rock. Thus our fathers go to sleep, trusting in the Savior. How glorious to think that they shall rise again. We may have crosses and trials here below, but one moment in glory will make up for them all. Let us follow on, "This is the path our fathers trod."

There is now a chain of A. M. E. churches from St. Paul to Portland, Ore. This is what grows out of the grand work done by Rev. S. B. Jones, as an humble servant of God, at Helena.

There are always a few citizens who will take hold to help the race, and it is due to the aid of such noble persons that churches are built up under God.

The statistics quoted in the sermon last Sabbath night were taken from the Budget, Rev. Debaptist's report, and the Year books.

To-morrow night there will be a "Memorial Service" held to the memory of the late Rev. W. C. Trevan, our former presiding Elder. The Revs. Williamson and James have been invited to be present. The choir which is steadily improving, will render a special musical service appropriate to the occasion. All are invited.

I have lately made the acquaintance of over one hundred strangers.

J. M. HENDERSON, Pastor.

The Culinary Alliance opened hostilities against the hotels Monday when its executive head called out the entire crew of waiters at the Commercial Hotel and issued a specific order to the crew of the Tremont to throw aside their aprons and report at the headquarters on La Salle street. The waiters at the Tremont, for some reason or other, did not pay any attention to the order, but kept on attending to their duties just as if nothing unusual had occurred. This, in view of the fact that a considerable majority of them are members in good standing of the alliance, was looked upon as rank mutiny and it brought out another order to report at Quinn Chapel immediately upon quitting work Monday night. A good many of the men obeyed this order, and, it is claimed, promised to join the ranks of the strikers Tuesday morning, but just how many could not be learned. One reason why they refused to obey the original order of the alliance was that Manager Rathbone had voluntarily in-

All kinds of legal business attended to promptly.

At a meeting of the Barbers' Union Tuesday evening the question of admitting Colored barbers was brought up and discussed, at length the Constitution of the Union provides that no Colored man shall be admitted as a member of the Union, but many receive some benefits therefrom on certain conditions. John G. Sterrett was present and championed the rights of the Colored barbers in an able manner, and it is not improbable that the obnoxious clause of the constitution may be so amended as to give just recognition to the many Colored barbers of the city.

A very unique and interesting entertainment for the benefit of St. James A. M. E. church is promised for an early date. It will be a prize drill between a company of ladies and a company of gentlemen. All the most difficult drill tactics in use will be employed, and for once, the ladies will be given an opportunity to display their superior grace of movement and skill in fancy marching. Mr. George H. Woodson will command the female phalanx, while the men will doubtless have some one equally as proficient to train them. Miss Fannie Shipman has the affair in charge.

The social event of the season took place Thursday evening May 15th, 1890 at the residence of Mrs. R. Burke, 503 24th, street S. where the Minneapolis Knights Sisters of Tabley, assisted by the Minneapolis Brotherhood of Prosperity gave a surprise party in honor of Miss Fannie Burke. It was a complete surprise all around, as those invited did not know who they were going to surprise, and Miss Fannie being invited to meet with the party, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith, never dreamed they were going to surprise her until within a few steps of her own home. Dancing was the feature of the evening and was indulged in till a late hour when an elaborate repast was served by the M. K. S. T. after which that order formed a circle in the center of the spacious parlors and were waited upon by the M. B. P's. After supper dancing was again resumed. Among those present were: M.

of 3 years old his parents in 1871 removed to Blackshear, Pierce County, Ga., where he has since resided. Received a common school and academic education, taught school in the rural districts, and with the proceeds derived from this occupation entered Clark University in Atlanta, Ga. Serving two terms, and learned the printer's trade while in school. Having served as an assistant teacher in the Blackshear Academy for a long time, was in 1888 elected principal but declined. After making an extensive trip throughout the Southern states, returned home, worked at the bench with his father, but being repeatedly requested to give instructions, retired from the workshop and accepted the teachership of the Patterson school. Was converted in 1886, was for a number of years secretary in the Sunday School, after which was elected superintendent, also recording steward in the M. E. church. Having passed a very rigid civil service examination held in Savannah, Ga., on Feb. 11, 1890, was on the 26th of Feb., appointed to a position in the Signal Office, War Department as copyist in Washington, D. C., which position he now fills.

PILGRIM COMMANDERY,

Pioneer Commandery, K. T., (U. D.,) will give a musical and literary entertainment Thursday evening June 5th, at G. A. R. Hall, 350 E. Seventh street. The object of the entertainment is to raise funds to procure a commandery banner. The entertainment promises to be a very interesting and pleasant one, concluding with a grand promenade. Admission 50 cents.

Arrangements have been completed for an international fight between George Dixon, the Colored pugilist of Boston, and Nanc Wallace of England, to take place before the Pelican Club for a $2,500 purse and the feather-weight championship of the world.

WINNING WAITERS.

A Full and Complete Account of the Great Waiters' Strike Now on in the Windy City.

We are With you!

The Culinary Alliance opened hostilities against the hotels Monday when its executive head called out the entire crew of waiters at the Commercial Hotel and issued a specific order to the crew of the Tremont to throw aside their aprons and report at the headquarters on La Salle street. The waiters at the Tremont, for some reason or other, did not pay any attention to the order, but kept on attending to their duties just as if nothing unusual had occurred. This, in view of the fact that a considerable majority of them are members in good standing of the alliance, was looked upon as rank mutiny and it brought out another order to report at Quinn Chapel immediately upon quitting work Monday night. A good many of the men obeyed this order, and, it is claimed, promised to join the ranks of the strikers Tuesday morning, but just how many could not be learned. One reason why they refused to obey the original order of the alliance was that Manager Rathbone had voluntarily inand one lonely, solitary waiter, hustled in the dining-room of the Commercial hotel this morning. The rest of the waiters here were kitchen girls and any one that could be induced to work. The Palmer house also has a very small force, not more than fifteen waiters, and the management had hard work in serving the guests Tuesday morning. The executive committee of the strikers was pleasantly received by Manager Southgate of the Auditorium, who after a short parley, signed the scale of prices. The Brunswick hotel, corner Adams street and Michigan avenue, was next visited and in ten minutes had wheeled into line.

Tuesday night the Briggs House wheeled in line and the manager signed

The other day a Colored woman in North Carolina started for the hay mow to see how a hen was getting along that was sitting on some eggs. On entering the barn the woman was surprised to see the old hen taking her babies down herself. She would pick up one in her mouth and fly down with it, lay it down and continue the process until she carried them all down, thirteen, safe.

Requests of a Colored Man.

The estate of Henry Todd, Colored, of Darien, Ga., was wound up last week. At the time of his death, three years ago, his estate was said to be worth $80,000. It was not at that time known that some of this amount was his wife's estate. Her share amounted only to $5,000, however. He bequeathed to the Colored Baptist church 10 per cent of this, to his wife's church (white Presbyterian) 10 per cent, and to the Methodist (white and Colored) churches and to the Episcopal 5 per cent each. He also bequeathed to both the white and Colored schools a good percentage.

It was a beautiful expression made by the wife of Rev. T. Webb to her loved ones as she realized the approach of death "Jesus is going to steal me away from you all." Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

Perhaps there never was such a general outpouring of people as gathered at Zion Baptist church Sabbath afternoon to pay the last tribute of respect to the remains of the venerable Elder Wallace Shelton. Rev. J. Poindexter of Columbus, preached the funeral sermon, and many ministers of the city as well as those called here from other parts of the state, took part in the exercises.

"Jesus is coming to steal me away from you all" we among the last words of Mrs. E. Webb, wife of Rev. Thomas Webb, who died last week, which has suggested the following lines:

Jesus is coming to steal me away,
Daughter, be watchful of me as you may,
You will know not the moment, the hour, nor the day,
When Jesus is coming to steal me away.

Steal me away when He thinketh best,
Give me a home where the weary find rest,
Where the light of His presence outshineth the day.

There I shall dwell when He steals me away,
Steal me away from husband and son,
That they will not know it until I am gone;
Lost in their great grief they would urge me to stay.

If they knew He was coming to steal me away,
Let them work for the Lord, in His service to be found.

While I for His coming awaiteth the sound,
Let me pass over the river in spotless array,
Whenever He chooses to steal me away,
Having rested my cause in His own righteous hands.

I am ready, and waiting whenever He commands,
I can meet Him in peace, and His summons to obey.

Whenever He comes to steal me away,
Brightly the Sabbath sun shine o'er the land,
Gently murmured, my time is at hand,
It was just past the noon time of that holy day.

That Jesus came softly and stole her away.
